Foch Is Dead.
Killing the Turkey.
It Was Mellon's Plan.
The Pope's Special Train.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MARSHAL FOCH is dead. Farewell to a great warrior, a true man. He has gone and taken his wages, a name that will live in history, and the eternal gratitude of his countrymen.

IN COMMAND of all the Allied Armies, he had 10,000,000 men under his command, by far the greatest army gathered since men first began wholesale killing.

And his motto, that every man should adopt, was: "THE OFFENSIVE ALWAYS."

WALL STREET, which means twenty million Americans investing and speculating in stocks, could not decide yesterday to stay in or go out.

The cheerful game of usury, gradually drawing the country's resources into a few non-productive hands, held call money at 10 per cent.

MEN important in Wall Street will tell you "many stocks are worth more." Everybody knows it. And big investment trusts provide a stability hitherto unknown.

"But the powers are evidently determined to stop speculation at any cost, and probably can do it."

THE difference between European and American finance is the difference between a Monte Carlo roulette wheel and a wheel of the old gold mining days in the West.

The miners sat around a wheel with two zeros and an "eagle bird," which meant that the bank's percentage was 12 per cent on every bet made.

THE Monte Carlo wheel has only one zero, and when it turns up, if you bet on an even chance, they only take half of your money.

The Federal Reserve and the others in power would avoid unpopularity if they would say frankly what they mean to do instead of treating the investing public as a farmer treats his Thanksgiving turkey, chopping its head off without warning.

INDIVIDUALS seeking to create ill feeling between the President and Secretary Mellon will fail.

It has been represented that President Hoover, ignoring Mr. Mellon, ordered publicity of facts as to refunds on income taxes, collected in excess of the amounts due.

The fact is that Mr. Mellon outlined a plan for publicity more complete than Congress had suggested.

PRESIDENT HOOVER approved the plan as submitted by Mr. Mellon, and at Mr. Mellon's request, issued an executive order, putting Mr. Mellon's plan into effect.

There is no good reason why the government should retain taxes collected illegally, and no reason why any governmental official should hesitate to publish all facts, provided no business secrets of firms or individuals be revealed improperly.

THE figures will show that any refunds, big or little, have been offset, 10 to 1, by additional sums collected on account of inadequate tax payments.

This government does not desire to work injustice. Citizens should not be compelled to go to law to obtain justice, and it is the aim of the tax department to make that unnecessary.

ROME announces construction of a "pontifical railroad train" of five cars, to be built for the Pope.

One car will contain a pontifical throne and dining room, a second a chapel and a bedroom, a third quarters for the papal court.

There will be space for servants, and two locomotives are assigned by the Italian minister of public works to pull the train.

This indicates the Pope's intention to travel extensively, now that limited restoration of temporal power has put an end to confinement within the Vatican.

THIS is, officially, the first day of spring.

Some young gentlemen will begin at once on plans for spending a vacation, with pleasures.

Others will plan to work harder and get ahead more rapidly, in spite of warmer weather.

Which of the two groups will enjoy real leisure a few years hence?

RUSSIANS have been busy in India, making a backdoor attack on Britain that drove Russian business out of London.

Intense excitement in Bombay, British police and military guards stationed at strategic points, marked the arrest of Hindu Communists and seizure of their literature.

Other arrests were made yesterday in Calcutta and Poora.

HINDU Communists, accused of "waging war against the British King," are fairly well equipped with catchwords of Bolshevist communism.

But they are not equipped with weapons, do not know how to use them, and probably would not use them if they had them and knew how.

THE agitation is interesting as proving Russia's activity and persistent ignoring of the fact that you cannot make a rope of sand, or a successful revolution in a country like India.

NEW METRO PROPOSAL NEAR

A decision on the final form in which the Legislature will be asked to enact the Metropolitan District charter bill, which decision will rest mainly with W. L. Mellon, former Republican state chairman, after conference with representatives of opposing views, will come very soon, it is believed today.

A draft of a proposed amended bill is expected to be agreed upon in the next day or two for substitution or amendment to the bill resting in Senate committee at Harrisburg, the change to be made after a hearing by the committee, probably to be held next Tuesday.

DRAFT BEING PREPARED

Representatives of the city and county solicitors are believed to be working on this draft as the outcome of a conference held yesterday with Mr. Mellon by County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong and President of Council James F. Malone, together with attorneys.

Councilman Malone, upon inquiry today, stated that he has not receded one inch from his attitude in opposition to the charter bill as proposed and his conviction that it would result in an increase in city taxes of at least 30 per cent.

TAX BURDEN FEARED

Members of Council believe that their views that the extension of municipal facilities to the entire county, the transfer of municipal agencies and the consequent possibility of limitless increase in personnel will increase greatly the burden of city taxpayers are having an influence on individuals and corporations bearing the heaviest burden.

This is predicated on the fact that the city pays 65 per cent of the county taxes, in addition to all city taxes, and that the First and Second wards of the city, embracing the heaviest assessments, pay nearly one-third of the taxes.

BLAST SHAKES HOSPITAL

Windows were shattered in the Municipal Hospital, Bedford avenue, this afternoon when an explosion of undetermined origin occurred in the boiler room.

As far as could be determined, no one was injured and the damage was not serious.

At the hospital it was said that the explosion had occurred in the basement among the boilers that provide power for the hospital operations.

Issue Warrant for Death Plane Pilot

NEWARK, N. J., March 21.—(AP.)—Capt. Philip Sebold, of the police department, today announced that he would bring a technical charge of manslaughter against Lou Foote, pilot of the plane which crashed in the Newark meadows, killing 14, and obtained a warrant for his arrest.

Foote was the only survivor of the accident.

FOCH FUNERAL TUESDAY

PARIS, March 21.—The funeral of Marshal Ferdinand Foch, France's famous soldier, will be held on Tuesday, it was officially announced this afternoon by Gen. Weygand, the late marshal's chief of staff.

The highest honors the French republic can confer upon a passing warrior and national hero will mark the funeral of the generalissimo of the Allied armies at the end of the great war, who died late yesterday.

NOTABLES PAY TRIBUTE

Attired in the field uniform of a marshal of France, the body lay at rest today while a steady stream of notables visited the Foch home to extend their condolences to the widow.

Credit No Worry To President, Mellon View

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—In reply to questions, Secretary Mellon said today that the credit situation throughout the country had not yet reached the point where it has attracted the attention of President Hoover.

The secretary said he had discussed the credit status with the President casually, but that Mr. Hoover had not exhibited unusual interest in the matter.

LINDY AND ANNE SELECT JUNE AS WEDDING MONTH

MEXICO CITY, March 21.—(AP.)—Miss Anne Morrow is to be a June bride.

Miss Morrow and her fiance, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, themselves have authorized announcement they will be married in that month. They have not decided, however, whether the wedding is to take place in Mexico or in the United States.

The Colonel is expected to fly back to Mexico City within a few weeks for another visit with Miss Morrow, at which time something more definite as to their plans will be revealed.

The announcement of the incompleted wedding arrangements was made yesterday by persons close to the betrothed pair in line with promises nearly a month ago during the colonel's visit here that the plans of the young couple would be revealed in due ourse and that there would not be an elopement or secret wedding.

It was believed Ambassador Morrow might exert his influence to have the ceremony performed either in Mexico City or at Cuernavaca in view of the expressed wishes of the officers of the nation to which he is accredited.

RECITES STORY OF BLAST

One of the first men who came marching out of the old No. 1 entry of Kinloch mine after an explosion had wrecked the main entry today was Andrew Vrudney. He brought with him a graphic story of how Kinloch's men had behaved when the voice of death rumbled through the workings.

"I was in 23 right butt," said Vrudney. "She's three miles from tipple.

"I clean up the room. The cutters, they been there and the room is full up to the roof almost.

"I tossed some coal into my car, and then there was a noise. Like a train away off. The roof, she falls, I think.

"I say to my buddy, 'Ugh! How you like to be under that?' Then he say, 'Look! Smoke. My God!'

"We dropped them tools quick.

WORKINGS FREE OF GAS, TRAPPED MEN LED TO WAITING KIN

Twenty-seven miners still were reported trapped in the Kinloch mine of the Valley Camp Coal Company, near Parnassus, late this afternoon, and two were known dead seven hours after the explosion that rocked the countryside and wrecked the mine interior and workings.

Oliver F. Taylor, superintendent of the mine, announced the above as the official figures.

It was impossible to say whether they were dead or alive, for rescuers had been unable reach them.

Two hundred twenty-three miners were safe. They had scrambled out of a dark, dank hole in the earth, escaping death by fire, concussion and deadly fumes.

Hope had not been abandoned for those still trapped late today, but the situation was gloomy. Along the banks surrounding the mine there were prayers on the lips of hundreds of women and children that the gaseous walls of the underground tunnels had not already burst into unrelenting flames.

Two Bodies Recovered

The explosion and the subsequent flames destroyed the tipple and the adjoining fan house and reverbated throughout the Allegheny Valley. Every window in Kinloch was smashed.

At noon the two bodies had been found in the mine, one miner had been carried to safety, and the 153 miners who escaped had reached the surface through the No. 1 exit, five miles distant from the explosion at the mine entrance on Puckety Creek road.

At 1:30 o'clock the latest group of survivors—15—were led to the surface by Assistant Foreman John Murhamer.

At 2 o'clock electric fans were rushing clean air through the mine and forcing the gaseous air out of the No. 1 exit. This was regarded as an indication that the flames had died out.

The two reported as dead were William and Charles Oliver, brothers, found in the 300-foot slope at the Kinloch entry, where the blast occurred.

There were no official figures available on the disaster.

Oliver F. Taylor, superintendent of the mine, estimated that 210 men had already reached the surface and that between 30 and 50 remain entombed.

Twelve mine employes, working on the surface near the tipple, were hurled to the ground by the explosion. Two were reported injured seriously.

W. J. McGregor, state mine inspector, telephoned to authorities in Harrisburg, that the explosion was caused by the breaking of the steel belt conveyor.

Spark Ignites Dust

"Part of the conveyor was precipitated back down the slope," McGregor reported, "and a spark from the hurtling equipment ignited coal dust."

Two squads of 14 men went into the wrecked Kinloch entry at 11:30 o'clock. They were led by G. W. Graves and R. D. Curry, of the Bureau of Mines. The Inland Steel Company contributed seven men from its safety teams at its Indianola plant. There were five rescue workers from the Union Collieries Company's mine at Renton.

They found a body half-way down the slope, Graves reported, and continued into the mine for several hundred

GRIEF AND JOY MINGLE AS FIRST OF MINERS COME OUT

WIVES WAIT BY BURNING TIPPLE

The agony of suspense and the joy of reunion jostled for place in the hearts of Kinloch's people today.

For four hours today after exploding gas had made the shaft entrance of the mine an inferno, wives and children of men who had entered the pit waited near the blazing tipple—and hoped.

They knew that their men could reach daylight by the north entrance, where the drift entry of the old Valley Camp mine runs into its junction with the newer workings of the Kinloch mine.

ALL KNEW DANGER

They knew, too, that a mine explosion is likely to bring down the roof and to choke the headings with coal and rock. And they did not know what was going on at the Valley Camp entrance.

Then down the road there was a cloud of dust and into view hove a truck loaded with grimy men. Another truckload was close behind.

From the crowd around the tipple a shout went up that drowned out the crackle of smoldering embers. There were embraces and handclasps. The truckloads had come from the Valley Camp entry.

HORROR DESCRIBED

But the joy of the fortunate ones was tempered, for in the crowd were women and sons and daughters who still were left to guess at whether their breadwinners were coming back to them.

One of the men who escaped, Stanley Powlaski, described his experience.

"We went down the mouth of the mine a mile or so, me and my buddy. We heard a roar. 'My God! Explosion!' my buddie hollered. There wasn't gas or fumes. So we go back. We got to the Valley Camp entry and out."

NURSES RUSHED TO MINE

Six Red Cross nurses from the Pittsburgh Chapter of the American Red Cross are today working among the sufferers at the Kinloch mine. They were sent in response to appeals from the mining community, and preparations were made to place all the facilities of the local chapter at the disposal of the stricken people. Miss Mercedes Flower and Miss Gertrude Ernest are in charge.

The nurses hastened to the scene in a high-powered automobile within an hour after their summons to emergency duty. A. K. Oliver, chairman of the Pittsburgh chapter, directed that every possible aid be tendered the sufferers. Mrs. Frances Speer Reed, executive secretary, collected hospital supplies, first aid materials and emergency kits to be ready for instant use at the scene of the disaster. Fifty cots and blankets were included in the supplies.

Mine Rescue Crews Rushed From W. Va.

WHEELING, W. Va., March 21.—Thirty-two expert mine rescue men from the four mines operated by the Elm Grove Coal Company, a subsidiary of the Valley Camp Coal, were rushed by automobile to the Parnassus mine.

The West Virginia Bureau of Mines has wired that it is ready to rush rescue crews. The Contanzo Coal Company is holding a rescue crew in readiness. The Stifel Flying Club, of Moundsville, has offered four airplanes with pilots to carry rescuers to the scene.

Four Rescue Teams Sent From Fairmont

FAIRMONT, W. Va., March 21.—(AP.)—The Consolidated Coal Company today ordered out four teams of mine rescue workers to go to the Valley Camp Coal Company's mine near Parnassus, Pa., where an explosion occurred this morning. The teams were fully equipped. They were to make the trip by automobiles.

KINLOCH'S LOCATION

feet. They found no signs of fire and returned to the surface without bringing out the body found in the shaft.

It was reported that 12 men had been working at the foot of the shaft, but the searchers found no trace of them.

A white miner, Raymond Tolmbin, reported that he had seen a companion, John Roxey, of Kinloch, stumble and collapse on the way to the No. 1 entry, then fall into shallow water. Tolmbin thought Roxey had been overcome by gas.

Four miners in the H. W. Boyd mine, which is connected by an entry to the Kinloch mine, rushed to the surface when the explosion shook the pit in which they were working.

Several miles from the main heading, they were unable to bring word as to the fate of the entombded men.

The first two victims of the explosion to be recovered were found near the tipple. They were taken to the Citizens General Hospital, where a cursory examination showed them to be suffering from burns and shock.

One was identified as Charles Hemphill, of Parnassus. Hemphill, a mechanic, was believed to have been working around the tipple when the explosion occurred.

The second injured man in the hospital was identified as T. C. Jones, of Kinloch, employed on the surface. Hemphill was a member of the mine rescue squad.

Tipple and Fan House Burn

The explosion occurred one hour after the day shift of approximately 300 miners had gone into the earth.

The tipple and fan house outside the main mouth were virtually destroyed by fire.

So great was the force of the explosion that the steel beams of the tipple were either twisted and snapped in two and its remaining skeleton was quickly consumed by flames.

Outside the main heading hundreds of women and children awaited news of husbands, fathers and relatives who were trapped by the flames.

When reports reached them that some of the miners were escaping from the second entrance there was a mad rush for that scene.

The explosion shatered practically every window pane in Kinloch and hurled many residents out of their beds. In New Kensington, Parnassus, Arnold and other nearby towns the force was felt distinctly and the rush to the mine followed.

Hastily dressed women, barefooted youngsters barely awake, anxious, weeping wives—these were among the hundreds who thronged the Puckety Creek road watching rescuers attempting to pierce the main mine entrance.

For three miles two streams of autos covered the road, making progress almost impossible.

The Kinloch mine, a slope operation using electrical equipment, has a daily capacity of 4,000 tons and normally employs 392 men.

A call was sent out to nearby mines for at least 100 charged safety lamps, when it was found the supply at Kinloch had been exhausted.

AWAIT VICTIMS

Outside the north exit and the main heading squads of physicians, nurses and rescuers stood awaiting the first victims to be brought to earth.

Inhalators, rushed to the scene by the Mines Safety Appliance, were readied to apply to overcome miners.

The Kinloch mine is four miles in an air line from the illfated Harwick mine where 25 years ago 182 men lost their lives. Only one man escaped alive from the Harwick mine.

From the Bureau of Mines Forbes street station a picked squad of rescue men were rushed to the scene and from Russelton Rescue Car No. 3 started for the mine.

Thomas Courtney, manager of the Pittsburgh district operations of the Valley Camp Coal Company, with offices in the Park Building, left for the Kinloch mine early today.

Philip Murray, international vice president, and Patrick T. Fagan, president of District No. 5 of the United Mine Workers, also went to the scene.

OPEN SHOP MINE

The Kinloch mine was organized as a union operation in 1916. The miners went on strike on April 1, 1927, when the company refused to renew the Jacksonville agreement, which provided for a basic wage of $7.50 a day. The mine has since been worked with strikebreakers.

During the union regime, William Hargest, secretary of District No. 5 of the United Mine Workers, said today, the company employed between 750 and 800 men in the Kinloch mine.

The Valley Camp Coal Company has mines in Pennsylvania and West Virginia. J. A. Paisley, of Cleveland, is president. During the Senate investigation of the coal strike a year ago, Paisley offered to turn the Kinloch mine over to the union miners and let them operate it themselves, provided they would pay him a specified return on his investment. The union declined the offer.

Damage to the machinery and tipple was estimated at $200,000 by Oliver F. Taylor, mine superintendent.

Mothers, Fathers To Meet Today

The mothers and fathers of the Washington and Lincoln Kindergarten will meet in Lincoln building, Ralston place and Bedford road Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Miner, Safely Out, Returns To Find 'Buddy'

Andrew Ambrose, white miner, was working with others in No. 11 head in Kinloch mine when the blast came. They did not hear the roar of the explosion, but they smelled the odor of the gas it sent swirling through the headings.

"It smelled like raspberries," Ambrose said. "We rushed out for our lives. We got lost half a dozen times. It took us two hours to reach the mouth of old No. 1. Some of the boys got lost up an idle heading, and it was half an hour before they found us again. We had to wade in water to our waists to get out."

It was the first day in the mine for Charles Severn, of Kinloch, an assistant foreman. He was in 2,000 feet with 30 men. They didn't know there had been an explosion, Severn said, until men came running by the rooms his gang was working in.

John Mack, a white miner, of Arnold, congratulated himself. He overslept this morning and missed his turn.

John Jobak and William Tyson staggered out of No. 1 entry, supporting John Speszowski between them. They had come from No. 5 heading, stumbling for four miles through water and over broken rock. For the last mile they had half-carried Speszowski, sickened by gas fumes.

One miner walked into the light of day at Entry No. 1, gulped in the fresh air, and asked for a fellow worker. No one had heard of his friend coming out.

"Hell," said the miner who had emerged, "I'm going back. I saw him and about 10 other men wandering around back by heading No. 8. They must've got lost."

And he went back.

Propeller Kills Man After Flight

CHICLAYO, Peru, March 21.—There's danger in leaving an airplane. Lizardo Barta, government auditor, was killed when he walked into the whirling propeller after a flight.

BOSS LEADS 19 MINERS TO SAFETY

"For God's sake, go back! Hell's busted loose! She'll full of smoke and fire!"

A mine car conductor (he's called a snapper in the mines) shouted those words as he stumbled through the inky darkness of Kinloch mine's main heading and ran into four workers headed for the danger he had just fled.

The four were George Ropcho, Adolph Kablonski, Steve Tracy and Vincent Hilowski, all of Kinloch. All but Kablonski are married men.

AIR WAVES WARN

They had been working three miles from the tipple when a rush of cold air swept through the heading, succeeded by a warmer wave. There was no sound. Then dust began to sift down from ledges of coal.

The four started to run. They met the snapper and turned back, confused. Other men joined them. There were 19 in all, scurrying like like frightened moles through the black tunnels.

A voice cut through the blackness. It was that of Robert Stevenson, of Parnassus, a fire boss.

'Calm down, you boys," he shouted. "Follow me. We'll get out through old No. 1. But keep your heads, and don't let them lamps go out."

A fire boss must know his mine. It is his duty to see that all the abandoned butts and outworked headings are safe, that gas is not being generated in idle rooms. Stevenson knows iKnloch as a rabbit knows its warren.

PLUNGE THROUGH WATER

He led them out. Through water sometimes up to their chins, with men falling and the lamps flickering dangerously as the after damp grew dense and the water splashed about them.

The men reached the old entry and the open air. They were joyful. They had been lucky, and they knew of only One to thank.

So they hunted up the Rev. Dr. Casimir Orlemanski, of the Natrona Heights Catholic Church, and he helped them to express their gratitude in simple words of praise.

FLAMES CAUSE $50,000 LOSS

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 21.—Fire swept several buildings of the Charles Landay Company, junk dealers, and leaped to half a dozen houses and stores adjoining, this afternoon, causing loss estimated at $50,000.

Washington and Canonsburg firemen battled to keep the flames, fanned by a high wind, from spreading farther.

Two women, Mrs. Helen Ward and Mrs. Cora Patterson, fainted from excitement, the latter when her baby was carried out of her home by a neighbor.

12 Killed in Same Mine 13 Months Ago Today

After thirteen months to a day, history repeated itself tragically in the Kinloch mine disaster.

On February 21, 1928, 12 men lost their lives in Kinloch mine when a gas explosion filled the workings with after damp. Two others died in a similar explosion in the Boyd mine nearby.

Since that tragedy the Kinloch mine had made a record of "never-an-accident" for the 13 months. Two weeks ago the operators received a safety diploma from the United States Bureau of Mines in recognition of the mine's record.

AUTO "PICKUP" SUSPECT FINED

George Psilias alias 'George the Greek," of 906 Locust street, in Central Police Court today was fined $25 on a charge of having molested Miss Mary Mattan, of the Saybrook Apartments, while she was waiting for a street car in Diamond street, near Liberty avenue, late yesterday. The young woman did not appear.

'Police testified that Psilias had invited the young woman to ride in his automobile. After Psilias was lodged in the police station a loaded revolver was found in the police patrol. The officers testified that there had been no prisoners in the patrol with Psilias and they accuse him of discarding the revolver.

GERMANY GETS ALLIES' DEBT PROPOSAL

PARIS, March 21.—(AP.)—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, will take with him to Berlin tonight, it is learned, the offer of the Allied experts on reparations to accept 1,750,000,000 marks (about $420,000,000) as the figure for the German reparations annuities.

The Allies' offer carried with it various other conditions which were not revealed.

CALLS CONFERENCE

Dr. Schacht has given no indication that the German government will accept the Allies' offer. He has telegraphed Dr. Rudolf Hilferding, minister of finance, to call a meeting at Berlin of the great provincial industrialists and heads of the German institutions so that he may explain the present situation of the reparations negotiations.

The German banker asked this meeting deliberately, it was understood, so that responsibility for acceptance or conditional refusal would be widely shared not only by the government but by the great leaders of German industry and finance.

REDUCTION SEEN

The figure of 1,750,000,000 marks is understood to represent reparations payments of all categories. This would entail a reduction of the present annuities under the Dawes plan of between seven and eight hundred million gold marks.

NORWAY'S HEIR APPARENT WED

OSLO, Norway, March 21.—(INS.)—In one of the most elaborate and picturesque ceremonies ever staged in this historic capital, Crown Prince Olaf, of Norway, heir to the throne of his father's, was married in the Church of Our Saviour, today, to Princess Marthe, of Swaden.

Thousands of people, who had made the pilgrimage to Oslo from all parts of Scandinavia to witness the ceremony, thronged the streets outside, while in the beautiful church a distinguished assembly of guests watched the future Norwegian king plight his troth at the altar to the beautiful dark-haired Swedish princess.

The wedding was followed by a state luncheon at the royal palace, presided over by King Haakon and the queen, and attended by many royal visitors from all parts of Europe.

Thousands of troops, including the whole garrison of Oslo, guarded the route from the palace to the church.

GOWN SECRET GUARDED

Crown Prince Olaf arrived at the church in an automobile with the Duke of York, son of King George of England.

Princess Marthe was accompanied to church by her father, who escorted her to the altar, followed by the bride's maids.

The couple made their vows, then knelt to receive the bishop's blessing.

The bride's gown was kept a secret until this morning. It proved to be of silver color, trimmed with Brussels lace. It had a two foot train of the same material, trimmed with roses.

BRIDE'S MAIDS IN BLUE

The train bearers were Marthe's nephews, Prince George and Fleming, sons of Prince Axel, of Denmark.

The bride's maids were dressed in light blue tulle frocks, adorned with many frills and cut rather low in the back.

The ceremony, which links the Norwegian and Swedish royal families, was performed on the stroke of noon by Bishop Johan Lunde, of Oslo.

Princess Marthe had eight bridesmaids, four from her native land, and four from that of her husband. Of these, Princess Ingrid, the beautiful daughter of the Crown Prince of Sweden, was the most noteworthy. The gowns of the bridal retinue were prepared under the personal supervision of Queen Maud of Norway.

All of Oslo was in gala attire for the ceremony. Today is a national holiday in honor of the event and almost the entire population of the city turned out to witness the occasion.

No ceremony in recent years has attracted so many members of ruling European families.

'Hex' Victim

VERNA OCTAVIA DELP

VICTIM IN 'HEX' CASE BURIED

ALLENTOWN, Pa., March 21—(AP.)—With a crowd of curious countryfolk gathered outside, funeral services for Verna Octavia Delp, suspected victim of "pow-wowism," were held today in the little farm house of her foster-father, Augustus Derhammer.

Authorities meanwhile continued their examination of the girl's vital organs for a trace of poison without success and they were inclined to place little credence in their earlier theory of poisoning. District Attorney E. A. Gearhart announced he has received information that Miss Delp was seen riding with a man in an automobile shortly after she disappeared last Friday morning and not far from the spot where her body was discovered.

Gearhart said he knew the man and an arrest of the suspect was imminent.

The belief that the death of the girl was connected with the practice of witchcraft was advanced with the finding of numerous so-called charms and puzzling "pow-wow" recipes for curing illness which were found on her body.

Thieves Chop Way Into Candy Store

Chopping a hole through a rear wall, thieves early today stole cigarets and confections valued at $250 from the store of Herman Harris, 310 Flowers avenue. Harris reporting the robbery said that $5 in cash had been removed from the cash register.

GRIM BATTLE WAGES FOR MAZATLAN

MEXICO CITY, March 21.—(INS.)—Fierce hand-to-hand fighting was reported from Mazatlan, where what is described as the first real battle of the present revolution is under way.

Outnumbered three to one, but desperately determined to "hold on to the last," Gen. Carrillo, federal commandant of the garrison there, telegraphed President Portes Gil requesting reinforcements to aid him.

6,000 AGAINST 2,000

The federal garrison was said by government officials to number approximately 2,000 men, while the rebels, led by Gen. Francisco Manzo, were estimated at 6,000 or more.

The rebels are believed to have cut the telegraph wires outside of Mazatlan, for the government has received no word from Gen. Carrillo since his wire requesting aid.

BARRIERS STORMED

At that hour he said the rebels were charging the federal intrenchments in massed waves and that all his machine gun platoons in the trenches were receiving them with devastating fire.

LEGISLATURE AT STANDSTILL

2—The voting machine bill, out of committee only a few hours, is to be passed.

3—The bill that would increase the gasoline tax from three to four cents has not yet been introduced.

4—The motor code, passed by the House in spite of objections, is in a Senate committee.

5—The $50,000,000 soldiers' bonus, passed by the House, is in a Senate committee.

6—The Pittsburgh metropolitan district bill as now drawn will die in committee but a substitute will go through.

French War Vets Pittsburgh Guests

Pittsburgh was host for a few hours last night to more than two score French Army and Navy officers, delegates from the Association Amicale de Croix de Guerre to the American Legion in Indianapolis, who passed through here on their return to Washington. The delegation included the association's president, Admiral Ferdinand Guepratte, commander of the French Dardanelles fleet in the World War; Gen. Boulet Desbarrou, Baron de Colluert of the Belgian Army, and Count Pusy de La Fayette, a descendant of the revolutionary marquis.

47-CENT BANK BALANCE WINS $10 THRIFT AWARD

ONCE more the value of maintaining a "nest egg," no matter how small, in the savings bank has been demonstrated by the Sun-Telegraph's campaign to promote thrift.

By virtue of having a 47-cent balance in the savings department of the Sheraden Bank of Pittsburgh, Mrs. I. Irene Reitenbaugh, of 3034 Stafford street, Sheraden, has received a $10 thrift gift from this paper, deposited to the credit of her bank book, No. 5,021.

A week ago Mrs. Michael Antkiewicz, of 2821 Penn avenue, received from the Sun-Telegraph a $50 addition to her 64-cent "nest egg" in the Union Savings Bank.

Mrs. Reitenbaugh some time ago had $80 on deposit in the Sheraden Bank, but occasion arose to withdraw the money. Forty-seven cents interest had accrued. She prudently left the interest remain that the account might not be closed out—for she had in mind to resume saving against another emergency. It happened that her number was among those chosen by the Sun-Telegraph for thrift awards.

James Bramby, 17, living with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Lyon, at 417 Maline street, North Side, has received a $10 thrift reward, deposited to the credit of his passbook, No. 1,656 in the Perry State Bank. He is a student at the Perry High School. His grandparents have always encouraged him to save money. Recently he bought an automobile with his savings, withdrawing all of his money but $1. That "nest egg" has brought him $10.

Sun-Telegraph Encourages Savings Bank Depositors

To stimulate thrift the Sun-Telegraph will deposit $25 to the credit of the first bank book in the following list, $20 to the credit of the second, $15 to the credit of the third, $10 each to the credit of the fourth and fifth, and $5 each to the credit of the others. If you hold one of these bank books, bring it to the Sun-Telegraph office, Gazette Square, and present it to Robert N. Laughlin, cashier.

Amount	Name of Bank	Book No.
$25	Pennsylvania Trust Company	16,458
$20	Pennsylvania Savings Bank	20,018
$15	Homewood Peoples Bank	22,383
$10	Terminal Trust Company	652
$10	Monongahela Trust Company	10,633
$ 5	St. Clair Savings & Trust Company	9,135
$ 5	Diamond National Bank	43,914
$ 5	American State Bank & Trust Co.	3,784
$ 5	First National Bank	45,271

The books designated may be presented during business hours any time within a week, but not later than 5 p. m. Thursday, March 28.

Any bank in Greater Pittsburgh having savings or thrift accounts may have its pass book numbers included in these thrift gift lists by a request from a bank official to the Sun-Telegraph Thrift Department.

Watch tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph for more information of interest to savings bank depositors.

WAITING FOR NEWS OF RELATIVES

Like these anxious women, pictured standing as near the mine mouth as police would allow, scores stood about for news of friends or relatives trapped below.

SHAFT ENTRANCE SUPERSTRUCTURE WRECKED BY BLAST

The theory advanced is that in this shaft a steel conveyor belt broke, striking a spark into coal dust from the falling coal, thus causing the blast and blocking the mouth.

LAYS BELL RUIN TO MINE SLUMP

The financial ruin of John A. Bell, Carnegie banker and coal operator, was laid to the 1924 mine slump by Attorney H. Fred Mercer in arguing an appeal in the State Supreme Court filed by James N. Jarvis, Bell bankruptcy trustee, against John A. Bell, Jr., in which a new trial was asked in a suit brought to recover the $200,000 proceeds of the sale of the Bell farm on Coraopolis Heights.

"SOLVENT IN 1923"

The contention was made that Bell was insolvent at the time he conveyed the farm to his son in 1923. The son denied this. The farm, valued at $1,400,000, was sold for $200,000, which went to the Colonial Trust Company and the Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A., which held notes given by the son for the benefit of his father. While Bell, Jr., appeared as defendant, he did not get the money and asked only vindication. The lower court had returned a verdict for the defendant.

Attorney Mercer declared that John A. Bell was a rich man when he deeded the farm to his son, being worth $6,000,000 above his liabilities. He said the coal business was good in 1923 and it was not until the Western Pennsylvania operators signed the Jacksonville scale in 1924 that the business began to slump. After that Western Pennsylvania coal operators could not compete with Kentucky and West Virginia fields operating non-union, he said.

CLAIM DISPUTED

Attorney Edwin W. Smith argued for the appellant, urging that a new trial be granted. He contended that Bell was insolvent when he deeded the farm, and, such being the case, said his creditors were defrauded.

The argument continued today.

English Law of 1360 Invoked in Dry Case

BEAVER, Pa., March 21.—After a jury had acquitted Joseph Phillips, of Beaver Falls, of violation of the liquor laws, Judge Frank E. Reader called the defendant to the bar and directed that he furnish bond of $5,000 to insure his good behavior in the future. In this action the court invoked an old English law of 1360. Lewis Phillips, a young brother of Joe, found guilty of possession of liquor, was put under a similar bond. The brothers were committed to Sheriff William V. Kennedy until satisfactory bonds are furnished.

ROTARIANS BACK TAX SLASH DRIVE

More than 200 hands were raised by members of the Rotary Club of Pittsburgh in registering their protest against the Federal tax on earned incomes when the question was put to them at their luncheon meeting at the Fort Pitt Hotel yesterday.

The expression was practically unanimous, Robert H. Wilson, president of the club, announced. It placed the organization on record with other leading professional and civic bodies of Pittsburgh that have indorsed the movement launched by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers for a revision downward of the tax on earned incomes.

CHEER RESULT

"Today we are scheduled to give an expression of our views on the proposal to petition Congress to cut the tax on earned incomes," said President Wilson. "Individually many of us already have signed petitions or have been quoted as favoring revision, but today I want an expression from you as Rotarians. Those who favor a reduction of the tax on earned incomes will please raise their right hands."

"Hurrah—rah! Rah!" A cheer followed as practically every man in the room raised his right hand.

"The Rotary Club of Pittsburgh is practically unanimous for downward revision," President Wilson announced amid applause.

DELUGE OF MAIL

Clerks in the office of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph are kept busy handling the volume of mail bringing petitions from all parts of Western Pennsylvania. These petitions come voluntarily from readers of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and in many communities those who put their signatures on petition forms clipped from the paper obtain other signers among their neighbors. Bulky petitions also are received from stores and offices where the entire personnel joins in the movement.

Additional petitions have been placed in drug stores, cigar stands and other public places, and volunteer solicitors of petition signatures indicate the popularity of the movement.

ESTEP BACKS MOVE

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Rep. Harry A. Estep, of Pittsburgh, today added his voice to that of other members of the Pennsylvania Congressional group, in favor of the proposal for granting further exemption to earned incomes in paying federal income taxes.

While unwilling to commit himself on any definite limit of immunity for the present, the Pittsburgh member gave his whole-hearted indorsement to the taxation policy allowing special credit to incomes actually earned as against those derived from business holdings.

In one way, Rep. Estep would go further than the proposal urged by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. He declared himself in favor of abolishing all surtaxes on earned incomes up to $30,000.

ON WAYS COMMITTEE

As a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, having original jurisdiction over all tax legislation, Estep's indorsement will carry unusual weight. He will be called upon to assist in framing any new tax reduction bill which Congress may undertake in the near future.

"Taxpayers," he said, "should certainly not be required to pay these surtaxes. Already Congress has recognized the policy of giving earned incomes a special credit allowance of 25 per cent and there is every reason to extend this further."

Payroll Holdup Plan Foiled, 3 Fined $50

Three alleged highwaymen, who, city detectives say, were arrested while enroute to commit a payroll robbery near Monongahela, were fined $50 each today when arraigned before Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Central Police court. They are Louis Lokas, 23, of 711 Margaret street, Mt. Oliver; Joseph Brown, 26, of 303 Hoff street, Troy Hill, and John Marone, 22, of 418 Third avenue.

Brown informed detectives yesterday that his companions had invited him to participate in a payroll robbery near Monongahela. Detectives arrested the three when they were leaving Marone's rooming house.

"ADVISED HARDING ADVOCATE DRY LAW"—DAUGHERTY

LIFELONG FRIEND TELLS OF HARDING ASSOCIATIONS

This is the third and final article based on an exclusive interview with Harry M. Daugherty. In previous articles Daugherty defended his record as attorney general as well as the character of the late President Warren G. Harding under whom he served.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service
(Copyright, 1929, by International News Service.)

SARASOTA, Fla., March 21.—Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general in the cabinet of the late President Warren G. Harding, pictured Harding as "a loyal friend and a great President" in an exclusive interview with International News Service at his winter home here. He also reminisced on his long association with Harding and related several incidents revealing the vital part he played in Harding's career.

"Harding was like a younger brother to me," said Daugherty, as he recalled the 'old days' when he and Harding were both in politics in Ohio. "I enjoyed every minute of my association with him. He was the most charming man I ever knew. We had one big fight—and only one. But I won't tell you what it was about."

"MIND OF HIS OWN"

Daugherty was asked to reveal the extent of his influence with the late President, and this was his reply:

"They thought because I was close to President Harding and had helped him in his political rise that I was the last word. I was in some things, but Harding was a man with a mind of his own, no one would be appointed against my protest, but Harding selected his own cabinet.

Discussing the "old days" when Harding was United States Senator from Ohio, Daugherty said he was convinced at that time that Harding was of presidential caliber.

ADVISED DRY STAND

Daugherty said that it was he who suggested to Harding that the latter should advocate prohibition and woman suffrage. He revealed this upon declining to give his views on prohibition and dry enforcement.

"I was author of the resolution that committed the Republican party to prohibition in Ohio," said Daugherty. "Harding was chairman of the convention and I was chairman of the committee on resolutions. I thought that inasmuch as Harding was going to be President that he should stand for two things—women suffrage and prohibition. I saw they were coming. However, I never co-operated with the Anti-Saloon League.

"Harding was an attractive man. I thought when the war was over the people wanted a man of peace—a kindly man. Harding was a man of peace. Gen. Leonard Wood was military. Everyone thought Wood would be elected. Harding did, too. I said he would not. I told Harding he would be elected."

MADE ENEMIES

Daugherty declared he never craved power and that he did not want to be named Attorney General of the United States. He wanted to continue as a lawyer, but, he said, he permitted President Harding to prevail upon him to accept the post.

Daugherty declared he and Harding made enemies in carrying out government policies. He said that by inclination he likes to say "Yes" to people, but after a while he "wore a groove" in his tongue saying "No."

Coolidge Praises School Girl for Coolidge Poem

TAUNTON, Mass., March 21.—(AP.)—A 14-year-old school girl, Thereau B. Raymond, of this town, yesterday received from former President Calvin Coolidge a letter congratulating her on her poem entitled "Calvin Coolidge," published recently in a children's magazine.

"My dear young lady," the letter read, "permit me to thank you for the poem in St. Nicholas, not because it is about me but because it is good. It shows you can work and think. I hope you will study hard and keep on working and thinking."

Eaker Asks New Try At Dawn-Dusk Flight

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 21.—(AP.)—Capt. Ira Eaker has asked the Army Air Service for permission to make a third dawn-to-dusk aerial attempt between Brownsville, Tex., and Panama, he revealed last night. Eaker arrived here yesterday from Brownsville, whence he had come from Tampico, Mex., where his second dawn-to-dusk effort ended in failure due to bad weather conditions.

The flier plans to go today to San Angelo, Tex., where his father has undergone an operation.

Sign This Petition and Help to Cut Taxes

To the Congress of the United States:

We, the undersigned respectfully urge that the Congress of the United States give immediate consideration to the proposition that there be a downward revision of all income taxes on all earned incomes such as salaries or fees, or commissions for personal services. We urge this because of the many instances where wage or fee or commission earners sometimes have just a few years of good incomes and prior to and after that period have substantially less incomes. Their period of better earnings which might give the average wage earner a chance to accumulate some capital is heavily taxed and they seldom have a new opportunity for the accumulation of savings, which might tend to make more useful citizens of them.

Labor in general, lawyers, doctors, architects, clerical workers, salesmen, dentists, engineers, journalists, accountants, actors, motion picture actors, singers, musicians, and all the other professional people are in the same plight in the matter of earned income as distinguished from earnings on capital, and, since they represent a great percentage of the citizenry of the country, we beg the gravest consideration of this proposition. Each signer below hereby enrolls as a member of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph League for the Downward Revision of Taxes on earned incomes and will work with that newspaper toward the end stated.

Permission is hereby granted the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to list the signer in the proper Labor, Clerical or Professional Division of the said League for presentation of our signatures to the United States Congress for the stated purpose.

The signer is not obliged to make any kind of contribution or to do anything except to give his moral support to this movement.

MARY GARDEN DRAWS FIRE OF EDITOR, LINDY'S CRITIC

AMARILLO, Tex., March 21.—(AP.)— Gene Howe, often referred to as the stormy petrel of journalism in Northwestern Texas, again is the target of a boycott. The first boycott came several months ago when Howe wrote editorially that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had the "swell head" after the famous flier had passed over Amarillo without stopping.

Now members of music clubs in Amarillo are seeking to repeat the attempt to curtail circulation of the News-Globe. Mr. Howe, under the nom de plume, "Erasmus Tack," belittled the performance here of the Chicago Grand Opera Company. He wrote in his personal column of the newspaper it was "terrible that the opera Thais, presented here Monday night, had been cut shamelessly, that all the stars who had voices saved them, and that Mary Garden is so old that she actually tottered."

Mr. Howe is the son of Ed Howe, noted journalist and former editor of the Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

MARY GARDEN LAUGHS

TULSA, Okla., March 21.—(AP.)—"It's the funniest thing I've ever heard," Mary Garden, famous singer and member of the Chicago Grand Opera playing here, laughingly remarked when informed of the criticism of her singing and accusations that the opera was cut while playing in Amarillo, contained in a newspaper article by Gene Howe, Amarillo editor.

"And you may tell him that when he's tottering I'll still be singing."

BANDITS STEAL CAR AND $700

ERIE, Pa., March 21.—William Davis, of 1006 Mirror street, Pittsburgh, was held up and robbed of $700 last night by two armed bandits while in his car parked in front of a Prospect street home at Fredonia, N. Y., according to a report made to Louis Hart, Fredonia police chief.

Michael Butler, his friend, also of Pittsburgh, fought when the bandits thrust revolvers in front of them, but was hit over the head and thrown from the car. The gunmen then entered the auto and drove Davis to a lonely road and then hurled him from the machine, after taking his wallet. Davis, who was picked up by passing autoists, said the bandits told him he would find his car parked somewhere between Fredonia and Buffalo.

Nicaragua Outlaws Routed, Marine Slain

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 21.—(AP.)—Pvt. Michael Savulich, a U. S. Marine from Jersey City, was killed in a fight with outlaws March 17 near Pavona, Department of Jinotega, said a report received yesterday by Gen. Logan Feland. Pvt. James V. McFall, whose next of kin is Mrs. Margaret McFall, of Baltimore, received a wound in the upper right arm in the same encounter. His condition is not serious. The dispatch said that the Marine patrol routed the outlaws, inflicting heavy losses.

COUNCIL WANTS IMPROVEMENT SURVEY

Council has requested the Department of Public Works to make a study of improvements suggested by the East Liberty Chamber of Commerce and to present legislation for projects recommended for early completion.

A committee representing the East Liberty merchants appeared before Council yesterday and, after presenting the proposals, received assurance from Councilman John S. Herron that the program would be completed in all probability within two years.

Requests included the widening of Broad street between Highland and Negley avenues; creation of a boulevard as a connecting link with the new county highway along the south bank of the Allegheny River; opening of Heberton avenue into Highland Park; widening of Houston street by taking three feet from the south sidewalk; changing the zoning of North Highland avenue between Hoevler and Bryant streets to allow the erection of apartment buildings; improvements to playground at Stanton avenue and Glenview place; removal of the sharp corners at Wilkins and Fifth avenues, Center and Ellsworth avenues and North Highland and Stanton avenues; paving of the unimproved section of Broad street near Fairmont avenue.

The beacon has 250,000 candle power and is visible 75 miles away. It rotates six times per minute and has two lamps. The beacon has been approved by the United States Department of Commerce.

Seized Sugar Given To Salvation Army

Federal Judge Nelson McVicar today signed an order directing the Prohibition Department to turn over 200 pounds of sugar seized in a raid to the Salvation Army. The sugar was seized January 26, in a building in the rear of 4 Brady street where a large still also was found. The confiscated material was condemned and forfeited to the government, but instead of destroying it as is usually done, it is being donated to the Salvation Army.

'Talkie' Faces First Suit for Plagiarism

LOS ANGELES, March 21.—(AP)—The talking moving picture yesterday tasted its first court action for alleged plagiarism. William J. McDonald, British author, filed suit against Paramount-Famous-Lasky Corporation, demanding $100,000 and an accounting of the profits of the picture "Redskin." McDonald, who writes under the name of "Jack Donaldson," said the talkie was taken from the drama, "The Snake Priest of Toreva," which he wrote and copyrighted in 1927.

Policeman Puts His Complexion First

CHICAGO, March 21.—(AP.)—A policeman, Mrs. Michael Burke has found, is careful of his complexion. A soft and a velvety complexion adds to his dignity, a compact with powder is an essential part of his equipment and a blackhead is as serious a matter as calling his captain "sarge."

Mrs. Burke set up all this and more in her bill for divorce from Michael Burke, a policeman. Burke, she complained, spent more than half his salary on powders, talcums, perfumes and cold creams, sent her to shop for them, made her return the change and beat her when she asked for money for a box of face powder.

Matters reached a crisis, said the complainant, a couple of weeks ago when her husband destroyed the furniture after she asked for money and berated him for his high cosmetic bill.

Industrial Expert To Give Talks Here

Tomorrow evening, Mr. Proffitt will discuss "Objectives of Industrial Education" and on Saturday morning, at 10:15, "Recent Developments in Industrial Education."

Dog Betrays Man's Hoard to Ex-Wife

CHICAGO, March 21.—(AP.)—If it hadn't been for the dog everything would have been all right, Peter Wilk, a butcher, explained to Judge Joseph Sabath in Superior Court.

Peter came before Judge Sabath because he had not paid Mrs. Wilk $34 back alimony. Peter had been up for the same reason before. Previously, he had a good excuse—business was poor and he did not eat meat. He produced bank books with depleted balances to prove it.

Then his former wife visited his butcher shop. For protection she brought her dog along. Apparently, Fido thought he had reached a sort of dog heaven. He sniffed about with some discrimination and finally selected as most edible a large juicy porterhouse steak.

As the dog yanked the steak from the shelf, $50 of Peter's money came with it. The wife found more money concealed behind other cuts of meat. In court, Peter said he was afraid of banks—and added that he did not trust dogs very far either. He has until Monday to separate his money from his meat and pay up.

What Dr. Caldwell Learned in 47 Years Practice

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently without griping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headache, and to break up fevers and colds.

BANKERS' HEAD OPTIMISTIC ON BUSINESS

Rollin A. Wilbur, of Cleveland, president of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, is optimistic as to the future of business and does not think there will be dangerous over-extension of credit despite the activity in securities markets at this time. Mr. Wilbur is in the city today as a guest of the Western Pennsylvania group of the Bankers' Association, and will be the principal speaker at a dinner in the Duquesne Club this evening.

Commenting on the credit situation, Mr. Wilbur said:

"With a reservation or two, I am optimistic for the future of general business. One reservation I would make applies to the possibility of an over-extension in the use of credit for speculative purposes. I do not think such over-extension probable, but it exists as a possibility, if we overplay our prosperity.

"Seven or eight years ago comparatively few bought stocks, when many stocks were wonderful bargains. It was then the fashion of mass psychology to be pessimistic. Now the public is optimistic, and the style in mass psychology has approached the other extreme. Fortunately, no harm has been done so far—our resources are so tremendous and our business conditions generally sound. Today our wealth is increasing at the rate of approximately one billion dollars a month. There is every opportunity one could wish for in wise investment and speculation. We are all eager to advance this high level of prosperity, but in so doing we should be careful, each of us, not to strain our individual credit by borrowing money for hazardous speculation, thus lessening the credit supply for actual, productive enterprise."

Alden H. Little, executive vice president of the association, also will be a guest at the dinner. J. Howard Arthur, vice president of the First National Bank at Pittsburgh and chairman of the executive committee of the Western Pennsylvania Group, is in charge of arrangements for the entertainment of the national officers.

INDUSTRY GAINS PREDICTED

Greater prosperity is predicted for the second quarter of 1929 in the Pittsburgh district by members of the Allegheny Regional Advisory Board, meeting today in Washington, Pa., who told railroad officials that their industries will need 150,000 more freight cars during the next three months than were required for the corresponding period of a year ago.

Greater activity was predicted by the individual industries almost without exception. Among the basic industries predicting increases were coal and coke, 17.6 per cent; gravel, sand and stone, 12.6 per cent; lumber 3.6 per cent; iron and steel 7.4 per cent and machinery, 11 per cent.

Commodities which are important but which do not require a great volume of freight cars which expect increases are aluminum, 17.1 per cent; brass, bronze and copper, 9 per cent and clay 7 per cent.

Of interest to the building trade are the details of the brick and clay products committee report, which indicates increases of 3.1 per cent in common brick; .3 per cent in face brick; 15.5 per cent in fire brick and 2.5 per cent in building tile.

Personality!

When Ziegfeld selects them, you can be sure they have personality. This lovely New York girl, now appearing in "Rio Rita," has talent—and beauty, too—enhanced by wonderful skin and the softest waves of dark brown hair.

"When friends ask me what I do to make my hair so soft and gleamy," says Miss Hargrave, "I have to think twice to tell them, because I give so little time to it. The method I use is very popular among New York girls. I just put a little Danderine on my brush each time I use it. I am letting my hair grow; but you'd never know it. Danderine keeps it so soft and easy to arrange and holds it in place so wonderfully. It gives my hair such a silky, soft and lustrous appearance, friends are always commenting on it. There isn't a trace of dandruff left now that I'm using Danderine regularly. And it keeps my hair and scalp so clean and comfortable that I don't shampoo half as often as I used to."

Danderine quickly removes that oily film from your hair, brings out its natural color, gives it more lustre than brilliantine. It makes the hair easy to dress, keeps it in place. It usually checks dandruff. It isn't oily; doesn't show. All drug stores have the generous 25c bottles. A delicately fragranced necessity for the well-groomed girl!

MAN, 73, NAMED BY GIRL, FACES MIND TEST

James R. Cox, 73, of 1737 Dagmar avenue, was turned over to the city department of welfare today, when arraigned in Morals Court on complaint of Ruth Mackey, 21, of 352 McKee avenue, Lincoln place. Magistrate Leo Rothenberg did not go into a hearing, stating that he had been informed that Cox was suffering mental ailment.

Miss Mackey was present to tell her story, but was not called as a witness.

Cox was arrested yesterday a few minutes after the girl had telephoned police that he was at the door of the Mackey home asking for her. She had broken a date with him the night before when she was to have returned a $50 ring, she told the police.

Ruth said she and Cox had argued when she told him she had a young "boy friend." Furthermore, she added, he had drawn a revolver as she stood outside the downtown postoffice in Smithfield street.

She met Cox, Ruth told police, when he came to her home selling soap. Soon he was taking her to the movies and trying to get her a job, the girl is quoted as saying.

Police said Cox had identified himself as the father of the Rev. James R. Cox, rector of Old St. Patrick's Church.

Cox, 73, 1737 Dagmar avenue, whom she charged had showered her with attentions and refused to stop calling upon her. She was not called upon to testify, as Cox was turned over to the Welfare Department.

Is Fined $50 After Raid on His Saloon

Raided by police who had been informed that workingmen were spending their pay in his saloon, Nicholas Dolinski, 37, of 1552 Madison avenue, was fined $50 when arraigned today before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Morals court. Lieut. Thomas Gross testified that Mrs. Theodore Elcelraub, of 1554 East street, complained to police about her husband spending his money in Dolinski's saloon. Two visitors were discharged.

Widow Gets Bulk Of Kester Estate

The bulk of the estate of the late Howard B. Kester, of 5719 Solway street, is left to his widow, Mrs Inez Kester, according to the terms of the will which has been probated. Mrs. Kester has taken out letters of administration.

Lucille B. Clutter, to whom a bequest was made, was a friend of the Kester family, one of the counsel in the case stated.

Sugar Thieves Carry Off Loot in Truck

A truck was used, police believe, to cart away 29 sacks of sugar from the wholesale store of the C. D. Kenny Company at 109 Ferry street. The rear door had been jimmied and the sacks removed during the night, police were told. The loot is valued at $187.

Alleged Bookmaking Center Is Raided

Police raided an alleged bookmaking establishment at 115 Flavel street today, arrested Edward Williams, reputed proprietor and confiscated racing forms. Williams will be given a hearing before Magistrate W. J. Soost in Frankstown Avenue police court tomorrow.

Acids In Stomach Cause Indigestion

Create Sourness, Gas and Pain. How to Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist some Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful of powder or four tablets in water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

BANDITS SHOOT ONE IN 'BOOKIE' SHOP HOLDUP

Word that a horse named Heed had come in a winner at 5 to 1 at Jefferson Park, and five bandits arrived simultaneously in a bookmaking establishment at 1013 Liberty avenue last night.

Before bettors had time to collect their winnings the bandits lined the 30 patrons against the walls, covered three bookmakers and took more than $2,000 from the proprietor's till and the patrons' pockets.

BETTOR SHOT

Then an excited holdup man shot a patron, who told police he was Glenn H. Wells, of Cleveland. Wells was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital, where physicians said the bullet had fractured his right thigh bone.

An eyewitness said the four bandits who entered the room had been firm, but courteous, although all bore signs of having stimulated their courage with drugs. One holdup man remained on the stairway as a lookout.

LEADER MAKES SPEECH

After the loot had been collected, the leader of the quintet stood in the center of the room and made a speech.

"Take a good look at me, gentlemen," he said. "Although here's hoping that you never see me again. It will be too bad if you do."

The lookout thrust his head in the door and cut the leader short with a growled, "Get a move on."

There was a movement among the crowd, and the lookout, nervous, fired, hitting Wells.

ESCAPE IN TWO AUTOS

After the shot the holdup men hastened down the stairs and fled in two autos they had parked in Liberty avenue. As the autos were departing an excited patron hurled a chair through a window, and a short time later police arrived.

They arrested the alleged proprietor, Frank Riley, 36, of 1240 Penn avenue, and charged him with keeping a disorderly house. George Barran, 26, of 1011 Liberty avenue, and Frank Hawley, of 45 Thirteenth street, alleged clerks, were charged with visiting a disorderly house. The patrons had fled.

For New Skin Beauty Use a Healing Toilet Cream
—Say Scores of Nurses

AMONG the million and a half women who are now using this new kind of toilet cream, there are thousands of trained nurses. They are enthusiastic—they tell their friends to use it. Their training has taught them what the skin needs to keep it healthy and beautiful.

Science now recognizes that many of the common skin faults come from tiny hidden poisons that lurk unseen beneath the skin. Blemishes, roughness, large pores, coarseness and many other beauty-destroying flaws are now traced to these invisible poisons.

Ordinary care is not enough. Soaps and creams that merely cleanse the surface fail to reach these insidious poisons. An antiseptic cream is necessary—a greaseless healing cream that will sink into the skin, combat poisons, keep the skin germ-free, healthy and beautiful.

As snow-white and dainty as the finest beauty cream, yet as powerfully healing as an old-fashioned skin remedy, Noxzema Skin Cream can be used as a powder base or night cream. Under its soothing, healing medication, skin troubles vanish quickly and your skin becomes clearer, smoother, lovelier.

Noxzema Cream is on sale at all drug and department stores.

Two Incomes are Better than One

William M. Davidson

THE young man or woman who by industry and thrift accumulates a little capital, has taken the first step on the road to success. The amount of capital is not so important as the fact that it has been saved and that the amount is growing. Then, when the big opportunity comes along, the saver is in a position to profit. Two incomes are better than one, and the second income can be earned by anyone who will map out a plan of action and then stick to the plan. Constantly growing capital, a secondary income and an advantageous position from which to seize opportunities, is success."

When the Union Savings Bank's representative called on Dr. Davidson, he found him busy at his desk as head of the Public School System of Pittsburgh.

"I was a farmer boy," he said. "My parents were of the finest stock in Western Pennsylvania. Their means had been sufficient for successful farmers of their day, but bore no relation to the cost of opportunity in my day. They had to save to give me my chance. I had to save to take it. Even an educator has to have something ahead if he would add constantly to his capital stock of knowledge and intellectual attainment."

The Union Savings Bank is giving you this series of editorials by leaders of Pittsburgh's business and professional life because we believe you will be interested in their point of view on a subject which reaches every home.

The School Savings System started by this Bank in 1921 is conducted with the approval and cooperation of the Board of Public Education. Through the operation of this system the children in the public schools are given helpful training in thrift and saving.

"ALL RIGHT, LET'S GO," FOCH SAYS, THEN DIES

PARIS, March 21.—(AP.)—"All right, let's go ahead" were the last words Marshal Foch spoke on earth. As he sat enjoying the bright spring sunshine by his open window, his nurse informed him that his bed had been remade and was ready for him.

"M. Le Marechal, we are going to put you back in bed," she told him.

Foch turned to her. "Bien, allons-y," he replied, which may be roughly translated as "All right, let's go ahead."

Suddenly his eyes closed convulsively, his face twitched, and his hand went to his heart as he lay down upon the bed. He never spoke again.

Early yesterday the marshal showed no greater signs of sinking than for a week past; indeed, he seemed to have had a comfortable night, and as his pulse and temperature had reacted in his favor, there were hopes that he might still cling to life—though only briefly.

But the ebb and flow had been too constant to foster hope of recovery, and soon it became evident that now it was a matter of hours only. Doctors summoned to the bedside made their final examination. The marshal's two daughters were there, and his wife, coming tearfully into the room, was gently told that the marshal's hour had come. Intuitively she knew that, as she entered, and murmured, "God's will be done."

A priest from St. Clotilde Church administered extreme unction. Emerging from the house, he sadly remarked:

"I have just experienced the greatest emotion of my life."

Premier Poincare informed the Chamber of Deputies of the loss France had sustained.

"Gentelmen," he said, "Marshal Foch is dead. A great soldier and a great Frenchman is gone."

Negro Mayor Visits Pittsburgh Today

Johnston, of Miles Heights Village, O., first Negro mayor to visit Pittsburgh, was to be the honor guest at two receptions arranged by the Afro-American Brotherhood of the World here today. TRIBUTE PAID CARL SCHURZ

NEW YORK, March 21.—New York City is to have a big celebration tonight in honor of the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Carl Schurz, editor, diplomat and soldier, whose monument stands on Morningside Drive. The celebration takes place in Carnegie Music Hall with George McAneny, former borough president of Manhattan, as chairman. The speakers are Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York, and George Seibel, dramatic and literary editor of the Sun-Telegraph. Carl Schurz, in whose memory the celebration is being held, was born in the Rhineland in 1829, came to America as an exile after the revolution of 1848, supported Lincoln for president, served as minister to Spain, fought at Gettysburg, was elected to the Senate from Missouri, was appointed Secretary of the Interior by President Hayes, and did more for civil service reform than any other man in America.

World-Wide Eulogies for Marshal Foch

Associated Press.

PRESIDENT HOOVER—"It was my privilege to gain perhaps a special insight not only into his ability, but also his fine human qualities of straightforwardness, kindness and modesty."

CHARLES G. DAWES—"One of the great figures of history has passed away."

GEN. JOHN J. PERSHING—"As my friend and comrade his death brings to me a profound sense of personal loss."

RAYMOND POINCARE—"A great soldier and a great Frenchman is gone."

MYRON T. HERRICK—"The human side of the man was, I think, after all, his greatest side. What his personal charm was only those who came in personal contact with him knew."

SIR WILLIAM G. TYRRELL, British Ambassador, Paris—"In my country, which has not the honor to number him among its sons, he will be honored as a national hero."

PAUL PAINLEVE, French Minister of War—"He will go down in history to rank with Caesar, Alexander and Napoleon, but as a liberator rather than a conqueror."

STANLEY BALDWIN, British Prime Minister—"In him there has passed away one of the great soldiers of all times, and, what is much more, one of the great souls."

EARL BEATTY, Admiral of the British Fleet—"He was the greatest man in the greatest war the world has ever known, and his services were not only services to France, but to the whole world."

SIR AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN, British Foreign Minister—"If bitterness remains it is not found today among those who were the stoutest fighters."

DAVID LLOYD GEORGE—"It is my greatest pride that I discerned his supreme gifts in time and that, as Prime Minister of this country, I took a leading part in making him commander-in-chief of all the Allied forces on the western front."

FIELD MARSHAL LORD ALLENBY—"Soldier and student expert in the history, art and practice of war, Foch stood forth in the day of trial as the leading strategist and tactician of our time, possibly of all time."

FIELD MARSHAL SIR WILLIAM ROBERTSON, Chief of British General Staff, 1915-18—"Marshal Foch was essentially a man of high principle, extreme modesty and with no thought of self. He was probably the only general who would have been acceptable to all governments concerned." (Referring to appointment as generalissimo of the Allied armies.)

GEORGES CLEMENCEAU, French Wartime Premier—"The man who just died is entitled to the profoundest respect of the entire world."

GEN. THE EARL OF CAVAN, who Commanded British Fourteenth Corps in France—"He was the one commander under whom the Allies were willing and ready to fight with confidence."

FOCH FUNERAL TUESDAY

King Albert, of Belgium, who served under Marshal Foch as commander of the Belgian army, telegraphed that he would arrive this afternoon to express in person his sorrow over the passing of the noted soldier.

J. P. Morgan called this afternoon to speak a few words of condolence to Mme. Foch. He signed the visitors' register.

POINCARE TO SPEAK

Tomorrow the body in all likelihood will be moved under the dome of the Invalides to permit the public to look for the last time upon the man who led into battle more men than could have been counted in the combined armies of a half dozen of the world's greatest military figures.

It is expected that there will be a service at the Cathedral of Notre Dame, the heart of Catholic France, for Marshal Foch was a devoted son of the church.

At the national state ceremony, it is probable that there will be only one discourse, which will be delivered by Premier Poincare, who during the war was president of the republic and as such was Marshal Foch's only commander.

PERSHING AT BIER

The great soldier's features are calm and serene though displaying withal the air of energy which marked them when alive. Death has erased the lines of suffering and he seemed today as one asleep.

The marshal's physician and faithful friend, Dr. Maurice Heitzboyer, has hardly left the room since the body was laid out there. Gen. Weygand and Father Boncoeur were constant in their attendance also.

Gen. John J. Pershing visited the bier of Marshal Foch this morning, arriving at the Foch home shortly after Georges Clemenceau, France's wartime premier.

Murderer Applauds Life Term Verdict

EBENSBURG, Pa., March 21.—Deliberating one hour and 25 minutes, a jury in Criminal Court here returned a verdict of guilty of first degree murder with the penalty of life imprisonment against Joseph Sugarcik, 24, of South Fork, tried for the killing of his wife's brother, Olinto Grazziani, at South Fork, early in February. The defendant clapped his hands in joy that the jury did not impose the death penalty.

Foch Long Desired War Study With Von Hindenburg

PARIS, March 21.—(AP.)—One of Marshal Foch's closest friends revealed today the vain hope of the marshal that some day he could meet and talk with President Von Hindenburg, of Germany.

The marshal told the intimate he "had the greatest respect" for the German military chief and he wished they might meet, not as a Frenchman and a German, but as two military technicians to compare notes.

Marshal Foch desired this so much that a rough plan was formulated even as to how it might best be done without publicity.

When Von Hindenburg was elected German president, the difficulties of arranging a private meeting became too great and it was never attempted.

BURKE CHERISHES FOCH'S TRIBUTE TO PITTSBURGH

Framed and hanging in the office of former Congressman James Francis Burke is the tribute of the late Marshal Foch to Pittsburgh.

Written immediately after the reception tendered the leader of the Allied forces upon his visit to this country, Mr. Burke cherishes the Allied generalissimo's estimate of Pittsburgh. It reads:

"November 10, 1921.

"My Dear Mr. Burke:

"Please convey to the people of Pittsburgh my sincere admiration of their magnificent city and my profound feeling of joy at their reception of me as a representative of my beloved country—France.

"Pittsburgh did much during the war.

"Pittsburgh now is doing much in time of peace.

"Pittsburgh represents the spirit of after the war; the spirit of industry; of rebuilding, of generosity, of big-heartedness.

"I salute the City of Pittsburgh.

"F. FOCH."

An autopsy disclosed that Martin had died from acute alcoholism, deputy coroners said.

Martin, police reported, was found bleeding from a head laceration in a restroom of the Improvement of the Poor, 428 Duquesne way, and was removed to the Allegheny General Hospital, where his injury was dressed. He then was lodged in the police station, where later he was found unconscious.

Railroad officials ordered an investigation to determine how the women came to be on the crossing while the engine was passing.

Farewell Note Found on Bridge

"Goodbye to the world.

"JIM SMITH."

This note, scribbled on a card pinned to a blue serge coat found on the Tenth Street bridge, gave police a mystery to solve today.

Frank Lobert, of 415 Chalfton street, Knoxville, who found the coat, turned it over to Patrolman Howard Ruffner.

Police said they had not received any report of a missing "Jim Smith," nor of a bridge suicide.

Three Ailments Quickly Routed By New Konjola

Pittsburgh Man Had Great Change In Health Since Taking Advanced Medicine.

It is a mistaken idea indeed, to think that there is some mystery, some secret about the amazing success of this new and totally different medicine, Konjola, that is creating such a furore in Pittsburgh.

MR. HARRY GRENAWALT

Konjola is a modern compound, containing 32 ingredients of recognized medical value, of which 22 are the juices from roots and herbs. Konjola works with the sufferer's own food, restoring a more normal, healthy action to the important functionary organs of the body—the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and also speedily routs rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. How Konjola performs its seeming wonders in those obstinate and chronic cases that have defied and resisted all other medicines and treatments tried, is being explained daily by the Konjola Man who is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Ave. and Sixth St., this city. There he is meeting those who are sick and who would be well again. He is daily pointing the road to new, glorious and lasting health—that is his mission in Pittsburgh. He will tell you of case after case like that of Mr. Harry Grenawalt, 536 Hildelberg Street, Pittsburgh, who had a most remarkable experience with Konjola. Just a few days ago Mr. Grenawalt called on the Konjola Man and said:

"Since I have taken Konjola, found new and glorious health, my only regret is that I didn't know of this medicine a great deal sooner. If Konjola had been recommended to me a year ago I could have saved myself much suffering and distress. My stomach, liver and kidneys became disordered and upset. I could find nothing to give me permanent relief—it was a most discouraging situation. After every meal I was bothered dreadfully with gas and severe indigestion pains. It was impossible to eat a meal in peace. The condition of my kidneys caused intense back pains—often preventing me from getting the proper rest. Dizzy spells were very common. In fact, my whole system became rundown and out of order.

"Although I did not have much faith in medicines, I decided to give Konjola a trial because it was so sincerely recommended. I realized that it would do me no harm, and anything that might help my case was worth the chance. Results—just what I wanted—came swiftly and surely. It did not take Konjola long to make an improvement. Daily I felt better and daily the different ailments became less severe. Then, all of a sudden they gave up the losing battle and were driven from my system. My stomach, liver and kidneys are now functioning perfectly. I am never troubled the least with them. I eat, sleep and feel like a different person. It sounds remarkable, but Konjola surely proved itself in my case."

Konjola contains no alcohol, nerve-deadening drugs, nor heart-depressing chemicals. It is all medicine, pure and wholesome, every drop, and every drop works. Is it not logical to believe that what Konjola has done for others it will do for you?

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

America He Loved Deathbed Topic Of Foch

PARIS, March 21.—(AP.)—The last conversation Marshal Foch had with his confessor, Father L'Hande, was on the subject of America, which the "Marshal loved so particularly."

"With a gesture of his hand as I spoke to him in consolation," Father L'Hande said today, 'he showed me above his bed the arms of America surrounded and entwined by the arms of all the Allied nations, all surmounted by a crucifix."

GLAD SHE TRIED NEW MEDICINE

Carnegie Lady's Ailments Were Swept Away By Famous Ten Herbs.

Whence comes the remarkable power of Ten Herbs to end stomach, liver, kidney and bowel disorders, rheumatism, neuritis, nervousness and a general weak, run-down condition, after many other medicines have failed? This question often is asked at May's Main Store, Fifth and Liberty, Pittsburgh, where this famous new natural preparation is being introduced. The success of Ten Herbs is due to its ten wonderful herbal ingredients, which cleanse and tone up the whole human system, bringing new feelings of glorious health and strength over the body in general. No wonder Ten Herbs is probably the most popular preparation of an herbal nature that has ever been introduced in this section. Try a bottle and see how much better it makes you feel.

MISS BERTHA GORMLEY

"I am glad that I tried Ten Herbs, for it was just what I needed," was the statement of Miss Bertha Gormley, 308 Kirkwood St., Carnegie, Pa., (near Pittsburgh). "Sometime ago I underwent a serious operation, and since then I had been in poor health. I had considerable trouble with my stomach. I was always in distress after eating. Often I became nauseated and would vomit. I would seem to fill with gas, and sometimes I got very dizzy. Constipation bothered me all the time. Severe headaches came on me, and black spots were continually floating before my eyes.

"I heard about Ten Herbs and decided to try a bottle. Your medicine helped me so much that I continued using it, until now I feel like my old self again. I am feeling fine, and my stomach is in such good condition that I can eat anything without having any distress afterwards. Ten Herbs has been such a great help to me that I gladly recommend this medicine to anyone."

Ten Herbs is being introduced at May's Main Store, Fifth and Liberty, Pittsburgh, and is sold at all May's Drug Stores.

Acid Tests

MARRIAGE is the acid test of character; and those who make a mess of it probably would have made a mess of life, anyhow, even if they had had nobody to help them.

There is as much difference between a declaration of love and a proposal of marriage, these days, as there is between the Volstead act and prohibition enforcement.

The Cynic says that the "co-ed barber shop" has lost its popularity, because, after all, women didn't hear anything in it that they ought not to listen to.

A man always vows he will never love another woman, if you turn him down—but he never feels quite so certain about it, if you take him up.

To love a man blindly was easy. It's loving him with your eyes wide open, these frank and artless days, that constitutes the amazing feat.

Nature may be "grand;" but why did she put all the vitamines in the kind of food you dislike and all the virtues in the kind of people you detest?

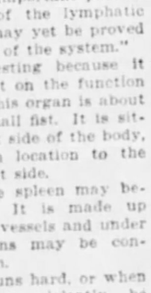
How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

The Spleen and Lymphatic Circulation

SCIENTISTS have studied the body for so many years that it would seem they must have found out all there is to know. But they haven't. Every few months somebody announces another discovery.



DR. COPELAND

It took a long time to discover a few things about the "lymphatics" and the "lymph system." All of our tissues, probably every cell of the body, are bathed in a colorless fluid called the lymph.

This fluid circulates within the tissues. It does not do this as the blood does, in closed vessels. But somehow or other it finds its way along, always in the direction of the heart.

It used to be said that the general pressure of the bodily tissues and the action of the muscles caused the flow of lymph. Now come research workers, who think the lymph may be encouraged in its flow by the spleen. This is a structure usually referred to as a gland.

These scientists think the squeezing force of the muscles is not a satisfactory explanation of why the lymph moves on its course. Here is what one recent writer proposes as an explanation.

"It seems within the realm of probability that the spleen normally plays an important part in the promotion of the lymphatic circulation. It may yet be proved to be the 'heart' of the system."

This is interesting because it throws new light on the function of the spleen. This organ is about the size of a small fist. It is situated on the left side of the body, corresponding in location to the liver on the right side.

In disease, the spleen may become enlarged. It is made up largely of blood vessels and under certain conditions may be considerably swollen.

When a boy runs hard, or when anybody exercises violently, he may become conscious of this organ. If it becomes uncomfortably filled with blood, there may be a feeling of "stitches" in the left side, overlying the spleen.

There is a disease, known to the doctors as "Banti's disease." In this there is found increasing enlargement of the spleen. With it is anemia, a tendency to bleeding here and there, and perhaps jaundice. The liver may be involved, too. It is a disease which may last for years.

The spleen is likely to be involved in malaria and in rickets. It is very sure to be affected in serious infections.

There cannot be good health unless all the cells of the body are well nourished. They cannot be unless the lymph stream operates normally. It seems to take food to every part of the body and to carry away the waste material. That is the reason why Nature provided that every cell should be bathed in a fluid. This floats to it the nourishment it must have and carries away the useless substances.

One of my readers asked for information about the spleen and lymphatic system. That is why I have spoken of them today.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Tipping the Barber

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: Is it correct to tip a barber? READER.

YES, correct and customary—except in some cases, when the barber is the owner of the establishment and feels that it is undignified to accept gratuities.

A Woman's Signature

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: I am employed as a private secretary and usually sign all my employer's letters. Which is the better form to use—Mary White or M. White?. ANXIOUS.

MARY WHITE is the better form. It is an exasperating thing to receive a letter signed only with initials, a letter that has to be answered. Naturally the recipient does not know whether the writer is a woman or a man, and is quite at a loss to know whether to write Miss or Mr. as the title to the name on the envelope of the answer.

Hats and Coats

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: 1. Is it correct for a man to find a place for his own hat and coat or should he hand them to the girl he is calling upon?

2. Is it correct for the man to go get the girl's coat and hold it for her to put on, or should she get it and hand it to him in a restaurant or public place?

3. Is it more correct for the man to hang up the girl's coat in her own home, or should she take it from him and put it away? In a restaurant?

4. What should be done if when a young man calls upon me he does not remove his hat? He usually is mannerly and a respectable gentleman, but does not remove his hat. ROSE.

HE himself should place them.

2. He should get it and hold it for her.

3. She should hang it up in her own home. In a restaurant, he should see that it is put in a convenient place if she does not wish it on the back of her chair.

4. Say, "May I take your hat? I'll put it here on the chair," or "on the rack." Ordinarily, the girl should not take the man's hat or offer to take it—she indicates to him where he should place it. But in this awkward situation it might be easier for her to say what I have suggested.

Congratulations

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: What would be the proper manner to acknowledge a wedding announcement? L. M.

USUALLY we want to write a note of congratulation or best wishes. And especially if we know either well.

THE PENDULUM SWINGS BACK

-:- Drawn by Dorothy Flack

© 1929, Int'l Feature Service, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.

THE pendulum never swings so far to one side that it doesn't eventually swing back—'way back to the other side again. Even with life it is the same. It goes along just so far and then it reverts to right where we started. Everything changes in the course of time—people, places, buildings, styles, everything. But particularly is this true of girls. Ever on the search for something that will be different, they go from one extreme to the other in the mad search of a thrill.

Once the flapper was the very latest thing in styles when it came to girls. Then the vamp was the type that every little girl in the world fondly imagined herself to be. But now they're relegated to the limbo of forgotten things and gradually the modern girl is adapting herself to the ways and dress of her grandmother. Of course, they're more or less modernized, but instead of the harsh masculine girl that we've had to put up with for so long, she's feminized herself, in dress at least.

True, she has not attempted to lessen her athletic activities, for she knows that on these depend her wondrous good health and the grace for which she is noted. But now instead of a shorn head and outlandish clothes, she's softly curled and dressed in ruffles and frills, which are so vastly becoming.

And thus the pendulum swings. So never lament that "things aren't what they used to be." They may not be exactly the same, but they'll surely bring an adjustment to everyone's satisfaction.

Marion Reveals Reason for Disliking Stepfather

I WENT away from Lillian's room with lightened spirits. Characteristically she had said nothing directly of her own feeling toward Robert Savarin, but there was that in her voice and eyes when she was speaking of her husband which told me that while she never would forget the tragic figure of the famous artist who had loved her, Harry Underwood need not fear he ever would have to "play second fiddle to anyone but Marion."

As I came into the corridor, I saw Marion standing at the window at the end of the hall. She turned as I closed the door of her mother's room behind me, and putting her finger to her lips, beckoned me to the door of Mary's room.

"Mary said I could come in here," she said. "I'm afraid mother might come to your room or mine on some errand, and I don't want her to see us together. Do you know, Auntie Madge, I just feel awful about—Mr. Underwood's going away to the city on my account. Oh! I don't mean I'm not wild to have my mother all to myself. But I don't want her, or him either, to feel that I've acted so horrid to him he had to get out. I wondered if when he announces he's going, I could ask him to come back before my vacation ends—pretend something about wanting to learn more about the car."

"Don't pretend anything," I told her. "Remember, there are few people with keener perception than your mother and Mr. Underwood. If you honestly feel that you would like him to come back before the end of your vacation, tell him so. If not, keep still. There will be no harm done, for assuredly neither he nor your mother will expect any such advance from you."

She looked at me thoughtfully.

"Do you know?" she said at last in the tone of a student working out an abstruse problem—"I don't feel half as edgy toward him as I did before you told me about his going away so that mother and I could have the rest of my vacation by ourselves. And he really was lovely about the car. Really, Auntie Madge, I'd like to feel decent toward him on mother's account, but I've never been able to do it."

My pulse quickened at her naive admission, but I let no trace of my feeling appear in my voice or face.

"Don't force any feeling, dear," I said. "All any of us ask of you is to consider your stepfather with a perfectly open mind, throwing all your prejudices against him away."

She looked at me oddly.

"Do you know what made me commence to hate Mr. Underwood?" she said.

"No, dear, tell me."

"Once, when I was a little thing, staying with you while mother was gone on a trip, I fell asleep and woke up to hear you and Uncle Dicky talking about mother and Mr. Underwood. I was either to small to know I shouldn't listen, or more probably forgot any lessons I might have had along that line. At any rate, I heard you say that he had made it terribly hard for mother when my own father died and I came back to her, that he didn't like her to have her pretty gray hair for me, but wanted her to look younger for him, and that he had gone away because I was coming home to her."

I caught my breath in the dismay that adults feel when the results of their carelessness in discussing things where children can hear are brought home. To think it was my garrulity and Dicky's which had brought so much sorrow to Lillian, dearest and oldest friend of us both!

"Do you mean, Marion," I parried, trying to gain time for the right answer to this revelation, "that your dislike for your stepfather is based only on that old conversation?"

Quick Relief from Pains and Aches

A New Dairy Product In the Form of Cheese

For the recipe of the VELVEETA ROLLS, and for other choice recipes, send to Home Economics Dept., 401 Rush Street, Chicago.

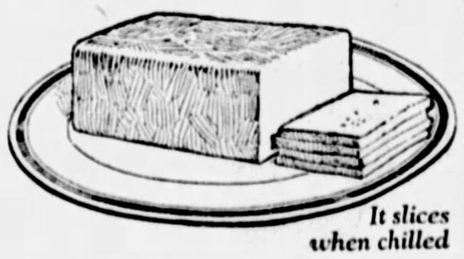
As digestible as milk itself

HERE is a new delight for the lovers of good cheese—Velveeta. It is a new milk product in the form of cheese that for high food value, smooth velvety texture and exquisite flavor leaves nothing to be desired.

For Velveeta represents the contribution of science to the art of cheese making. Through the aid of scientific research, special methods and equipment, we combine more Vitamins, Lactose (milk sugar), Calcium and other minerals of whole milk in making Velveeta than ever we were able to obtain before. The addition of these precious food elements in Velveeta greatly enhances its food value and makes it as digestible as milk itself.

Velveeta is made with the utmost care from a blend of choice mellow American and ripe old Canadian cheddar cheese. It tastes like cheese, looks like cheese, but because of its greater food value it should be called a super-cheese.

It spreads like butter



It slices when chilled

You can use Velveeta the same as you would use any cheese. It spreads like butter or it can be sliced when chilled. It melts, dissolves and blends so readily with other foods that for cooking purposes its superiority is at once apparent.

Besides its exceptional appetite appeal, Velveeta is an invigorating dairy food that anyone can eat freely and often. Try a package, for if you like cheese, you will love Velveeta, and it will become a welcome addition to your daily fare. Your dealer has it.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, March 22

THIS day's sidereal operations point to much to be attained by industry, persistency and astuteness. The trine of Luna to Saturn encourages earnest effort following upon the explosion of crystallized conditions, assuring substantial rewards for this diligence and steadfastness. But there is a menace of subtlety or fraud in new projects or with close corporations. Also a hint of ill-advised change. A personal connection may assume a sensational or irregular complexion, not wholly maefic.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which they may reap rewards for hard labor, patience and fidelity. But they are warned as to some subtlety or intrigue in new ventures, with large companies, and also as to the equivocal nature of a personal adventure.

A child born on this day may be disposed to be diligent and industrious, persevering and faithful, in spite of tendencies to intrigue and subtlety, which may be outstanding in its purely personal affiliations.

Life is arched with changing skies.—William Winter.

To Soften Shoes

If shoes have got wet and dried "hard," you need not be afraid to rub them with pure olive oil. Apply it everywhere and rub thoroughly into the leather. Leave for an hour or so, and then polish. At first it may seem that the "shine" is on the dull side, but a second polishing, followed by brisk rubbing, will make it quite all right.

Child Health and Growth

depend on these two food elements

Vitamin A and Calcium

Child Specialists Recommend It

Children are especially fond of "Philadelphia" Cream Cheese and joyfully welcome it as a regular part of their daily diet. And now that it is known to be so rich in these two vital food elements—Calcium and Vitamin A—it is being freely recommended by Child Specialists, Doctors and food experts as a particularly valuable food for children.

One Nutrition Expert says: "When baby emerges into childhood, its diet too often is over-rich in meats, sweets and starchy foods. Such foods lack bone-making calcium, so important at this period of growth and in the formation of permanent teeth. 'Philadelphia' Cream Cheese plus green vegetables, fruit and milk should be freely used to correct such dangerous dietary deficiencies."

Salads of all kinds take on a new savoriness to tempt the childish appetite when served with "Philadelphia" Cream Cheese. It is a fine dairy product, pasteurized for purity and its creamy richness is wrapped in small tinfoil packages for further protection. It is never sold in bulk.

When Nature fails you, try and help yourself by the most natural method! That's the advice of leading authorities nowadays; and for over 50 years it has been the plan of the makers of California Fig Syrup. The quick, easy way this pure, wholesome product relieves children of those symptoms of stubborn bowels, such as headaches, biliousness, coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy, etc., and makes them strong, energetic and rosy-cheeked again. shows there's no use drugging a child with harsh purgative medicines. And Fig Syrup helps give tone and strength to weak, flabby stomach and bowels so they continue to act of their own accord and you don't have to keep dosing them. Its popularity is shown by its sales record of over four million bottles a year and by the praise thousands of mothers are fairly showering on it. A Pennsylvania mother, Mrs. F. Koehler, 259 Ithan St., Philadelphia, enthusiastically declares: "My big, fat boy, John, is now seven. He is strong and energetic and always romping. I give California Fig Syrup a lot of credit for his condition. I have used it with him since babyhood for every cold or upset spell. It always regulates him quick and starts him to eating right and improving in every way."

Your protection against inferior substitutes is the word "California," which always appears on the carton of genuine California Fig Syrup.

GENERAL ELECTRIC PRESENTS the first ALL-STEEL REFRIGERATOR

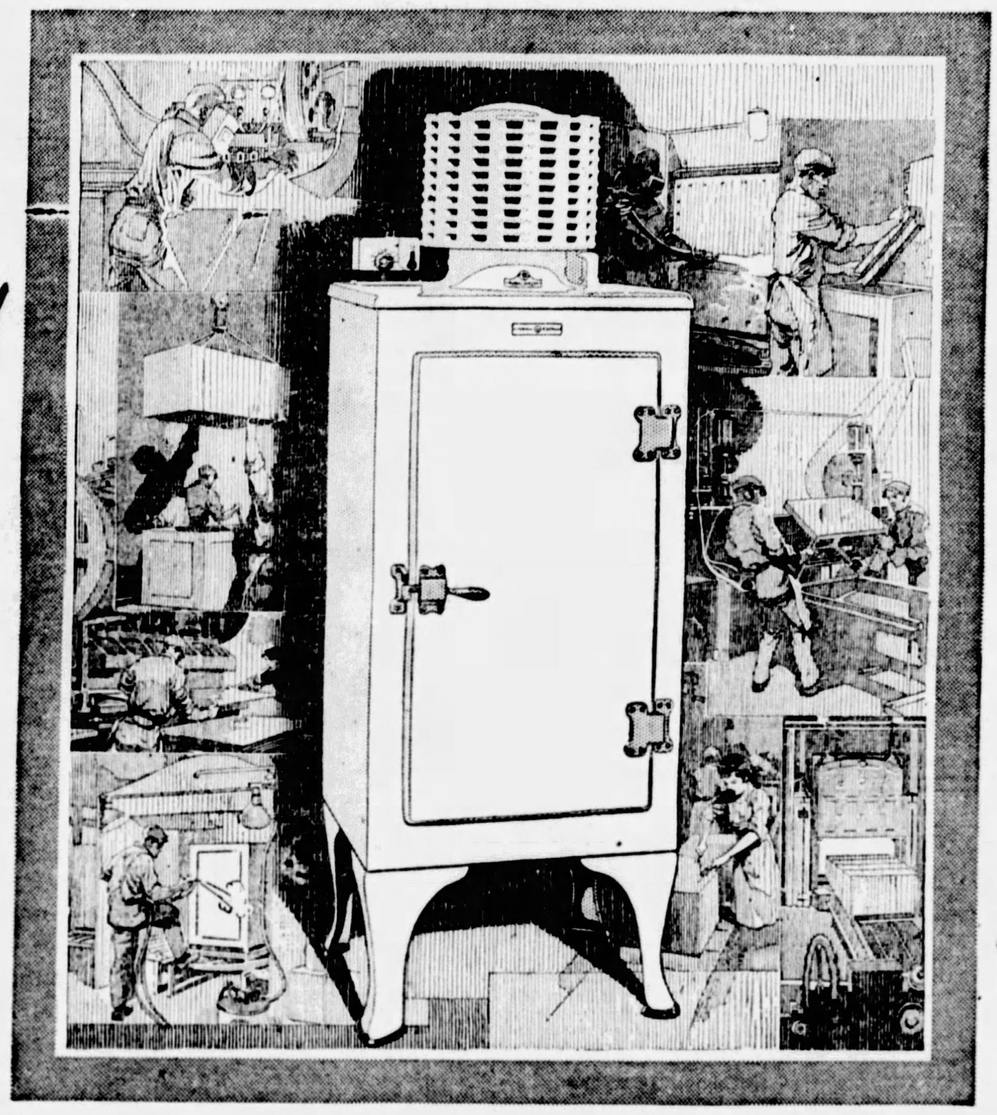
On Display Today



Come in and See it!

GENERAL ELECTRIC ALL-STEEL REFRIGERATOR

Another chapter has been added to the achievements of the engineers and scientists of the General Electric Research Laboratories. The same group of men who perfected the hermetically sealed mechanism of the General Electric Refrigerator, have now designed and built the first all-steel refrigerator cabinet.

This achievement marks the greatest improvement made during the past 30 years, in the design and construction of refrigerator cabinets. It means that new and far greater value has been built into the already unrivaled General Electric Refrigerator.

After the engineers of General Electric had perfected this all-steel refrigerator, they had to build the giant presses which were to cut the steel and bend it into shape; and electric welders to fuse together the folded forms at a temperature of 4500 degrees.

Millions spent for new machinery

To manufacture this new all-steel refrigerator General Electric has invested several millions of dollars in new machinery. Its aim was to build the best refrigerator ever produced and offer it to the small families of America at a price easily within their reach.

$215 At the Factory

No refrigerator has been built in such quantities or by such efficient and economical methods. Mass production has cut costs to a minimum and made possible the very low price—$215 at the factory.

General Electric has now made scientific refrigeration, which is vital to the health of the nation, possible for every home. Only a small down payment is required. The balance may be paid in easy and convenient installments—just a few dollars a month.

The only way to appreciate the outstanding quality, the beauty, the value of this new General Electric all-steel refrigerator is to see it. Come in today. It is now on display.

"Listen in on the General Electric Hour, March 23rd, sponsored by the General Electric Refrigerator. This program is broadcast from 9 to 10 Eastern Standard Time over N. B. C. network of forty-two stations."

PATRICIA PITT'S COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Local Folks Feted in South

THE Palm Beach season seems to be closing on a high note of hospitality. Every day I hear about some of the many parties being held down there, and doesn't it seem probable that our society folks will bring back with them that urge to entertain? It appears to me to be a good omen for the next few months and I believe we may hope for an increasing crescendo of entertaining, at least until July.

The Pittsburgh colony down South is, as usual, taking a prominent part in all the activities, and no party would be complete without at least a few local people as guests. One of the parties I've heard about is the luncheon which Dorothy Chase gave in the orange gardens of the Everglades Club, and among the guests was Margaret Thompson, of Sewickley, who, as I told you before, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Robert Carson, Jr., in Palm Beach. The other girls at the party, I understand, were Louise Van Alan, Diana Guest, Edna Brokaw, Ellen Ewing, Peggy Phipps and Mrs. Newbold Noyes.

And Mrs. Carson was among those present at a dinner which Mrs. Irving Hall Chase gave in the orange gardens, which provides such a lovely setting for parties. The other guests included the Henry Seligmans, the Edward T. Stotesburys, Dr. and Mrs. Hobart E. Warren, the George L. Meskers, Capt. and Mrs. John H. Gibbons, Mrs. Henry E. Bemis, Mrs. Newbold Noyes, Seth Sprague, Col. Owen Kenan, Maj. Gen. George Barnett and Capt. Frank Kellogg.

AND by the way, while we're discussing the folks away from home, did you hear about the motor accident in which both Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Schellentrager, of the Schenley Apartments, were injured? This is adding a somewhat somber note, but I am sure you will want to know about it.

The Schellentragers, as I told you, went down to Washington for the inauguration, and from there had started on South to spend some time in Florida when the accident occurred. They have been patients in the Park View Hospital at Rocky Mount, N. C., I understand, but have recovered sufficiently to come back North to Atlantic City where they expect to remain for about a month, recuperating.

AMONG the folks who are away from home just now are Mrs. Alexander M. Brooks and her sister, Mrs. Richard G. Jennings, both of the Sewickley Valley. They went on to New York to meet their mother, Mrs. Melchoir B. Chaplin, who has been spending the winter with Miss Victoria White in Charlestown, Va. Miss White, I believe, is planning to come back to Sewickley with them to spend the Easter season with her niece, Mrs. Charles Frederick Holdship. And coming back for Easter, too, will be Mary Cowell Jennings, who is a student at Miss Porter's School at Farmington. She will join her family in New York and return with them.

THERE have been many interesting engagement announcements within the last few months, and now I want to tell you about another. This is the betrothal of Lillian C. Roberts, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Roberts, of Forbes street, to Frederick J. Close, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Close, of Marlboro street.

Lillian's engagement to Mr. Close was revealed to her friends just today, when her mother gave a luncheon in the Pittsburgh Athletic Club. There were 24 guests at the party and the tables were decorated with a profusion of spring flowers. The favors were heart-shaped corsage bouquets of sweetheart roses which bore cards announcing the engagement.

PHILIP BARRY'S "You and I" has been given a cast including both newcomers and old friends of Stage and Play Society patrons for its presentation on April 10 in Carnegie Music Hall. One of the roles, that of a breezy young business man, will be taken by Thomas M. Jones III, who is making his debut as an actor, unless you count his appearance in some charity ball tableaux a year or so ago. The three feminine roles will be taken by Mrs. William Singer Moorhead, Anne Watt and Mrs. Joseph M. Scribner, while in addition to Mr. Jones, the men in the cast are Fielder Clarke, James R. Macfarlane and John Camlin. Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby is going to "hold the book."

ANOTHER engagement of interest is announced today in the betrothal of Sara Brown Wakefield, daughter of G. W. Wakefield, of Thomas boulevard, to Albert W. Pettit, son of Mrs. Sara C. Pettit, of Forbes street, and the late Dr. Albert W. Pettit. No date has been set for the wedding. Miss Wakefield is an Allegheny College girl and a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma fraternity, while Mr. Pettit will be graduated from Pennsylvania State College in June. He is a member of the Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity.

THE marriage of Miss Louise M. Rieger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Rieger, of Oak Hill Farms, Wildwood, and Clayton D. Kuester, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Kuester, of Avalon, will be solemnized Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock in the Rieger home, with only the families and a few friends in attendance. Miss Betty Kuester and Miss Clara Hauffmaier will be bridesmaids and Dorothy Anthony is to be flower girl. James Kuester will be his brother's best man. After a trip, Mr. and Mrs. Kuester will be at home in Brookline.

AT a bridge party given Saturday afternoon by Mrs. E. C. Stevens and Mrs. R. R. Malcolm, Jr., in the former's home in Windgap avenue, announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Catherine Malcolm, daughter of Robert R. Malcolm, of McKees Rocks, to Theodore J. Thomas, of McKees Rocks. No date has been set for the wedding.

ALLEGHENY LODGE, No. 693, I. O. O. F., will hold its thirtieth anniversary dinner Tuesday night, April 2, in the North Side Community House, with only members and their families as guests. A program of entertainment has been arranged.

WILLIAM B. NEISON and his sister, Miss Cora M. Neison, of the North Side, who have been spending the winter in Florida are in St. Petersburg at present, and expect to be home for Easter.

TWO plays, "The Struggle" and "The Modern Young Man," were presented yesterday at an open meeting of the Edgewood Woman's Club in the Edgewood clubhouse. Mrs. W. H. Garrett as the disapproving mother and Mrs. Frank W. Conner as the very modern daughter won honors in the first play, while in the second, the scene of which is laid in a cafe, Mrs. Conner, Mrs. E. J. Uhl and Mrs. Edwin B. Eicher had leading roles, and Mrs. Sidney J. Watts, Mrs. W. P. Buckwalter and Mrs. Frank C. Demmler portrayed the men. Mrs. W. D. Stewart presented piano solos during the intermission.

THE international convention to be held in June in Montreal, the appointment of members to the state board of examiners, and district ownership of the clubhouse will come up for discussion at tonight's meeting of the Sixth District Nurses' Association to be held in the Nurses' Club, Oakland.

THE nominating committee will be elected at Monday's meeting of the Lee Community Club. Mrs. Charles B. Bartley will direct the musical program and a sale of articles made by the blind will be conducted. The chief feature, however, is the contest in arranging flowers for which Mrs. Joseph G. Moorhead, club president, has offered four cash prizes.

AN astrologer will entertain as an added feature at the card party which District No. 26 B, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold tomorrow afternoon in the Congress of Clubs.

"No more Blue Mondays. I use Old Witch"

NEW SUPER-CLEANSER WORKS MAGIC ON WEEK'S WASH

Scrubless way makes clothes look whiter, smell fresher

Look at these snowy white clothes! Sweet smelling. Washed without rubbing and scrubbing. Fresher than they've ever been before.

It's really very simple. You just pour a little of this new-type cleaning fluid into your washtub.

Don't rub or scrub. There's no need to use your washboard now. This wonder cleanser actually soaks out the dirt that you used to scrub by hand.

It's the new ammonia discovery—called "Old Witch"... three times as efficient as ordinary household ammonia. Different from any cleanser you've ever used before.

You simply add a few tablespoonfuls in your washtub... use soap as you always do... and let this cleanser do the work.

Instantly it turns grease into soap. And the hardest part of washday is done away with.

It softens the water. Removes every particle of grime... deodorizes.

And best of all, "Old Witch" is absolutely guaranteed not to harm the satin-smoothness of your hands.

But please remember, Madam, all cleansers are not alike. You'll discover that, the minute you try "Old Witch."

So be sure to ask your grocer specifically for "Old Witch." It costs only 35¢ for a large-size bottle.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT NEWS

THURSDAY, MARCH 21, 1929

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

ALTHOUGH never on one for any length of time I have always liked the atmosphere of a college campus and have always imagined I should like association with professors, in spite of the cartoons that always make the professors out as gentlemen who can't find their spectacles or who walk along carrying an umbrella and a book.

The other day I visited a class-room at Carnegie Tech and was not disappointed. The senior class in commercial engineering craved information about the editorial side of the newspaper business.

I saw where the students studied, heard lectures, and loafed. I talked with two of the professors of that department, Dr. Walter F. Rittman, professor of engineering, and George H. Follows, professor of commercial engineering, and I can't see why under such auspices a few Herbert Hoovers will not result from the Tech course.

Hoover is the beau ideal of commercial engineers inasmuch as they believe he approximates perfection in blending nicely engineering facts and skill with social and industrial problems.

The class is under Dr. Rittman, who is not only a good teacher, but who went through the hard knocks of more years of college football than the law now allows, and who now mixes in the daily mart with great distinction.

Mr. Follows, by the way, was one of the first to become associated with Carnegie Tech. He remembers when there were no students and when an office downtown represented the physical aspect of the local school.

I PARTICULARLY liked Dr. Rittman's story of the time he prepared a voluminous report for an oil magnate, Harry Sinclair. Engineers and geologists at Dr. Rittman's directions had amassed facts about a certain property that were encyclopedic. At a meeting Dr. Rittman took the bulky volume with him and laid it on a table. "That is quite a report, Doctor," said Mr. Sinclair.

"Yes," said Dr. Rittman, "all the facts are here."

"Well," said the oil man, "instead of us going through the whole report I'll ask you just one question and perhaps that will settle the whole thing. Do you think we ought to buy this property?" "Yes," replied Dr. Rittman. "Fine," said Mr. Sinclair, "and now I think we can delay reading the report until some other time."

And while I am thus dallying with big-wigs I might take occasion to ask you if you know Kate McGeehan. She was a cook for years for Charley Schwab. She is now living in a home for working women in the downtown of Pittsburgh. There were times when Mr. Schwab just a little perturbed by a parade of butlers carrying in the food would walk to the kitchen and say to his veteran cook: "Kate, bring in the dishes yourself tonight, will you, I get sick of seeing so many butlers walking around."

TO GET back to my visit to Carnegie Tech I was struck by the age of two students, apparently, from the painting class. One was 40 and the other was 50. They were painting the floors of a lecture room—getting practical experience, I supposed. I was composing a panegyric on ambition among the aged, when inquiry, unfortunately revealed that the men were painters employed by the school. After all I should have known they were not students as both were wearing caps.

I have only one suggestion to make to my booking agent, Mr. McManus, of our advertising department. I am accustomed to a large pitcher of water and a glass on the desk near which I stand. I have found I get my best effects by saying: "Assuming then that my hypothesis is correct," and then stooping to pour out a glass of water, drink it, flourishes a handkerchief across the mouth, and so on. But you can't do this, Mr. McManus, unless such details are taken care of in the booking arrangements.

GLENSHAW SEEKS BOROUGH PAPERS

City's Students Kept Indoors At Lunchtime

LONG SCHOOL DAY PROTEST GROWS

SINGING THE "PRISONER'S SONG" IN SOUTH HILLS HIGH SCHOOL

Compelled to stay indoors in South Hills High School from 8:45 a. m. until 3:45 p. m., these students with mock happiness bewail their circumstances by singing the "Prisoner's Song."

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS IN LUNCHROOM

A recent ruling for all city high schools compels all students to patronize the school lunchrooms. Their only freedom during the day is on occasions with outdoor gymnasium classes.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS IN LUNCHROOM

It's compulsory for these girls to eat in the lunchroom or cafeteria at South Hills High School. They don't particularly mind eating there, they said, but they'd like to get out for a little air after they've had their lunches.

BOARD'S RULING RAPPED BY TEACHERS

With spring in the air and sunshine and balmy breezes beckoning boys and girls are reported as objecting to being penned up in the city high schools from 8:45 until 3:45 p. m. daily, in accordance with a recent edict of the Board of Education.

Parents, teachers and the students themselves complain bitterly of the ruling and as the urge of the great outdoors becomes more and more apparent with the advance of warm weather, the rule becomes more and more unpopular.

KEPT IN AT NOON

At noon when these young people relax from their arduous studies, instead of a walk in the open or an opportunity to bask in the sunshine, they must remain cooped up in their classrooms or corridors while teachers, janitors and in some cases trusted students stand guard at the doors. Their only recreation is sitting before a window, or perhaps staging an impromptu entertainment of their own preparation, which invariably includes the singing of the "Prisoner's Song," a ditty that has regained popularity among students since the ruling went into effect.

None of the principals will consent to being quoted on the rule, but the teachers have made no effort to conceal their feelings as evidenced by an article headed "The Pupils' Longer School Day" which appeared in the March issue of the Pittsburgh School Bulletin, official organ of the Pittsburgh Teachers' Association.

NEED SUNSHINE

"Cod liver oil," this article states, "is called 'bottled sunshine' but scientists tell us it is of no value unles obtained from cod fish that have lived in the sunshine. Sunshine is vital to our health and well-being and the lack of it causes many of our present day ills. Artificial sunlight machines have been invented to cure some of these ills, but let us hope these future citizens will not have to resort to such methods to secure their sunshine in their teens."

Various reasons have been advanced for the board's ruling. As to this, the Bulletin says:

"It is hoped that this measure was not passed from a mercenary point of view and that the board of education had other reasons than merely to compel pupils to patronize the school cafeterias. Other reasons might exist such as undesirable places near the high schools. If such conditions do exist, it is high time for the parents and school authorities to cooperate with the proper authorities in getting rid of these menaces to our youth."

3 NORTH SIDE MINISTERS RESIGN

The resignations of three United Presbyterian ministers were accepted at a meeting of the Allegheny U. P. Presbytery held in the McNaugher Memorial Church, North Side.

They are the Rev. E. V. Condron, of Ross Community Church, who resigns to accept a call to the Springdale church; the Rev. C. G. Johnston, of the Seventh Church, California avenue, and the Rev. R. M. Campbell, Tenth Church, Suismon and Middle streets. The latter two have not accepted charges elsewhere. The resignations become effective March 31.

A special commission reported that the Twelfth Church, Manchester, had been finally dissolved and the property disposed of to the Pittsburgh Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church for mission purposes. The edifice was damaged by the Manchester gas blast.

Seven ministers were chosen commissioners to the general assembly which is scheduled to meet May 29 in North Church, Perrysville avenue. This will be the first meeting of the assembly in Pittsburgh since 1918. The ministerial commissioners are: J. Alvin Orr, First Church, North Side; H. M. Bruce, Tarentum; D. T. McCalmont, Valencia; H. J. Rose, superintendent of missions of the First Synod of the West; John McNaugher, president of Pittsburgh Theological Seminary; Joseph C. Hamilton, Sewickley; R. J. Miller, editor of Sabbath school publications. The list of elders to serve as commissioners has not been completed, according to the Rev. Dr. O. H. Milligan, stated clerk of presbytery.

D. H. Mackay and M. S. Ray, seniors of the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, were licensed by presbytery to preach. Dr. Orr, moderator, presided.

Today's Flagism

On March 21, 1918, Old Glory made her first appearance as a battle ensign on the soil of Continental Europe. On that day the Battle of Picardy, the great German offensive, was started and it was in that crucial combat that American troops participated for the first time as World War battle units. Again, there was no staying Old Glory's progress, and a few months later she floated unchallenged over captured enemy territory.

TYPICAL GIRL PATS STOVE, AN EXPERT WITH STEAK

Who is the Typical American Girl? Pittsburghers are asking themselves that question every day, in common with residents of every part of the country. What's more, many of them are trying hard to help the Quest Editor in his search.

So many helpful suggestions are coming in that the Quest Editor is going to publish a few of them today.

SOME SUGGESTIONS

Following are some of the amusing and interesting specifications contributed by Miss Louise Bauer, 2915 Veteran street, North Side: Does she frown on Nicotine? No. Is she expert at tinkering with a two-inch steak? Yes. Will she walk right up and pat a gas stove? Yes. Has she beauty? Yes. Has she brains? Yes. What is her type? Quiet and plain.

A more cynical estimate is made by R. L. Henderson, of the North Side:

"The Typical American Girl! Yes, I have seen her. I have seen her in her own home, in the homes of friends, at exclusive social functions, night clubs, road houses, fraternity dances, athletic contests, and at prize fights and wrestling bouts.

"I have seen her smoke, drink from flasks with ease, pet in public, use cosmetics, wear male attire and one-piece bathing suits."

From New Kensington and Miss Natalie J. Lohr, however, comes a note of hope:

"Were the Typical American Girl standing before you now, how attractive you would find her! Possibly she would not be pretty in the usual sense but her freshness and winsome charm with her buoyancy of spirit give her an assurance that immediately sets her apart from any group.

"Our Typical American Girl may be found in college, working in some place of business or in the social world, but wherever you find her she is fascinating as no other girl can be."

SEES DIFFERENT TYPE

West Aliquippa sends the letter of Miss Bertha Marquis, who says in part: "The Typical American Girl is the modern business girl of today. She comes from a family of no more than fair means; knows no luxury. What is hers, she has yearned for, striven for, and achieved. It is within the power of the Business Girl to portray each type you have named as a possible candidate for the distinguished honor of being called "The Typical American Girl."

Does your nominee conform to these standards, or something better? Or do they require too much? Send your nomination to the Quest Editor of the Sun-Telegraph AT ONCE.

GLENSHAW ASKS CHARTER AS BOROUGH

A new borough is in the process of formation—Glenshaw.

Five hundred residents of three Shaler Township hamlets—Undercliff, Glenshaw and Elfinwild—are seeking the sanction of Quarter Sessions Court for incorporation and a hearing will be held next Monday, March 25.

Failure on the part of residents of the built-up section of the township to obtain from the commissioners modern and sanitary requirements, borough proponents say, a petition was circulated asking for the formation of a borough. A preliminary hearing was held in court last Monday, when opponents of the matter sought to have a commission appointed. The court ruled that the hearing should be continued next Monday.

C. L. Beet, chairman; Albert Wagner, secretary, and A. Bodycomb, treasurer of the borough plan, have pushed the matter to its present status. The territory to be included in the borough follows the ridge for about 3½ miles and is about a mile wide. It has an estimated population of 3,500.

The former claimed that his neighbor had built a house on her property over a natural depression in the ground, since which time water has drained over the Mervis property.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, March 21.

Say, with all this argument we have had about what Mr. Taft said when he swore in President Hoover, why not bring out what Vice President Curtis said when he swore in the first six Senators (you know we got 'em in half dozen lots, just like eggs).

Instead of saying, "With no mental reservations," he got his English and his law mixed and really said, "With no mental obligations."

Being in the Senate as long as he has, and seeing the type, why, the chances are that he was honest with his government and swore 'em in that way purposely. After all, it don't make much difference to the country how they got in there. How to get 'em out, that's our problem.

Yours, WILL.

"EXPLOSION" FORECAST IF "DRY" EVILS CONTINUE

POLITICAL SCIENTIST SEES NEED OF SPEEDY SOLUTION

Prof. Jerome G. Kerwin, University of Chicago political scientist, declares in an interview given the Hearst newspapers that unless America's prohibition problem is speedily solved "we may expect some kind of a political explosion in the next four years of the national political administration."

Prof. Kerwin made this declaration in commenting on the $25,000 prize offered by William Randolph Hearst for the best temperance plan as a substitute for the evils of prohibition.

"One thing is certain, the present prohibition set-up is wrong," he said. "It is far too drastic to be enforceable. Consequently it has not been enforced.

"We cannot go on with the prohibition situation as it is. We are facing a crisis on the liquor question. I believe and hope that President Hoover's genius is capable of devising the necessary administrative tools with which to meet the crisis.

"But if these tools do not succeed in effecting a solution, then, I believe, we may look for some kind of explosion midway in President Hoover's term.

Disrespect for Law

"The evils of the prohibition laws as they are now in effect are manifold. They have created disrespect for the law on the part of otherwise thoroughly respectable citizens.

"Prohibition as we know it has created a dangerous aristocracy of snobs, who publicly declare that the dry laws are 'good for the workingman' and privately consider themselves privileged to drink as much as they please.

"The dry groups, overwhelmed with their success in passing the original prohibition law, overstepped the bounds by drafting too drastic an instrument of enforcement.

"A readjustment is inevitable. I do not feel that we should go back to the old regime of the saloon. But we should seek regulation of liquor consumption rather than complete prohibition against drinking any intoxicating beverages.

"Perhaps a plan similar to that enforced by the Canadian and Scandinavian governments for the sale of such beverages under purity guarantees would work out in America. To regulate rather than prohibit—that I believe will be the real means of arriving at a solution of the whole temperance problem."

Following are other interviews and opinions on the contest and the prohibition situation:

August L. Fourtner

August L. Fourtner, assistant district attorney, San Francisco, Cal.:

"In view of the increase in crime caused, I believe, by the prohibition laws and other laws of a like nature, Mr. Hearst's $25,000 temperance prize contest should be supported by every law-abiding citizen in the country.

"If the present method of prohibition, as it has operated since its inception, is to continue, crime will increase still further.

"The dry advocates in their endeavor to enforce prohibition have lost sight of many lawful and important constitutional rights to which the citizens of America are entitled. I have in mind particularly the law of search and seizure.

"Personally I approve heartily of Mr. Hearst's attempt to bring order out of chaos by seeking a plan that offers the substitution of real temperance for the present prohibition law."

Euona Graft

Miss Euona Graft, attorney, Atlanta, Ga.:

"A better plan than the present prohibition law is what progressive people who believe in temperance must seek. We may no longer pretend that prohibition is a success. It has been given a fair trial and is hopelessly ineffective. The only thing to do now is to work out a better plan, one that is practical and can be enforced.

"Mr. Hearst's effort to give the people of America a chance to aid in the solution of the liquor question is progressive and I believe a practical plan for achieving temperance will result."

Negro Pastor Held On Murder Charge

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 20.—The Rev. Emerald Rhodes, Negro, of Mt. Zion Baptist Church, was bound over to the grand jury yesterday on a first degree murder charge in connection with the shooting and killing of Otto Campbell, a dissenting member of his congregation. Rhodes is said to have shot his parishioner when he encountered him on the street after a bitter church battle.

Auto Loaded With Rum Found Wrecked

RIDGWAY, Pa., March 20.—A wrecked car loaded with liquor was found on the Ridgway-Johnsonburg road, about four miles from Ridgway. The car bore a New York state license. It had been going in the direction of Johnsonburg. The car had turned over a number of times. The driver escaped.

PARENTS' DEATH AWARD $21,468

ERIE, Pa., March 21.—After deliberating two hours, an Erie County Court jury yesterday returned a verdict of $21,468.16 to William L. Tomlinson, 21, and his brother, Joseph H. Tomlinson, 19, formerly of Pittsburgh, for the death of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Tomlinson, of Pittsburgh, on August 9, 1927, when their auto was struck by an interurban car of the Northwestern Electric Company near Venango, Pa. The verdict was the largest ever returned in Erie County in an accident case.

The youths claimed that the company was negligent. The plaintiffs, both minors at the time the suit was filed, were represented by the Fidelity Title and Trust Company of Pittsburgh, executors of the parents' estate. In the same accident a Miss Elliott, said to be a school teacher, was killed. William Tomlinson now resides in Detroit while his brother attends State College.

7 Rules for $25,000 Temperance Contest

The purpose of the contest is to obtain a practicable plan, as a substitute for prohibition, which will secure better actual temperance conditions, which will be more easily possible of enforcement by state and Federal authorities, which will offer less encouragement to crime and tend less to debauch the public service, and which will not so outrage and violate the fundamental rights and personal liberties of American citizens.

The rules and conditions of the contest are simple and are as follows:

1—Every person is entitled to enter the contest, but no one person may submit more than one plan.

2—The practicable plan proposed as a substitute for prohibition must be set forth in an article containing not more than 1,000 words.

3—This contest will close April 30, 1929, and no plan which has not been mailed and postmarked on or before that date will be considered.

4—The articles submitted in the contest will be judged by a committee of eminent Americans, the personnel of the committee to be announced at a later date.

5—The full prize of $25,000 will be awarded to the contestant submitting the best plan as a practical temperance substitute for prohibition.

6—If other plans not awarded the first prize shall still be considered worthy of some compensation by the committee, a second prize of $5,000 and other prizes of $1,000 each may be awarded.

7—Articles submitting a plan to be considered in this contest may be sent to the temperance contest committee, care of the editor of any one of the following Hearst newspapers: Albany Times Union, Atlanta Georgian, Baltimore News, Boston Evening American, Chicago Herald and Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, New York American, Omaha Bee-News, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Rochester Journal, San Antonio Light, San Francisco Examiner, Syracuse Journal, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Washington Herald, Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

"Don't COUGH Your Energy Away"

How a cough may jar your whole nervous system!

COUGHING wears you down. It disturbs your sleep, takes away your appetite—uses up the strength you need to fight off serious infections.

Each time you cough, it tears at the delicate membranes of your throat, and bronchial tubes. A harsh cough puts a terrific strain upon your chest, stomach and other vital organs.

At the first sign of a cough or throat irritation, take Pertussin. It helps Nature free the air passages of germ-laden mucus, soothes the irritation and quiets the cough. Pertussin has been prescribed more often for coughs than any other advertised remedy.

Pertussin is safe even for small children and convalescents—a good remedy for "coughs that hang on." It is free from dope—does not upset the stomach and can be taken as often as necessary. Ask any Doctor or Druggist.

Dick's Way to Freedom Is Blocked by Change in Court Proceedings

CHAPTER XXVIII.

FELICIA'S impassioned plea that he take her away from the ugliness of the divorce colony stirred all the fineness of Dick Stuyvesant's nature. Her eyes, pleading for flight; her hands, reaching out to him, begging for his touch to brush away the feeling of contamination the incident of the Burgess girl left with her—both challenged him to what he sensed was the greatest battle of his life for happiness, to a battle for Felicia's contentment, to make Felicia see and understand that the protection she begged him to provide for her against the sordid things of life must be reared in her own soul by her own efforts.

"Darling," he chided, seizing her shoulders, "you mustn't let things like this upset you; we can't hope to shut out the ugly things all the time—"

"Try and do it!" Her young voice was bitter.

"We can do better than that!" His response was quick, his tone desperately earnest. "We can see them, know them—and, at the same time, escape them. For, after all, dear, everything in life is only what we make it. Beauty or ugliness, love or hate, they're all born and they all grow in the same place—in your mind. Keep your mind clean and healthy and happy and you can look out on all the world and find it good."

"Not in Reno!"

"Yes, in Reno! The place, the environment, doesn't matter. It's your own thoughts that matter. Wherever you go, you can always find sordid things—if you look for them. And you can always find loveliness, too—it's all a case of what you're looking for, because that's always what you find.

"And Reno isn't any worse than any other city. All the outside world sees is the sensational side of Reno, the mad antics of its divorce colony. It doesn't realize that what it sees is but a coarse, unnatural growth. The real city—the good, energetic, constructive city—lies beneath it, paying about as much attention to it as a cow does to a fly on her back. There's a world of honest goodness and beauty in that little city, and it's easy to see, if you're looking for the cleaner side of life.

"Why, do you realize that there are more churchgoers in Reno in proportion to population than in any city in California? Do you know that in Reno, where a permanent resident can complain about his breakfast coffee and divorce his wife before she has time to make a fresh pot, there is virtually no divorce among the natives?

"Do you know Reno is the center of the greatest gold-and-silver-producing area in the United States? That it ships thousands of dollars worth of wool to the East every year? That Nevada is one of the richest states in America in natural resources? That—"

"Dicky, you sound like a real estate salesman!" Felicia broke in, smiling at his earnestness.

He laughed. "I'm not trying to sell you real estate, dearest. I'm trying to sell you happiness, real happiness, the only kind that counts—the kind you build yourself in your own heart." He paused. Then: "I love you. And you love me. That's true, isn't it?"

She did not look at him. "I suppose so."

Dick laughed. "You suppose so! Felicia—look at me!"

Before the faith, the force of love which she saw reflected in his eyes, her breath caught. "Oh, Dick—do you really love me so? Will you love me always?"

"Forever!" he told her. "You know that, my dear!"

"Yes!" she whispered.

"The world can't be wholly bad, Felicia!"

"N-no-o."

His face sobered. "But I do feel as though our happiness depended on your understanding. We have everything, Felicia—love such as few people ever know—and I want us to be—well, darn near perfect!"

Her fingers touched his hair, gently. "You are, Dicky boy—darned near perfect!"

"Well—so's Reno!" he blurted, boyishly enthusiastic. "Darn it all, Felicia, I like the place!"

She laughed. "Darling, if you've decided that we're to settle there, I suppose we will!" she told him. Then she added, "you needn't worry, anyway, for mother's hunting a place to buy. Sam Lanier's driving up today. He's on the track of a place for her—some people who are going away. They'll leave their whole organization—servants, cowboys, everything."

Sam was waiting when they returned to the house, but J. B. and Adrienne Henley-Martin were nowhere about.

"Those two!" Felicia shook her head, in mock disapproval. "Have you seen Alex, Sam?"

"The nurse is washing him off—he tumbled off his pony into a mud-hole. Didn't hurt him any!" He laughed. "That kid's a regular westerner! Says one of the cowpunchers has been teaching him to rope."

Felicia laughed. She liked Sam Lanier—and he was part of the Reno Dick had meant. Sam and the Hodges, Judge and Mrs. Cooper—oh, she had made good friends out here!

"Do you two know young Norton, up at the university?" Sam asked them.

Felicia puzzled. "Oh, of course! That's the young professor who talked so much about Mosaic law and everything, Dick!"

"He's raising merry hell—if you'll excuse me, Mis' Brett. Seems he ran into a bunch of students at some roadhouse—they were hitting the liquor pretty hard—and he's announced that he's going to clean up the University!"

Felicia flushed at the mention of students. "Well—it needs it!" she said.

"He's got this girl of Dr. Hodge's in tow—"

"Peg!" Felicia exclaimed, incredulously.

"Yes, ma'am! And they're starting a little purity league all their own. He's young and the gang likes him—I don't know but what maybe he'll get away with it!"

Felicia was silent. Did Sam mean that Norton had fallen in love with Peg?

"Do you want to run out and look over that ranch house?" Sam inquired. "You will have to decide right quick what you're going to do—"

Felicia decided "right quick," almost the instant she set eyes on the low log house, nestling in a valley among giant trees, near Washoe Lake. Great mountains towering in the background, and a broad yard where little Alex might play in safety. Her mother—her "new" mother—would love this place.

They moved over the next day and Dick departed with Sam Lanier for the mine, now deep in mountain-top snowdrifts. J. B. lingered.

"I feel safer with a man around the place," Adrienne said, overlooking the dozen cowboys whose bunkhouse was barely a hundred yards beyond their back door.

With work at the mine going well at last, Dick returned to the ranch and he and J. B. motored into Reno. J. B. to give up his suite at the hotel. Dick stared when J. B. angrily hurled a cocktail glass into the wastebasket, and dropped a scented letter after it. The older man noted his expression.

"A lot of water's flowed under the bridge since we first met in this room," he said.

Dick nodded.

"I guess I was cock-eyed about Reno," J. B. went on, slowly. "Maybe it's the old picnic age—'What you gets, you brings with you!'" His eyes strayed to the window. "Dick, I'm getting fond of this town—of this whole country out here. There's a lot more here than the divorce mill!"

"It's funny to see you leading the simple life," Dick grinned. "Funny, but pleasant! Don't you miss the bright lights and the lovely ladies, J. B.?"

J. B. yawned. "Maybe I'm getting old, Dick." But his looks belied his statement. Long hours on horseback and days in the sun had taken years from his appearance. He looked as fit as when Dick had first known him.

That night, when J. B. returned alone to the ranch, Felicia demanded to know where Dick was.

"Stayed in Reno to talk to his lawyers," J. B. replied. "Said he'd call you."

So when the telephone rang a short time later, Felicia flew joyously to answer it.

"Darling!" she cried. "When are you coming out?"

Dick's voice was not joyous. "Felicia, I'm not coming out. My case is set for tomorrow morning—and they've just told me that Constance has filed an answer."

An answer? Felicia wondered. Did that mean she was fighting the case? That Dick might not, after all, be freed?

Idle Hands :-: :-: By ERIC HEATH :-: :-: Daily Short Story

J. WARREN LANGFORD'S marriage came as a complete surprise to society. None of his friends and acquaintances knew the bride. There were wild speculations as to her identity. Those with a tendency to gossip, found the subject inexhaustible, and it served to enliven many of their dull hours.

One day, May Mitchell was just May Mitchell, living in obscurity; the next day, she was the subject of interest of hundreds of people she had never met or seen, for she had become the wife of young Langford, one of society's bachelor set.

The courtship had been a romantic one. While staying at the Clifton Hotel, young Langford had gone into the hotel barber shop, and, during the process of having a haircut, had noticed the dazzling beauty of one of the manicure girls. Though he loathed having manicures, he engaged her, and, while she was working, noticed how delicate and white her hands were.

After this, he came for a manicure much too often, and May noticed this, and realized that he was interested in her. When he finally gathered sufficient courage to ask her to go to the theater with him, she refused very definitely. She had made it a hard and fast rule always to be strictly formal with all patrons.

While he was wondering how he could ever obtain a proper introduction to her, a fortunate incident occurred. He chanced to meet her one afternoon, when they were both leaving the hotel. As if it was the most natural thing in the world, he fell into step at her side. He told her who he was, but his name meant nothing to May.

It was only after they had fallen in love that she learned he was rich and a well-known figure in society. She had tried, then, to break the engagement, fearful lest she be taken for a fortune-hunter, but her love had finally overcome her scruples.

With her marriage, it seemed to May that she had stepped into an entirely new, and very wonderful world. She moved from the dark, shabby flat where she and her mother had lived for years to a beautiful, up-to-date apartment on Riverside Drive. Her mother, who had helped out their resources by doing whatever dressmaking she could get, found herself established in a spacious, beautifully furnished room of her own.

For the first few months May was like a child with a whole roomful of new toys. She delighted in managing her household, supervising the servants, planning meals and theater parties.

But when her life had fallen into a set routine, she found she had too little to do. A few hours a day were sufficient to look after the apartment. Dutifully, she paid social calls, and went to all the bridge parties to which she was invited, not because she found pleasure, as at first, in those things, but because they gave her something to do. She had a practical nature, and took no real interest in books, or lectures, or "social movements."

The days began to drag. She thought she would learn to sew. Then she realized that she would never be able to make clothes as attractive as those she could find in the stores, and, since she could buy whatever she wanted, and there was not the slightest necessity to save money by making her own things, this plan was abandoned.

May found herself becoming uneasy, restless. The situation was only aggravated by the fact that her mother was suffering from the same malady. They never admitted the truth to each other, but it was there, facing them, just the same.

The realization that she had become tired of going to the theater or the movies, because she had been going so much, came as a jolt to her. She was even tired of going shopping. She felt a vague longing to do something, she did not know what.

She got up aimlessly from the chair where she had been sitting, and wandered over to a window, where she stood gazing down moodily at the throngs in the avenue below. Hearing her mother enter the room, she turned.

How would you like me to wash your hair, and give you a nice manicure, Mom?" she demanded, on the spur of the moment. Mrs. Mitchell's face beamed.

"I'd like it, just grand, May," she replied. "Seems a long time since you done my hands, don't it? And you sure do 'em fine."

May busily made the preparations for the hair-washing and the manicure. She was humming gaily as she started in to work.

She was rubbing her mother's head vigorously with a huge Turkish towel, when she heard Warren enter the bedroom, adjacent to the bathroom where she and her mother were. For an instant she felt a sense of guilt, but she immediately banished it with the thought that she did not have to be ashamed of what she was doing, since she was doing nothing wrong.

When Warren poked his head through the doorway, she greeted him merrily.

"Mom and I are having a high old time," she declared. He frowned, and did not answer.

The hair-washing and manicure finished, Mrs. Mitchell went back to her own room. May found her husband in his study. He made a few casual remarks, and then said:

"If your mother wants her hair washed have a woman come in to do it, May. I don't like the idea of your doing things like that."

"Why not?" she demanded challengingly.

"Why not?" he repeated impatiently. "Why should you do things like that? For one thing, I certainly don't want the servants to see you—"

He broke off, abruptly, seeing the tense, frightened look in her face. She came over to him, putting her hands on his shoulders.

"Then what can I do, Warren," she said. "I can't go on, like this, day after day—"

"You mean you aren't happy?"

"I'd be happy, if had some work to do."

He gazed at her in astonishment.

"But you know I don't want you to work any more," he answered. "Your working days are over. I should think you'd be glad. Other women have enough to do—going to the theater, playing cards, shopping, visiting."

"Yes, I know." She sighed. "All that is all right. But it isn't enough. Oh, Warren, don't you see what I mean? It seems too wasteful, so sort of wicked and foolish too, to keep on, just having pleasure, pleasure, pleasure. Never working, or getting anything done. Suppose you didn't have the office to go to? Suppose you had nothing but golf and dances?"

"Can't you get interested in music? Or reading?"

"No. I'm not that sort of a person. And I know it."

"Well, I don't see what we can do about it."

There was no solution. When she was 25, May discovered that she was becoming stout. So she spent considerable time going to specialists, exercising, and being careful about her diet. Then her interests in these things wore off.

One year, a trip to Europe killed some time. The following year, the serious illness of her mother kept her busy for months. But when Mrs. Mitchell had fully recovered, May found her days were empty again, and her hands idle.

One evning when she was more restless and irritable than usual, her husband said: "Why not adopt a child?"

"Why didn't you think of that before?" May returned. "It would be too much of a nuisance. I'm too old to be bothered now. But I wish we had adopted one, about five years ago."

"Why is it too late?" Warren demanded.

"Don't you see?" she complained querulously. "I've gotten used now to having nothing to do."

Why do we have toothaches

HERE is the way most tooth decay and gum irritations begin. Particles of food lodge in tiny crevices at The Danger Line and elsewhere. They ferment. Acids are formed which attack the teeth and gums. Infection sets in. . . .

Prevent this! Use Squibb's Dental Cream. It will neutralize the dangerous acids. It is made with Squibb's Milk of Magnesia. It will aid in maintaining the health of your entire mouth—make your teeth lustrous and white. It is best to use on the gums because it contains no soaps or abrasives. Only 40c for a large tube.

AMATEUR NIGHT COMES BACK WITH PLAYS OF THE PAST IN TODAY'S THEATER

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

THEY are playing "The Octoroon" and "The Black Crook" in New York and Hoboken. "After Dark" was one of the big hits of the past six months. What's the matter with "The White Slave" and "The Romany Rye?" Nothing, they'll be along next! With so many theaters and so few dramatists that can produce the goods, managers are snooping around in attics and basements to find something that can be put on the stage.

"The Octoroon" has historic interest because it is the first play in which a camera was used on the stage. Dion Boucicault, the author, was a bold innovator. He even used the new invention to put a dramatic kink into his plot. The villain is unmasked as a result of the accidental exposure of a plate.

Now will some one dig up the first play in which a telephone was used. And the first play that brought an automobile on the stage. That may have been done by G. B. Shaw, for when Robert Lorraine played "Man and Superman" he came on in some sort of antediluvian roadster.

An interesting revival might even be made of the first drama in which a woman smoked a cigaret. Now a play in which the ladies do not light up would be classed as paleozoic. Which is almost synonymous with virtue.

Amateur Night Also Revived

Still another institution of the olden days seems to be getting a new lease of life. At the "Y" Civic Playhouse in Bellefield avenue on Sunday afternoon, March 31, Helen R. Stout, stage director of the "Y" productions, announces a public tryout, open to everybody in Pittsburgh. Particulars about the impending event arouse the suspicion that it is something very much like the "amateur night" of our mauve decades.

Whoever would join the chorus, whoever has ambitions to sing or dance, whoever has pulchritude or dramatic pep, may come forth that Sunday afternoon or forever after hold their peace.

Those who qualify will be taken into the cast of the annual revue the "Y" will stage later on under the title "Apologies of 1929."

It will not do to laugh at "amateur night," for it has been the means of discovering some first-class actors. James O'Neil, father of the more famous Eugene, recited "To Be or Not to Be" at an amateur night in Harry Miner's at the beginning of his career. "Not to be," hooted the audience, and the future Count of Monte Cristo almost "got the hook."

Sothern's Wail Is Uncalled For

So why should E. H. Sothern quit the stage "because the sort of thing I used to do has passed away?" Everything moves in cycles. In a year or two "Virginius" and "The Gladiator" will be just ripe for the public taste.

The far-reaching influence of this sort of thing can hardly be calculated. They made a musical comedy or operetta out of an old Stanley Weyman novel, "Under the Red Robe," and it is now running in New York. The chorus girls have rented a large house, furnished it, and do their own cooking. They are assigned their turns at sweeping the front door-step and dusting the parlor furniture. They have drawn up a set of rules from which a few quotations will please the stern moralists of stage uplift:

"All arguments will be settled by a vote of the entire community."

"Smoking will be permitted, but not drinking."

"A tutor will be engaged to give regular instructions in literature."

The community is called "More House," not an allusion to the slogan of young Oliver Twist, but in honor of Sir Thomas More, the author of "Utopia."

It is said that there have been 931 applications for the position of instructor in literature at the new Utopia.

Foster Week Set In City Schools

A resolution naming the week was passed at a meeting of the school board. The executive offices at Linely Institute, Wheeling, were entered and $127 taken from a desk. A school at Martins Ferry, O., opposite here, was entered. A small amount of change was taken.

PRISCILLA DEAN MAKING MOVIE COMEBACK IN TWO-REEL TALKING PICTURE

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate).

HOLLYWOOD, March 21.

PRISCILLA DEAN was officially launched as a "talkie-ite" when she signed to make a two-reeler for Jimmy Cruze. Cruze, you know, is engrossed in experimenting with the outlouds. He has bought what was once the Chadwick studio, a neighbor to the Columbia lot. And there Jimmy works the clock around. Priscilla will make an airplane flick for him.

Priscilla Dean.

Cruze's method is to first register the dialogue on film. Then go out and shoot his action and finally to synchronize voices with the silent celluloid. This Cruze lad isn't doing much broadcasting — yet, but reckon pretty soon he'll say it in results via the silver sheet. Priscilla closed last Sunday eve in a play, yclept "Weak Sisters," to start pronto with Cruze. Her worser half, Les Arnold — erstwhile around-the-world Army flier—continues to supervise the gas and sandwich emporium he and Priscilla own in Long Beach.

A certain W. K. writer imported to Hollywood by a studio was called into the Big Chief's office. The B. C. detailed a certain type story he wanted him to write and suggested such and such play and novel would ease his task. The writer cogitated over the suggestion and finally condensed it with: "Oh, you mean you want me to do a bit of unconscious projecting!"

Sophie Tucker In "Honky Tonk"

ESPIED Sophie Tucker on the Warner lot. She just having returned from vod'vil in San Francisco. And telling how she finally achieved an acrobatic act when Ted Lewis spotted her in the audience and lured her and several others to the spotlight. Sophie's all pepped up over "Honky Tonk," her initial outloud. Only they—being the moguls of mahogany—won't let her see it until 'tis just so. And is Sophie yearnin' for a sight of it! Is she!! Just like a kid wants an ice cream soda. She opens, by the by, in L. A. vodvil next week, doing a special act along kindly satiric lines that concern the sinema.

Sophie Tucker.

Franklin Pangborn, former screen devotee, and his stock company offered their conception of "Broadway" at the Vine Street Theater 'tother eve. Practically the entire cast of Universal's "Broadway" appeared to see the show. There was Tommy Jackson and his wife; Evelyn Brent and Harry D. Edwards; Otis Harlan, Paul Pekasi, Merna Kennedy, Cameraman Hal Mohr and Director Paul Fejos. And take Dr. Fejos. Having worked on the screen version of this W. K. play since last December, having slaved day and night for the past six weeks with only three or four hours sleep' his allowance, having completed the picture the night before the play premiered, he used his first night of freedom to see the dern play!

Ziegfeld Show Now on Screen

WITH BEBE DANIELS' departure from Famous Players', Richard Dix has come into possession of her attractive Spanish bungalow dressing room. 'Tis the only bungalow D. R. on the lot. . . . Not that it has anything to do with pictures, but 'tis interesting—or is it?—to know there is a local law that allows 150 feet to be the maximum height of buildings. Protection against possible earthquakes, mayhap. . . . ANITA LOOS and John Emerson plan to trek from Palm Beach to Hollywood in a coupla weeks. . . . Speaking of Palm Beach, Universal's "Show Boat" was previewed there 'tother eve, with the mayor officiating. FLORENZ ZIEGFELD and Helen Morgan were present. Ziegfeld produced it in New York and Miss Morgan was featured. Hear tell the outloud preview was a grand and glorious success with Joseph Schildkraut, Laura LaPlante, Alma Rubens, Elise Bartlett et al. getting an enthusiastic hand from the social-ites. Harry Pollard directed and to him much of the applause. . . . LENA MALENA and escort enjoying the Cocoanut Grove tet-a-tete. . . . IAN KEITH doing some one-arm banking. Understand he broke his arm recently. . . . MARY DUNCAN and Paul Bern motoring down ye boulevard. . . . ANN PENNINGTON is in our midst again. She arrived 'tother day to begin work soon in the "Gold Diggers." Ann looks pretty swell. Shes' the gal who pulled the grand check about her life being an open book, but can she help it if a coupla pages stick together! . . . And—that's all.

MAXWELL HOUSE COFFEE

It's unusually mellow, blended richness

PLEASES EVERYONE

RICH—"winy"—mild—pungent—every coffee-growing soil produces a bean with a slightly different flavor. Yet no one of them alone is completely satisfying.

Years ago, in the Old South, a gentleman who had tried them all—an expert in coffees—determined to find the ideal coffee flavor. After years of patient experimenting—testing, rejecting, combining and re-combining flavors and shades of flavors of the choicest coffees grown in many tropic lands—he created at last a blend which delighted even his sensitive palate.

It met the world first at the famous Old Maxwell House in Nashville, Tennessee—a critical world composed of beaux and belles of the Old South, bred in a tradition of good living, visiting Presidents, distinguished statesmen, officers of the Army and of the Navy, travelers of note from far and wide.

"Good to the last drop," these guests pronounced the coffee, and the fame of Maxwell House Coffee spread abroad. Visitors who sipped it in Nashville wanted it on their own tables in Washington, in Philadelphia, in Boston and New York.

North, South, East and West today it is the fine coffee with which millions of Americans start their day, over which they linger in enjoyment after the evening meal. Prominent hostesses serve it at their most brilliant social functions, sure, with this coffee, of pleasing all their guests.

Your own grocer has Maxwell House Coffee nicely sealed in tin to preserve all its fragrance and flavor. After your first cup you will understand why, in actual pounds used every year, Maxwell House has become America's most widely popular coffee.

BILLY BARTON NOT ONLY U. S. HOPE

IN HIS major league engagements, Roy Spencer, former Pirate catcher, appears to have the unhappy faculty of stepping into places where he cannot get any real chance to show his wares. In his three years with the Buccaneers, Spencer though showing plenty of promise and natural ability, was kept in the background because of the presence of Earl Smith and Johnny Gooch on the club. With Smith and Gooch working regularly, there were few openings for the recruit, the result being that he caught in only 11 games in 1925, 12 in 1926, and 34 in 1927, a total of but 57 in three seasons.

Roy Spencer.

And now Spencer finds himself in another tough spot. After being made a free agent by Commissioner Landis he signed with the Washington club in the American League. That's the club from which Muddy Ruel draws his pay. And there isn't much chance for any other catcher to work when Ruel is hanging around. For eight consecutive seasons Muddy has caught in more than 100 games annually, first with the Red Sox, and since then with the Senators. In 1924 he went as high as 147 games, in 1923 he was in 133 combats, and in 1927 he took part in 131 contests.

LAST year Ruel dropped to 101, but it will be noted that he was still above the century line, and it is said to be his ambition to keep above that mark as long as he can. He wants to equal or beat Ray Schalk's major league record of having caught in more than 100 games per season for 11 years in succession. That means three more years, at least, if Muddy can get away with it.

With Ruel in the game almost every day, Spencer naturally will find the greater part of his work confined to bull pen duty or keeping the furniture in the dugout from gathering dust. There is little chance for a catcher to develop under such conditions. Spencer ought to prove helpful to the Senators, both for occasional catching roles and for pinch-hitting assignments, but it might have been better for his own major league future if he had picked out a club that did not boast an iron-man catcher like Ruel.

THOUGH the beginning of Pitt's spring football practice here today will give local enthusiasts more fuel for fanfests, following the start made by the Dukes last week, many gridiron men here, as in other parts of the country, will continue to give a share of their attention to the situation at Cornell.

The resignation of Gil Dobie as head coach of the Ithacans shows how quickly the mighty may fall in the great college sport. When Dobie first went to Cornell his coming was the cause of great rejoicing there. The followers of the Big Red team felt that they were again on the map and they hailed Dobie with brass bands.

Gil Dobie.

AND they had the right dope, for with two stars like Kaw and Pfann as a foundation Dobie built up a winning machine. He won for himself a $12,000 salary and a house rent free. But when Kaw and Pfann passed on, Dobie began to lose his grip. He was unable to continue turning out winning teams, with the usual result that the alumni got after him and finally forced him to resign. How the change in coaches will affect Cornell's fortunes remains to be seen. As for Dobie, he is said to be booked for a Western post, which will leave Eastern football next season without the most mournful character it ever knew.

MANY football men are strongly of the opinion that Dobie carried the pessimistic stuff too far. He was constantly howling calamity and predicting defeat, and naturally the effect upon some of his players was depressing. Many an athlete is unable to do his best when told that he has no chance to win—that he is beaten before he starts.

Doleful Dobie refused to be consoled under any circumstances. George Currie relates that between halves of a game in which Cornell was being slaughtered by Penn, Bob Zuppke, Illinois coach, approached Gil, who was in the dumps. "Don't be discouraged," said Bob. "You've got one of the fastest squads of backfield men I ever saw." "Don't I know it?" moaned Dobie. "That's just the trouble. They get to the tacklers too fast."

ANOTHER story told of Dobie grew out of the proposal of an enthusiastic alumnus to take the whole squad to Atlantic City for an early week-end. "Nothing's too good for Cornell football's team," said the enthusiastic grad.

"But Cornell hasn't got any football team," wailed Dobie. Which supplies one other reason why Gil didn't make much of a hit with either alumni or under-grads.

Johnny Farrell.

NEVER in the history of golf has a greater array of professional talent been assembled than that competing in the big $50,000 stakes on La Gorce course at Miami Beach, Fla., starting today. From first to last, the field is one of superlative class. Hardly a name known to professional stardom is missing. There are Johnny Farrell, U. S. open champion; Walter Hagen, British open champion; Leo Diegel, P. G. A. title holder; such former National open kings as Gene Sarazen, Tommy Armour, Willie McFarlane, and Cyril Walker, not to mention Jock Hutchinson, Wild Bill Mehlhorn, Light Horse Harry Cooper, Joe Kirkwood, Bob McDonald, Wilfred Reid, A. Watrous and Horton Smith. The winner of that tourney surely will have to travel some.

ONE hunch upon which some American sports followers are basing their hopes of a victory for Uncle Sam's colors in the Grand National Steeplechase over the Aintree course at Liverpool, England, tomorrow, is the fact that it is an odd-numbered year. It was in 1923 and 1927 that Sergeant Murphy and Jack Horner, American-owned horses, came home in front.

Even if Howard Bruce's Billy Barton, America's main hope, and the only entrant bred in this country, fails to win, the United States will not be left without a chance, as there are 10 other horses entered in the race that are owned by Americans. They are Easter Hero, Maguelonne, Bright's Boy, Mt. Etna, Darracq, The Ace II, Ruddyman, Ballyhanwood, Drinmond and Rhyticere.

OF THESE Easter Hero is listed to carry the top weight of 175 pounds, with the others having lesser imposts down to the minimum of 140 pounds. But more than a favorable weight or skillful riding is required to win.

The course of four miles, 856 yards, is so treacherous that the victorious horse and rider have got to have luck on their side above

GRANTHAM MAY RETURN TO INFIELD

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21.—Will George Grantham force his way back into the Pirate infield?

This significant question has bobbed among some of the Pirates, and it is one that may get the consideration of Manager Bush, especially in view of the form shown by the Arizona greyhound in the training games.

George Grantham.

One prominent member of the club in commenting today on the various combinations available for the uncertain infield, remarked that he would not be surprised if Bush eventually would put Grantham back on second base with Capt. Traynor on third and Adams on short.

"We won the flag in 1927 with Grantham on second, didn't we?" argued this player.

IS POLISHED PLAYER

It is quite true that Grantham played the infield in 1927, and also in the bigger year of 1925. At the present time, George is a serious candidate for the left field job on account of the class he has been showing, yet Adam Comorosky might be considered the most outstanding player in camp, so that it will be hard for Boots to crowd out the Polish flier when the Waners get back on the job.

Bush is studying the big problem from all angles. In the early days of the Paso Robles workouts, Donie declared that he would consider the various angles well. He said he might decide to swing Traynor back to third and such a move probably would give Adams the shortfield job, as Sparky demonstrated last year that he is a star at the difficult position; indeed, the little fellow appears to be more natural at short than he is at second.

IMPORTANT MEMBER

For several seasons, Grantham, like O'Brien of the funny song, has had no place to go, but George generally has been an important member of the regular lineup, nevertheless. Second to nobody on the club in the point of natural ability, Boots is such a power on the offensive that he naturally makes his own spot. He continues to be the same important athlete.

Now that they have evened up their series with the Seals, the Pirates today were ready for any kind of opposition the Missions could offer. Red Killefer's crew is back from the training camp and primed to battle the Buccos for the remainder of the week. The Seals will step aside today to allow their rivals to meet the Buccos.

SHEELY CRACKS HOMER

Remy Kremer and Larry French fanned 11 of the Seals yesterday to aid in giving the Pittsburghers a 4-to-1 victory. The new southpaw held the enemy to one hit in the four last frames and he fanned four of them in a row in the sixth and seventh rounds. Kremer fanned six of the home batters in five rounds.

Earl Sheely clinched the victory in the ninth with a long homer out of the park by way of the left field wall. Brickell also scoring on the drive. The two-run circuit swat was made off Walter Mails, but these were the only tallies the Pirates made off Duster in his three sojourns on the mound.

Mails and Curtis Davis held the Buccos to five hits.

Local Amateurs Win in New York

NEW YORK, March 21.—(INS)—Pittsburgh's amateur boxers today were confident of capturing major honors in the national championships at Boston next month, as a result of their showing here last night in an intercity tourney, which provided a tune up test for the championships. Pittsburgh won three bouts and lost one. Boston won one and lost one and New York won two and lost four. The summary:

Mose Butch, Pittsburgh, 112 pounds, outpointed John Bonito, New York (4); Ray Meyers, New York, 115 pounds, outpointed Frank Garcia, Boston (3); Bob Stone, New York, outpointed A. Andrucci, Pittsburgh (1); George Bretsch, Pittsburgh welterweight, knocked out Frank Tavarone, New York (3); Sam Mango, Boston welterweight, outpointed Jack Graham, New York (3); George Chambers, Pittsburgh, 160 pounds, outpointed Andy Mella, New York (4).

Course and American Favorite in Steeplechase

MANY OBSTACLES

The course for the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree, near Liverpool, England, where the classic feature will be run tomorrow, furnishes one of the most rugged tests in the world of sport, as may be seen from the above map. Rail and thorn fences, ditches and brooks must be hurdled throughout the chase. The route is almost four and one-half miles long.

BILLY BARTON

Last year, a crowd of 250,000 witnessed the Grand National, in which Billy Barton, the American entry, finished second to Tipperary Tim, a 100-to-1 shot and the only other horse in a field of 48 to reach the wire, and Billy Barton had the event sewed up until he fell after taking the last barrier. Above picture shows him leading the pack. He is one of the prime favorites for tomorrow's renewal of the race, which has been termed "brutal" by many sportsmen.

MELLOW TESTS RAY NEWTON TONIGHT

Beaten by Terry Lingo, of Columbus, in their return bout at Washington, Pa., last Monday night, after he had knocked out Lingo in their first meeting, Ray Newton, of Mansfield, O., who also boasts a knockout victory over Battling Gizzy, of Donora, makes his bow before McKeesport fans tonight, when he meets Johnny Mellow, of Detroit, in the 10-round windup in the Palisades roller rink arena. He faces another tough customer in Mellow, who is one of the smartest boxers ever to appear in the Tube City ring, and will have to put on one of his best punching displays to avoid a second defeat within four nights.

Johnny Mellow.

All of the fans like to see punchers in action and Newton's reputation along these lines has resulted in a large advance sale for tonight's battle.

Promoter Jim McGirr has backed up the bout well. Ken Hargraves, Negro junior lightweight, of New Kensington, meets Chet Smallwood, of Akron, in the semi-final; Chuck Zelnack, of Glassport, is paired with Red Ryan, of Washington, Pa., in the second bout, and Sammy Borland, of McKeesport, and Eddie Anderson, of Washington, Pa., will appear in the opener.

LA ROSE DUE TONIGHT

Tony LaRose, the Cincinnati southpaw, is due in town tonight for his 10-round main event with Cuddy DeMarco, of McKeesport, in the Moose Temple tomorrow night. According to his manager, he is confident of spraying DeMarco with punches as he did Bobby Richardson in his first appearance here, at Motor Square Garden. He claims he was ill the night he lost to Rudy Ceder and is anxious to prove by whipping DeMarco that he is right for another meeting with Ceder.

Bernie Conway, of Johnstown, wants to show his stable of fighters here. He has George Pavlick, middleweight; Johnny Chiodo, featherweight, and Slambang Harry Taylor, lightweight. He wants to pit Taylor against Battling Gizzy, Pavlek against Buck McTiernan or Mickey Solmen and Chiodo against any of our feathers. Chiodo claims victories over Frankie Porto, Johnny Haggerty and Art De Champlain.

Entries close tonight for the A. M. A. senior championships, scheduled at Motor Square Garden next Monday and Tuesday evenings.

Ray Barnes, promoter of the Barnes A. C. of Alliance, O., wants to hear from managers of boxers seeking bouts.

CEDER MEETS FIRPO

Rudy Ceder boxes Henry Firpo at Youngstown tonight. Billy Light and Andy DiVodi meet in St. Paul.

Six amateur bouts feature a smoker by the Collier Colts Baseball Club in the Carrick Eagles hall this evening.

Pittsburgh amateur boxers compete at the Crescent A. C., Brooklyn, and in the opening round of the Middle States tournament at Gary, Ind., tonight.

NEW HEAVY IN DISTRICT

Jim Buchanan, of Charleroi, has a new heavyweight under his wing whom he will show hereabouts soon. He is Big Pete West, of Chicago, who likely will box on the Tommy Loughran-Mickey Walker card in the new Chicago Stadium one week from tonight. He has boxed in California and Arizona, in addition to Chicago, and has knocked out 15 opponents. Among the men he has beaten are Seal Harris, Walter Madey, Bill Thaler, Buck Walters, Ike McFowler and Andy Mitchell. Buchanan wants to match him against McFowler again or with Jack Wells or Sandy Seifert.

Rutgers Not to File Protest Against Eli

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., March 21.—(INS.)—Rutgers athletic authorities have decided not to protest the Yale-Rutgers swimming meet at New Haven, last Friday night, when a disqualification cost Rutgers the meet and the league championship.

SEGRAVE GETS GOOD BREAK

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 21.—(AP.)—Luck broke against Gar Wood, ace of American speed boat pilots and his Miss America VII, and Maj. H. O. D. Segrave, British driver, in his Miss England, loafed to an easy victory in the first heat of their match. His average speed for the 12 miles was 59.228 miles per hour.

A broken steering quadrant forced Miss America VII, which holds the world record for speed boats of 92.838 miles per hour, out of the race on the back stretch of the two-mile course on the third lap. Wood then had a half lap lead over the invader.

Wood announced his craft would be in shape by the time the starter's gun booms today.

Local Cueist Loses Two Tourney Duels

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 21.—(AP.)—Percy Collins of the Illinois Athletic Club, Chicago, was a strong favorite today to defend successfully his national amateur billiard title after his overwhelming victory over M. P. McClure of Pittsburgh.

The Chicago ace required but 11 innings to defeat McClure yesterday, 300 to 141. He averaged 27 3-11 with a high run of 55.

M. C. Walgren, Seattle, Pacific Coast champion, stayed in the undefeated class by defeating McClure, 300 to 253 in a 29-inning game. Arie Schaap of St. Louis defeated Harry Postal of Brooklyn.

American Horses Set for Grand National 'Chase

LIVERPOOL, England, March 21.—(AP.)—The spotlight of English horse-racing has turned from Lincoln to Liverpool and for two days revolves around the famous Aintree course. There tomorrow afternoon one American-bred horse, Billy Barton, and seven other American owned jumpers, match their ability and racing luck with perhaps 50 others in the contest for high turf honors and stakes of $60,000 in the grand national steeplechase. Billy Barton carries the chief American hopes and money, although in the latter respect J. H. Whitney's Easter Hero has substantial support.

Easter Hero remains the favorite in betting with Billy Barton and Span. Billy Barton has reached Aintree and is declared to be in tip top form.

AINTREE JUMPS ARE MANY, PERILOUS

By CHARLES A. SMITH.
International News Service.

LONDON, March 21.—The Grand National Steeplechase course at Aintree, near Liverpool, over which approximately two-score horses will race tomorrow afternoon for a prize of $65,000, is very properly called the world's stiffest test of horse flesh.

There are 16 dangerous jumps, 14 of which have to be negotiated twice. The horses engaged in the race turn at the fourteenth obstacle for the second circuit of the course and are only called to negotiate the fifteenth and sixteenth fences once at the end of the last lap.

The latter two fences are among the worst on the course and provide a truly terrifying obstacle for horses already weakened by the grueling task of negotiating the 28 jumps and several miles of territory.

It is at these last two fences that the race is generally won or lost, as witness the sensational mishap last year when Billy Barton, an American horse, owned by Howard Bruce, of Baltimore, stumbled at the very end of the contest after having it virtually won.

11 FAIRLY EASY

With the exception of the last obstacles, Billy had negotiated the course in faultless style, and was already being hailed as the winner when he stumbled in taking off, unseated his jockey, and so permitted the Irish outsider, Tipperary Tim, to go ahead and win.

Of the 16 fences, 11 are fairly easy, comprising thorn and gorse jumps four feet six inches high and about three feet wide. Generally they are surmounted without difficulty, although some of the less experienced horses refuse.

The other five jumps are terrifying in their size and lay-out, and have frequently called forth protests from horse lovers, who allege the horses are strained almost to the breaking point in negotiating them. The main characteristics of the five jumps are as follows:

The famous "Belcher's Brook," the sixth jump from the start, where the first crop of falls and refusals usually occur, is a thorn fence backed with fir stakes, five feet high with a natural stream on the far side five feet six inches wide. In taking this jump the horses are faced with a six-foot drop on the far side.

FINISH IS DIFFICULT

The "Canal Turn", known as fence No. 8, provides a severe test since, after negotiating the jump, the horses have to straighten out immediately to take a bend. The "Canal Turn is a fence (gorse) five feet high, three feet wide with a ditch on the take-off side six feet wide and two feet deep, banked up toward the fence.

Then comes "Valentine's Brook", the ninth jump on the list, which has the same characteristics as "Belcher's Brook", except that the stream on the far side has a steeper drop.

Jump No. 15, is popularly known as the "Open Ditch." It consists of a thorn fence, five feet two inches high and three feet nine inches wide, with a ditch on the take off side six feet wide and two feet deep.

The last obstacle of all, number 16, called the "Water Jump," is 15 feet wide over all, and can only by negotiated by the best of jumpers. The fence is composed of thorn. It is two feet six inches high and two feet six inches wide with 12 feet six inches of water, three feet deep.

There is a run in from the last fence to the finishing post 494 yards long, slightly uphill.

Two Buccaneer Rookies Are Released

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21.—The big Pirate squad was further reduced when the two young rookies from the Oakland district, outfielder Louis Martin and First Baseman Basil Panella, were given their unconditional releases.

Martin and Panella are both under age and while they both appear promising, the Pittsburgh management felt it would not be justified in trying to farm them out. The youngsters played in one of the winter leagues of this section before going to Paso Robles.

In making the announcement of the disposition of the two recruits, Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss stated that no further players would be dropped until after the club starts Eastward.

Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Buccos, was slightly ill yesterday, but he attended the ball game. The Pittsburgh magnate is suffering from a cold.

STATE FLOOR SEMI-FINALS TOMORROW

By JESS CARVER.

Sharon, Western Pennsylvania's representative in the state interscholastic basketball tournament semi-finals scheduled tomorrow night in the Stadium pavilion, will meet Altoona High School in one of the two contests carded for the night's play. Hazleton and Reading, the remaining two contenders for the state laurels, will meet in the other contest.

The winners in the two games are to clash Saturday night at 8 o'clock for the state championship.

The officials of the tournament will meet tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock to decide in which order the two games will be played. The first game will start at 7:45 p. m. and the second one hour later.

The influx of teams and fans, primed for participation in the tourney, was to begin late today with the arrival here of a special train from Hazleton, bearing the defending state champions, and close to 1,000 of those ardent rooters.

Hazleton will be followed into town by the Reading team and its supporters. Altoona and Sharon, the other two entrants, located closer to the city, are not expected in until tomorrow afternoon.

The two eastern teams, especially Hazleton are being favored over Altoona and Sharon by the boys along the curb who profess to know what this basketball racket is all about. That makes it all the easier for the western representatives. It's always tougher for the favorite.

PITT DRILLS START

Jock Sutherland will turn his Pitt football squad loose on the track house practice field this afternoon for its first day of spring practice. Most of the varsity men from last year will report for the drill today and all of the frosh squad is expected to be on hand. One or two veterans have been excused until next week.

The fifth annual Waynesburg College tri-state scholastic basketball tournament will get under way today with 34 district school fives entered. Competition will be furnished in two classes, for Class A and B schools. Following is the draw for the games today and tomorrow:

Class B—California vs. Blacksville; Dawbrook, W. Va. vs. Bridgeville; Elsworth-Cokeburg vs. Ninevah; Bentleyville vs. East Bethlehem.

EVENING ROUND.

AH—SPRING IS HERE!

PIRATES BEGIN MAILING SEASON TICKETS

Same Teams Lined Up for City League

A big surprise was sprung at the meeting of the City Baseball League last evening, when Tommy Carson, manager of last year's champion Hermes-Grove, appeared and stated that the champions would be back in the loop as the Liberty Dairy nine this season. So now last year's eight clubs will constitute the league. While nothing was done regarding the nomination of a president, Everett Sweeney was again elected secretary, and F. P. Alger treasurer.

Dundee Must Post Bond by Tonight

CHICAGO, March 21. (AP.)—If Joe Dundee does not post $10,000 by tonight to bind a match with a suitable opponent, the National Boxing Association will withdraw his welterweight title vacated and award it to the winner of the Jackie Fields-Young Jack Thompson match.

Fields and Thompson tangle in a 15-round match at the Coliseum, next Monday night.

Dundee is under the N. B. A. ban for not defending his title often enough.

PERCY EQUALS RECORD

HAMILTON, Ont., March 21.—(AP.)—Percy Williams, of Vancouver, equaled the world indoor record for 60 yards here last night. Williams covered the distance in 6 1-5 seconds. Nurmi won the two mile miss-and-out race in 9:23 3-5.

BUC PITCHERS FIND JOLLEY'S WEAKNESS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21.—Walter Mails caused an uproar in the bleachers in the eighth inning. Larry French, Coast League star with the Pirates, had just completed a fine job of fanning Mails in the seventh inning. Up came French in the eighth and hit a hot liner to the center fielder.

"Aha, Duster," yelled a fan, "he struck you out, but you couldn't fan him."

"That's all right," retorted Mails, in a jiffy, "he's in the big league and I'm not."

SEALS, FANS LOYAL

Sheely's homer over the left field fence was a disputed hit, the drive going over close to the foul marker. The ball crashed into the house of a native son or a native daughter. In any event, the occupants of the home were loyal Seals supporters. As Manager Nick Williams walked across the field after the game a lady appeared at the window with the ball in her hand, yelling to Nick that the homer was a foul ball. That's a keen one, isn't it?

Rolly Hemsley.

Remy Kremer and Larry French emulated Dawson and Fussell in stopping Smead Jolley. The Bucco pitchers seem to have found a little weakness in Smead's terrific swing.

HEMSLEY LACKS IN HITTING

Eddie Mulligan and Babe Pinelli, good friends, will vie with each other for third base honors of the two local teams. Mulligan has long been a top favorite in his hot corner play, but the Italian may give him quite a run. Mulligan was not himself as he essayed to play third for the Pirates. Out here he is good for continual thrills.

Catcher Rolly Hemsley has won every baseball sharp who has seen him in action, yet he still remains a big question on account of his inability to hit the ball consistently. Hemsley is another Hartnett in the point of ginger while in action, but he has none of the Hartnett wallop at the barrier.

Rolly is a reminder of Walter Schmidt, former Pirate, who shared the catching job of yesterday. Both have grace and beauty in their backstopping. If Rolly could equal Walter's batting he would be a corker. Walt was not a .260 sticker, but he was generally good for .276 with a lot of timeliness in his punches.

Mrs. Reymond gained a 1 up victory at the nineteenth hole over Ruth Wisley, of Chicago. Miss Turpie, with less difficulty, defeated Mrs. Don Hamilton, of Chicago, 5 and 4.

At Huron, S. D.—Billy Petrolle knocked out Jose Gonzalez, 2 rounds.

Wall Street Rates Buc Chances At 2½ to 1

NEW YORK, March 21.—(AP.)—There has been no substantial shift in Wall Street views of the baseball races, but the latest quoted odds make it clear that two-club race on the American League and four-club scramble in the National is anticipated by the "wise money."

HEIDELBERG, CORINTHIANS PLAY SUNDAY

By TOM BIRKS

With Heidelberg scheduled to meet the Corinthians at Curry on Sunday in the Western semi-final of the National Amateur Cup, local soccerites naturally will flock to the Broughton grounds to see what stacks up as one of the greatest games in local soccer.

The Corinthian management is making preparations to handle one of the largest crowds of the season, and, seeing that the Curry grounds are easily reached, there is no question but that the grounds' capacity will be taxed.

MUCH AT STAKE

The teams will meet in this game as a preliminary to the playing of the American League championship game one week later, so both have plenty for which to play. The Corinthians, Heidelberg and members of the American League met Tuesday, and quite a question came up regarding the allotment of points. Finally the president and secretary made the decision that the teams would play off for the league title at Heidelberg one week from Sunday. But with the National Cup game scheduled for Sunday it will be the cup tie talk that will attract the fans. Can the Corinthian defense stop the Donnelli boys? That is the question Broughton fans will be asking.

JOHN WATSON DIES

Western Pennsylvania soccer lost an able official, local Scottish Clans a judicious leader and Wilmerding a beloved citizen yesterday, when John Watson, 408 Middle avenue, died in the McKeesport Hospital after a week's illness from heart disease.

Watson was born at Hamilton, Scotland, in 1879, and in his youth he was renowned as a cross country runner for the Hamilton Harriers and also as a soccer, played for the Hamilton Academicals S. F. C.

Coming to America in 1907, he became a leader of the local Scottish clans and was chosen as royal deputy. He directed the organization of the Scottish Clans Soccer League, and served as president of the circuit for three years, later being elected to the vice presidency of the West Penn Soccer Association. This season he was reappointed to the cup committee of the championship series.

HOCKEY SERIES RESUMED

The National Hockey League's playoffs for the Stanley cup and the world ice title, will be resumed tonight in Boston, New York and Toronto. Tonight's games will mark the conclusion of the New York Rangers-New York Americans, and Detroit-Toronto series, which are of two games each, the winner decided on a total of goals basis.

As a result of their 3-1 triumph over the Cougars in Detroit on Tuesday, the Toronto Leafs are heavy favorites to emerge the series victor and advance into the playoff semi-finals. The Americans and Rangers battled to a scoreless tie in their first duel, and neither showed sufficient superiority over the other to warrant being ranked as a series favorite.

The Boston-Les Canadien series is for the best three out of five games, and because total goals do not figure in the outcome, Boston gained a distinct edge in achieving a 1-0 triumph over the Flying Frenchmen on Hub ice Tuesday. The Bruins, playing on home ice again, rule slight favorites to repeat tonight.

SLASHED PRICES BRING BACK RING GAME

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Downward revision of prices for tickets to boxing shows are bringing the mitt sport back into public favor.

No better evidence is available than the case of Madison Square Garden, New York.

Jimmy McLarnin

The Garden will close its doors for the season after tomorrow night's show featuring the return bout between Jimmy McLarnin and Ray Miller with gross receipts of approximately $1,250,000 for 21 shows from October 5 to date. That is phenomenal business, considering the fact that the Madison Square Garden Corporation had just come through a touch summer which included a loss of $300,000 on the Tunney-Heeney fight and the "blowing" of an additional $100,000 on the Sammy Mandell-Jimmy McLarnin bout.

What brought about the comeback for the Garden? Two factors, good matchmaking by Tom McArdle, the new incumbent in that position, and sensible prices. Only five of the shows had a "top" of $10, and none went over that figure. Ringside seats for the other shows were available at $6 or $7.50 and for all but three of the shows the galleries sat a peek at the proceedings for $1 a copy.

HOUSE SOLD OUT

The McLarnin-Miller house already is sold out and will set a record for the season of $53,000. Only Paulino and Christner have approached this mark. McLarnin has cut himself in on three big gates, totaling approximately $218,000. The Garden's complete record for the season follows:

October 5—Joe Glick vs. Tommy Grogan	$39,321
October 11—Rene De Vos vs. Phil Kaplan	20,520
November 5—Paulino vs. Von Porat	35,649
November 16—Glick vs. Joe Gans	56,683
November 23—Kaplan vs. Ebbets	20,814
November 30—Griffiths vs. Braddock	33,836
December 14—Singer vs. Canzoneri	59,955
December 21—Mahoney vs. O'Kelly	28,875
December 28—Hudkins vs. De Vos	64,499
January 4—Sekyra vs. Schmeling	37,114
January 11—McLarnin vs. Glick	63,514
January 18—Lonski vs. Braddock	55,923
January 25—Sharkey vs. Christner	73,608
February 1—Schmeling vs. Risko	66,220
February 8—Singer vs. Taylor	56,744
February 15—Fields vs. Gans	41,484
February 22—Paulino vs. Christner	$1,504
March 1—McLarnin vs. Glick	71,797
March 11—Slattery vs. Braddock	37,000
March 15—Singer vs. Taylor	57,000
March 22—McLarnin vs. Miller	85,000

GARDEN FOLLOWS EXAMPLE

Locally we have had some instances of cut prices reviving interest in the game following the recent slump. Bouts at $1 and $2 have turned 'em away at the Moose Temple, and Jim McGirr rarely charges more than these seems at McKeesport. At the Jolly Bowl in New Castle, the rates are even lower and the same is true in Erie. The result has been that all of these clubs have been prospering, and new Motor Square Garden, set to reopen April 1, is falling in line.

For years, the standard prices at Motor Square have been $1, $2 and $3, with extraordinary cards drawing $2, $3 and $5. Beginning with the Andy Martin-Midget Mike O'Dowd show, one week from next Monday night, however, the Garden will cut its prices to 75 cents, $1.50 and $2.50. This will help, but it is a question whether this scale will prove as popular or net as much money as straight $1 and $2 prices.

It will be noted that each of the three new prices will entail the making of change where dollar bills are presented at the box office. This will cause considerable congestion and inconvenience to the patrons, and the 75 cent fans still will feel themselves back in the third grade. They would rather pay 25 cents more and get better seats than in the bleachers. A jammed Garden at $1 and $2 per head would appear to be the proper caper.

The Garden, by the way, has in mind a meeting between Jack Zivic and Rudy Ceder, a couple of sweet sockers, for its second or third show, and has landed a bout between Buck McTiernan and Mickey Solmen for its semi-final a week from next Monday and will present Terry Lingo in another bout on the same bill. There will be a 10-round windup, an eight-round semi-final, a six-rounder and two four-rounders.

Hall Eliminated In Florida Tourney

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 21.—W. B. Hall, of Pittsburgh, failed to survive the first round of match play in the annual Florida winter amateur championship golf tournament for the Ponce De Leon trophy, donated by L. C. Haines, on St. Augustine links yesterday. He succumbed to Ray Lenahan, of Providence R. I., in the second flight by 3 and 2.

In the championship sixteen, George H. Morse, of Garden City, L. I., winner of the event last year, was eliminated by Van Culver, of Port Jervis, N. Y., on the twentieth green.

Jimmy McLarnin 8-to-5 Favorite Over Miller

NEW YORK, March 21.—(AP.)—While Jimmy McLarnin toiled with pulleys, punching bags and sparring partners to reduce his weight to 140 pounds, Ray Miller quit work in an effort to add as many precious ounces as possible before their 10-round struggle in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Miller, decidedly handicapped in the weights, is endeavoring to build himself up to 133 pounds while McLarnin, growing steadily, had put to stay below the welterweight division. The Irish punching sensation from Vancouver intends to fight in the future as a full-fledged 147-pounder.

Although Miller, a numbing left hand puncher from Chicago, scored a technical knockout over McLarnin in the seventh round of their recent bout in Detroit, the sturdy Celt with the long knockout record rules an 8-to-5 favorite in the wagering. The Garden, seating 20,000, has been sold out for several days. All tickets were disposed of by mail with no public sale at the box offices.

FUMBLE RULE WON'T HURT GAME--YOST

"Merit should be rewarded and demerit punished. All that remains is to determine the degree of commendation for one and condemnation for the other."

There you have Fielding H. (Hurry Up) Yost's comment on the much discussed fumble rule which was written into the football rules by the august rule committee at its annual meeting. Yost, like most coaches, is heartily in favor of the new law, which makes a fumbled ball dead at the point of recovery and is designed to prevent occurrences such as Provincial's 97-yard run for a touchdown for Georgetown against New York University and Reigel's famous "boner" in the Georgia Tech-Southern California game New Year's Day. Both playerse scooped up balls that had been fumbled by their opponents, and in the case of Provincial, turned the miscue into a touchdown and an unexpected victory.

PENALTY SEVERE

"The stiffest penalty in the book is the loss of the ball," Yost said in an interview here yesterday. "I think it severe enough that a team lose the ball on the error of one man, without having the recovering side gain yardage.

"The rule will not have any effect on alertness. A football player isn't going to fool around and loaf and not stay on the lookout for fumbles simply because he is not permitted to run with the ball once he recovers it. The boys will be in there as wide awake as ever.

"What is more, this rule won't detract one bit from the thrills of the game. In fact, it will open football up, permit more open and sensational, crowd-pleasing, offensive play and change the aspect of the game within the 10-yard line. It will be more interesting. There won't be so much line ramming and safe and sane ball within the shadow of the goal posts in the future.

LUCK IN RECOVERIES

"You know, it is not often that the alert player grabs a loose ball anyway. Usually it is a man who is out of position, who possibly is not doing his part and who has wandered into the path of the elusive ball. The alert, hard-working man is in there doing his part and in my experience, seldom if ever gets the opportunity to recover a fumble."

Yost spent yesterday in Pittsburgh addressing the Michigan alumni at a noon-time luncheon and the student body at Shady Side Academy in the afternoon. He will speak in Philadelphia tonight and in Washington, D. C., Saturday.

ERIE PINMEN FAIL IN A. B. C.

CHICAGO, March 21.—Three Erie teams, rolling in the main event of the American Bowling Congress tournament, failed to land leading positions. The best score by the eastern delegation was recorded by the Erie Maennerchor five with a total of 2,550.

The Chicago team of George Geiser and Jules Lellinger slipped into a one-point lead in the doubles by cracking 1,502 pins.

The 3,000 pin mark was passed for the first time this year by the Hub Recreation team of Joliet when that quintet captured the lead in the five-man competition with 3,063 points, 129 more than the previous leaders, the Triangle State Bank team of Chicago. The scores of the Pennsylvanians follow:

GRAYS PRIMED FOR DEBUT IN NEGRO LOOP

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—When the American Negro League opens its initial season on April 27, the fans who follow the destinies of the infant baseball loop will see baseball which approximates Class AA in strength. This is the opinion of many observers who are competent to judge the relative values of athletes of the diamond.

The quality of the new circuit is shown in this instance: Ramon Herrerra, who came to Alejandro Pompez's Cuban Stars from the Boston Americans last year, will this season play with a Pacific Coast League club, and Herrerra was far from being the best second baseman among the independent teams of last summer, which now comprise the new league.

There has been quite a shifting of players through trades and each unit feels that it will be stronger than in 1928. The trading of a star does not necessarily mean that his tophole days are numbered, but that he has outlived his usefulness with a particular club and will do better elsewhere.

GRAYS GET STARS

The league limit is 14 players and each team will be down to that number by June 1.

The Homestead Grays, about to face the barrier in their first league dash, have acquired Jake Stevens and Walter Cannady from the Hilldale Club. The Posey-Walker interests made a ten-strike in landing this pair because Steve is generally conceded to be the best group short-fielder in the game and last year outshone the famous Dick Lundy, and Lundy approaches in skill the John Henry Lloyd of a decade ago. Cannady was the most valuable man on the Clem Darbie payroll last season.

In return for these two, Ed Bolden got George Britt and Martin Dihigo, both of whom do everything well. Britt is one of the best catchers in the game and can take a regular turn on the pitching mound where he is equally good. But Hilldale intends to use him as a first baseman. For the first time in its history the Clan will have a Cuban player on its roster and Dihigo rates as the best all-around man in Negro baseball. Holloway, secured from Baltimore with Jackson, second baseman, will displace one of last year's regular outfielders but it will not be Captain Oscar Charleston.

NEW MANAGER

Baltimore has a new manager, Frank Warfield, who was obtained from Hilldale with Red Ryan, hurler of parts. They had to release Ben Taylor to the Bacharach Giants in order to get Dick Lundy to play shortstop and Taylor will assume the job of directing the B-Glants in Atlantic City.

Dempsey Interests Are Favored in Boxing Bill

LANSING, Mich., March 21.—(AP.)—Jack Dempsey and Floyd Fitzsimmons, the potential promoterial partners, won a round in the Michigan Legislature, outpointing the Olympia Arena of Detroit.

The House state affairs committee reported out the bill which would legalize 15-roun' championship boxing matches in Michigan, but attached an amendment restricting such bouts to outdoor arenas.

Dempsey and Fitzsimmons would be compelled to stage their matches outdoors, as the Olympia is the only arena in the state large enough to handle a playing gate, and the "joker" in the boxing bill as it now stands would eliminate the arena from competition.

The amendment probably will be short-lived, however, as it also provides an increase in the salary of the state boxing commissioner, which has widespread opposition, everything else. You never can tell what is going to happen.

LAST year, for instance, Billy Barton had the race seemingly won. He was leading as he reached the last fence. But there, as his feet left the ground, through no fault of his own he was bumped by Maguelonne, a riderless French mare. The evenness of his jump was broken and he was beaten out by Tipperary Tim, a 100-to-1 shot. But it is the existing uncertainty that "makes" this great race, which has been one of the world's outstanding racing fixtures even since its first running. That was way back in 1837 on the Maghull course, from which it was transferred to Aintree in 1839.

Frank Moran.

YOUR old friend, Frank Moran, Pittsburgh heavyweight of the white hope days, may be done as a fighter, but you can't keep him out of the boxing game. He has just bobbed up in a new role, having been appointed chief inspector of the Los Angeles district by James Woods, one of California's boxing commissioners. Woods declares that Moran has more knowledge of the game he is required to deal with than any other man who has held the job in those parts.

The appointment came just at a time to fit in as a birthday present to Moran, as Frank celebrated his forty-second anniversary last Monday. He has been out of the ring since 1922, but from 1910 up to that time he did his full share toward keeping heavyweight competition alive, meeting nearly all of the best men of his time. Twice he entered the roped square as a challenger for the world championship, first against Jack Johnson in Paris in 1914 and then against Jess Willard in New York in 1916, but he was outpointed on both occasions.

Diplomacy Essential in the Conduct of Any Business

—By B. C. FORBES

OMAHA, Neb., March 19.—If you want to know how much your own city or any other city, is going to grow during the next few years, get the telephone people to tell you. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the Bell System, have learned, better than any other organization in the United States, how to gauge a community's likely growth. It is essentially their business to know in advance what is coming and to prepare adequately for it. Chain stores and other organizations "project" cities growth, but the telephone people have become the most expert.

Naturally, therefore, I called upon the Northwestern Bell Telephone headquarters here to find how things are going in its territory in Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota. The information gathered is encouraging.

THIS company serves fully 1,500,000—and gives connection with every part of this country, with Cuba, Mexico, Europe, Africa, etc. Although general conditions throughout the local territory were none too satisfactory there was a gain of more than 13,000 telephones last year.

Some idea of what the company thinks of the outlook can be gathered from the fact that last year it spent almost $13,000,000 for additions, betterments and replacements of plant and equipment.

Says President W. B. T. Belt: "We added to the exchange plant during the year 67,387 miles of wire and added to the toll plant 6,874 miles."

IN the Middle West managers of corporations take pains to keep the public thoroughly informed about what they are doing. Business men don't care like the politicians, many of whom are rather radical, to be able to bamboozle the people by making wild, exaggerated or wholly untrue statements and get away with it. So men of affairs seek the confidence of the public—the voters—by keeping them enlightened.

President Belt remarks: "Methods used in previous years to keep the public informed regarding our business were continued during 1928. These include lectures, demonstrations, moving pictures, newspaper advertisements, pamphlets and other media. More than 1,100 switchboard demonstrations and illustrated lectures enabled approximately 135,000 persons to become better acquainted with our work and problems. Motion pictures showing various phases of the company's activities were viewed by more than 530,000. Fully 30,000 people visited our central offices."

Therein lies, I think, a pointer for executives all over the land. Let the public get acquainted with you and with what you are doing.

LET me recite an instance of what this policy can accomplish. If the truth must be told, Omaha's city government has not in the past been irreproachable.

When the Omaha street railways were nearing the end of their franchise certain politicians, it is related, smacked their lips. Here was an ideal chance for doing a little business on the side before agreeing to granting a new franchise.

A utility man who had made his mark in the East was brought out and put in charge of the company, J. N. Shannahan. He was a straight shooter. Greasing politicians' palms was out of his line. Instead of handing out money secretly, he handed out facts openly. He laid all the cards on the table to prove to the people that it was in their interest to treat the street car company fairly so that good service could be restored. The service had run down.

The citizens upheld Shannahan. In one year he has become one of the most popular men in Omaha.

He takes the people completely into his confidence on the basis that the cars exist for the benefit of the citizens. For example, he has been conducting a vote to find out direct from the people what color they want their street cars painted. If that isn't diplomacy, what is?

DESPITE what cynics say, the people in this democracy do rule in the long run. Is it not, therefore, business statesmanship to exercise thoughtfulness to win—to earn—the esteem and the good will of the people, the ultimate bosses of us all?

Diplomacy is doing the right thing in the right way at the right time. Diplomacy is becoming more and more essential to large scale business success.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Copper Near Old Peak.

Refined copper prices today were near the post-war peak established in 1919. Copper for export was advanced 1⅛ cents to 23⅜ cents a pound following a 1-cent rise late yesterday to 23 cents for domestic copper. The 1919 domestic price record was 23½ cents. The advance in export price of more than 1 cent was the longest stride taken in the movement which has carried the metal up about 7 cents since the first of the year and 3 cents above the level of a week ago. Engineering and Mining Journal, in its weekly review today, reported continued insistent demand for copper here and abroad in face of limited offerings by producers. Advances in London quotations early in the week and anxiety of foreign buyers were held chiefly responsible for the present rise. Wall Street statisticians are busy figuring out possible earnings of the copper producers with the metal now selling at its highest level in 10 years, and estimates of startling profits have been made. It is figured that at 22 cents a pound, some low cost producers will be able to show net profits of around 14 cents, or 175 per cent. Inasmuch as most tonnage has been sold for future delivery, the profits on current prices are not expected to show in the earnings for some time.

Seek Copper Substitute.

Iron Age says the leading domestic consumers of copper, alarmed by the scarcity of the metal, are arranging to use substitutes wherever possible and that German users have formed a research institute to discover substitutes.

Raise Cotton Commission.

New York Cotton Exchange will raise rates on dealings on futures to $150 from $12.50 a 100-bales for customers and floor brokerage rates to $1.50 from $1.25 in cases where price of cotton is below 25 cents a pounds. Members also cannot extend credit to a customer in excess of $5 a bale, or exceeding a maximum credit of $10.

Cadillac Doubles Capacity.

The Cadillac Motor Car Company has begun a $5,000,000 building and equipment program involving six separate projects, according to L. P. Fisher, president. The program will give the company an annual capacity of 60,000 cars, or an increase of 50 per cent over present production and will make possible an annual business volurge approaching $23,000,000. Cadillac is a General Motors subsidiary.

Prohibitive Interest Rates.

Paine Webber and Co. say—"We see it that present call money rates are sufficient to curb excesses. Customers cannot afford to pay these rates except where they own securities. And this condition can be expected to continue for the balance of the year. The natural result is to permit activities without substantial expansion in the loan account. At the present time, a good many new issues are in dealers' hands or are not very well digested. The result is to increase the call for loanables both directly and indirectly. We believe this situation is being corrected steadily."

Chicago Cutting Loans.

The big Chicago banks today launched a drastic move to reduce loans for speculative purposes. Several of the banks informed their broker clients that their collateral loans must be reduced by 25 to 50 per cent, and it was understood that other banks will take similar action. Thereafter, it is said, the banks will seek to reduce loans to individuals secured by speculative securities. The primary object of the movement is to permit the banks to cut down their own borrowings. The Reserve authorities for some weeks have urged the banks to reduce their borrowings, with indifferent success. Within the last day or two the Reserve Bank has practically issued an ultimatum that accounts must be reduced. This means the banks must call in some of their loans to brokers and customers.

Indiana "Ex" Tomorrow.

Standard Oil of Indiana, which has been unusually active in the past few days, will sell "Ex"—the 50 per cent stock dividend on the New York Curb tomorrow. This is the melon announced shortly before the famous "battle" meeting of March 7 when the Rockefeller interests forced Col. Robert W. Stewart out of the chairmanship of the company.

Soft Coal Output Drops.

Another sharp decline in domestic soft coal production took place last week, the National Coal Association reports, estimating the output at about 9,600,000 net tons compared with 10,274,000 in the week ended March 9 and 11,154,000 tons in the week ended March 2.

California-Gulf Rumor.

A San Francisco report says it has become generally accepted that Standard Oil Company of California has entered merger negotiations which will strengthen the company's position in Texas and provide additional outlets for its production from that district. Indications at present point toward Gulf Oil of Pennsylvania or Pure Oil Company, both of which are well established in the Gulf territory. Standard Oil of California recently expended approximately $22,000,000 in Texas to provide pipe lines and refineries there. During 1928 the company increased its leased acreage in Texas by 19,406 acres and now controls 522,283 acres there.

W. L. Mellon, president of Gulf Oil, when asked about the rumors of merger with Standard Oil of California said, "there have been no negotiations with Standard Oil of California."

Erie's Income Larger.

Net operating income of the Erie Railroad, which has been staging a notable comeback in earning power, increased in February to $1,641,991, compared with $941,430 in February, 1928. Combined January and February net operating income was $3,091,275, against $1,363,384 in the corresponding 1928 period. The Erie has placed an order with the Lima Locomotive Works, Lima, O., for 20 heavy freight locomotives of the Berkshire type, of which it now has more than 100. It has also placed an order with the Baldwin Locomotive Works, Philadelphia, for 15 switching locomotives.

National City Possibilities.

Out of another day of rumors in Wall Street of bank mergers came a statement by Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City Bank, the largest bank in the country until the recent $2,000,000,000 Guaranty Trust-National Bank of Commerce consolidation, that there were no negotiations between the National City and other banks. However, Mr. Mitchell said he had talked with perhaps a half dozen bank presidents and others on the subject of mergers and that something might develop later.

March 1 Loan Ratio Down.

The New York Stock Exchange announced that total borrowings by members against stock collateral on March 1 amounted to 9.29 per cent of the market value of all listed securities, a decrease of .19 per cent from February 1. During the same period brokers' borrowings decreased $56,618,235 to $6,678,545,917. The average price per share of all listed stock declined $2.66 during the month to $85.30, compared with $87.96 on February 1, and $83.09 on January 1. The number of stock issues listed increased during February to 1,203, aggregating 842,521,997 shares, compared with 1,197 issues aggregating 807,858,244 shares on February 1, and 1,177 issues and 757,301,677 shares on January 1.

Your Life Insurance Can Be A Real Protection

Life Insurance came into being by the need for the perpetuation of the Value of Human Life.

Forty million people in this country carry insurance for the benefit of others—a comforting thought.

Life Insurance alone is not enough—a greater need has grown out of it. Consider the history of Life insurance money paid out in 1927. Five hundred Million Dollars (500,000,000) was paid the beneficiaries of insurance policies. Ninety per cent of it was paid in cash—the most liquid form of capital.

Nearly all of the beneficiaries were widows, children and aged men and women—a group most of whom are peculiarly unfitted for the management of capital.

Ninety per cent of this money will be spent or dissipated in seven short years. That has been the history of Life Insurance money paid in cash in the past.

These losses could have been prevented by a LIFE INSURANCE TRUST.

We would be pleased to explain in detail, at our office or yours.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

STOCKS TRACE ZIG-ZAGGING COURSE

NEW YORK, March 21.—(AP.)—Extremely nervous trading in today's stock market reflected the widespread uneasiness over the credit situation. Prices opened irregular, turned heavy just before midday, and then started upward in the early afternoon under the leadership of the public utilities. Trading turned dull on the rally with many small traders showing a disposition to keep out of the market until after the New York and Chicago Federal Reserve meetings were out of the way.

Call money renewed at 9 per cent. There was a moderate calling of loans during the morning, but these were easily replaced by the new funds attracted here from interior and foreign banks by the high rate.

One of the most significant developments of the day was a further increase of ¼ of 1 per cent in both the bid and asked rates on bankers' acceptances, placing them about half of one per cent above the rediscount rate and increasing the likelihood of an advance in the latter.

EXPECT GOLD IMPORTS

Some professional operators are showing little concern over the possibility of a rediscount rate increase, taking the attitude that it would only bring those rates in line with outside money rates, and would not seriously affect the credit situation. Hope is still held out for further imports of gold because of the fact that several of the foreign currencies are now around the "gold import" points, but any large inflow probably would be checked by higher bank rates abroad.

With many traders paying their income taxes by drawing down their balances in brokerage houses, forcing the latter to increase their borrowings, a large increase in brokers' loans today would not be surprising.

There was nothing in the day's news to explain the sudden demand for public utilities, although merger and stock splitup rumors involving several of the large companies have been in circulation for days. American Railway Express scored nearly 12 points, and Electric Power and Light moved up 4 points to a new high above 70. American Waterworks, Commonwealth Power, American and Foreign Power and American Power and Light advanced 2½ to 3 points.

Advance Rumely issues, which have been under steady accumulation by new interests, again moved into new high ground. A. M. Byers scored 10¼ points, Continental Can, Union Carbide and Houston Oil advanced 6 to 7 points to new peak prices. American Can crossed 128 to a new high, and General Motors held fairly steady around the high level established in the early trading.

BALDWIN FALLS BACK

Baldwin, which recently enjoyed a brisk advance on rumors of four-for-one split up, fell back 6½ points. American Express dropped 4½, and such recent favorites as Allied Chemical, International Nickel, U. S. Realty, Johns Manville, Goodyear and Woolworth sold 3 to 4 points below yesterday's closing quotations.

Some liquidation developed in the non-ferrous metal shares on fears that the recent rise in copper metal prices would lead to the increased use of substitutes.

Prices were unable to hold a definite course during the last hour. Railroad equipments were heavily bought for a time, Baldwin Locomotive approximating its 1919 high. Texas Gulf Sulphur developed pronounced strength and Midland Steel Products preferred mounted 7 points. Intermittent selling broke out in the coppers, oils and merchandising shares. The close was irregular. Total sales approximated 4,500,000 shares.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, March 21.—Complete absence of any mention of high winds over wheat territory southwest, the crop menace most feared at present, did a good deal to make wheat values today drag lower. Another factor tending to ease the wheat market was announcement that seeding of spring wheat has started in Illinois. Besides, Argentine wheat shipments for the week were estimated at 5,734,000 bushels against 5,604,000 bushels a year ago.

Corn developed strength on account of shipping business here the past two days being the best so far this year.

Wheat closed nervous, ⅝@1⅛ to ⅝@⅝c net lower, corn unchanged to ⅝c up, oats unchanbed to ⅛c advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12c.

Advices at hand today in connection with easiness shown by the Liverpool wheat market said that abandonment of winter wheat acreage was expected to be about normal in most European countries. On the other hand, it was noted that nervousness existed abroad on account of the United States continuing to withhold its surplus from world markets. Meanwhile, domestic crop reports as a rule indicated no more damage than usual at this date.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Local Securities Steady — New York Curb Market

ARKANSAS GAS ADVANCES IN STOCK TRADING HERE

Trading was moderately active, but prices showed no important changes in the early market on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today.

Arkansas Gas was the center of trading activity during the forenoon with the stock moving up again to the previous high of 5½. Buying has been rather steady for the past several days and the strength is attributed to expectations of favorable developments in connection with the recent authorization of an increase of 4,000,000 shares in common capital, bringing the total to above 8,000,000 shares. It is expected that this additional stock, or part of it, will be offered to present shareholders on favorable terms. There is also a rumor in the street that the company will retire its $21,000,000 of 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock. This would leave a $13,000,000 bond issue as the only issue senior to the common. Arkansas earnings are understood to be expanding steadily and additions to the present properties, said to be in contemplation, will add further to the earning power.

There were no conspicuous changes in other directions. Carnegie Metals held most of the gain scored yesterday when buying came into the market on reports that the Mexican revolution would not affect the company's mines in Zacatecas.

The industrial issues were fairly active and steady. Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt, in the unlisted section, displayed a firm tone following its reactionary tone yesterday. Blaw Knox was steady between 43¾ and 44. Allegheny Steel sold again at 81 at the start of business, unchanged from the previous level.

Lone Star Gas was also unchanged at 71 in the initial dealings.

Standard Steel Propeller, which was admitted to the New York Curb today, was strong in the local market and rallied back to $39 a share in the dealings here. Yesterday the stock sagged off to 38. The issue also displayed strength in the eastern market.

THURSDAY, April 11, 1929, for Three Million ($3,000,000) Dollars school loan on conditions as follows:

THREE MILLION DOLLARS ($3,000,000) SCHOOL LOAN

for the purpose of raising the necessary funds for procuring sites and erecting and equipping buildings and additions for elementary and high schools in said School District under the provisions of an Act of Assembly entitled, "An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, etc," approved May 18, 1911, (P. L. 309); authorized by resolution of The Board of Public Education of the School District of Pittsburgh, adopted March 19, 1929.

The bonds are serial with maturities beginning on the first day of April, 1930, and annually thereafter, until and including April 1, 1959, one hundred bonds maturing each year.

Bonds will be in denominations of $1,000 in coupon form, which may be registered as to principal only and are payable, principal and interest, in gold coin of the present standard of weight and fineness.

The principal sum will bear interest at the rate of four and one-quarter per centum per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of April and October; the first payment of interest to be on the first day of October, 1929; said loan and interest are payable free from all taxes in Pennsylvania.

The School District of Pittsburgh will submit a bid for Bonds Nos. 1 to 200 inclusive; aggregating the sum of $200,000, and maturing April 1st, 1930 and 1931, and, if awarded, said bonds will purchase them for the Sinking Funds of the School District.

PROPOSALS MUST BE UNCONDITIONAL AND MADE UPON THE PRESCRIBED FORM OF BLANKS, TO BE OBTAINED UPON APPLICATION AT THE OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY.

No bid, except that of the School District, will be considered unless accompanied by a certified check drawn to the order of the Treasurer of the School District of Pittsburgh for two per centum of the par value of the bonds bid for.

Checks accompanying bids not accepted will be returned to the bidders promptly. Checks of successful bidders will be held until the last of the bonds bid for by the depositor has been taken and paid for. No interest allowed on check until acceptance of bid, and thereafter interest will be allowed thereon at four per centum per annum.

Settlement in full for the loan awarded must be made with the School Treasurer on or before May 14, 1929, at three o'clock P. M., and include payment of accrued interest from April 1, 1929, to day of settlement.

The Board of Public Education reserves the right to reject any or all proposals, or award any portion of the loan, as it may deem best for the interest of the School District of Pittsburgh.

The proceedings for this loan and the legality of the issue have been approved by J. Rodgers McCreery, Esq., and Reed, Smith and McClay, Esqs., of Pittsburgh, and a copy of their letters attesting legality may be had on application.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 21.—(AP.)—The curb market turned generally heavy today, as money rates continued high and traders preferred to mark time pending the outcome of the meetings of the New York Federal Reserve directors this afternoon, and of the Chicago Reserve directors tomorrow. Call money renewed at 9 per cent and some funds were said to have been brought in by high rate, but bankers' acceptances were stepped up ¼ of one per cent, carying the rates ½ of a point and more above the Federal Reserve rediscount rate.

Ford Motor of Canada was again flightly, falling 28 points to 962 at the opening, then ralying to 970. Auburn Auto was a strong point, shooting up 7 points on reports of heavy sales of its new models. Bohn Aluminum mounted over 2 points, Aviation Corporation was traded around 21, failing to show much response to the announcement of the plan to acquire Universal. Fox Theaters "A" and General Electric of England were heavy, each losing about a point. The new International Telephone stock traded on a when-issued basis around 72.

Oils were strong in the early trading, in response to yesterday's upturn in this group on the "big board," but ran into selling before noon. Standard of Ohio was a strong point, mounting 4 points. Imperial gained 3 points, then sagged. Humble and Indiana shares turned heavy. Indiana will sell ex the 50 per cent stock dividend tomorrow.

In the mines, Newmont fell back 3 points to 218. United Verde Extension, which has been strong of late, sold off in "selling on the good news" of the higher dividend rate. Anaconda rights jumped to a new peak at 35 and New Cornelia and Shattuck Denn were firm.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 amitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

GULF OIL PUTS SURPLUS BACK IN BUSINESS

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE Gulf Oil Corporation earned its dividends nearly 5½ times in 1928, but in spite of this the company will continue its policy of putting the lion's share of profits back into the business. It is this policy that has made Gulf one of the most strongly entrenched organizations in the industry.

That there is little hope at this time for an increased dividend return was indicated yesterday when W. L. Mellon, the president, said that the management believed it prudent to continue the policy of reinvesting the surplus earnings for reinvestment.

In an industry noted for its hazards, Gulf has shown a consistent year in and year out growth. Regardless of conditions in the oil business, the company has emerged a bigger organization at the end of each year.

SINCE 1922 the total investment in plants has more than doubled. The total assets have nearly doubled. In that time it has never failed to earn its present dividend rate of $1.50 a share annually at least twice. This record has been made after charging drilling costs to operations and making very liberal charges for depreciation and depletion.

Last year Gulf earned $36,325,140 after all charges. This was equivalent to $8.06 a share on the 4,404,921 shares of $25 par stock. Although it was only a moderately good year for the oil companies, the net profit was the greatest in the company's history. It compared with $13,717,217 or $3.08 a share in 1927, a lean year, and with $35,098,078 or $7.95 a share in 1926, the previous record.

THE provision made for depreciation, depletion and the amortization of leases last year was greater the net profit. These deductions from earnings totaled $39,765,727 of which $33,239,671 was for depreciation and $6,526,056 was for depletion and lease amortization.

During the year $49,000,000 was spent on additions to properties and plants. This was less than the $67,000,000 spent in 1927. Last year's additions included the enlargement of pipe line and storage systems, an addition to the Philadelphia refinery, increases in the tanker fleet and new bulk and retail distributing stations.

After making these additions properties and plants had a total value of $361,641,697. Against this total reserves for depreciation and depletion amounted to $222,406,712.

THE funded debt amounts to only $65,904,000. The company has no preferred stock. The earned surplus at the close of the year amounted to $166,155,731, an increase of $29,647,354 after paying dividends of $6,703,125 and making adjustments. The capital surplus was increased $4,992,344 to $14,524,416 through the sale of additional stock to employes at prices above par.

Last year's operations, in addition to providing for improvements to physical properties, resulted in an increase of $20,134,533 in working capital. Current assets on December 31, 1928, amounted to $131,556,717. They were 7.9 times current liabilities.

INVESTMENTS in other companies increased $7,215,771 during the year to a total of $12,211,521. The purchase of additional stock in foreign marketing companies accounted for $5,000,000 of this.

The present dividend rate has been in effect since January 1, 1923. From 1914 to 1922, 6 per cent annually was paid on the old $100 par stock which was split on a 12-for-1 basis into the present $25 par stock in November, 1922. The change in the capitalization at that time was equivalent to a 200 per cent stock dividend with a corresponding increase in dividend return.

Notice is hereby given that an application will be presented to the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, on the 12th day of April, 1929, at 9:30 o'clock a. m., or as soon thereafter as this case will hear the same under the terms of the Act of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania entitled "An act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of certain corporations," approved April 29th, 1874 and the supplements thereto, for the allowance and approval of certain amendments to the charter of the above-named corporation, which amendments are to the effect as follows.

That the purpose for which said corporation is formed as stated in the second article of said Charter be amended so as to read,

"the support of the public worship of Almighty God in accordance with the faith, doctrine and discipline and usages of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America."

Second, that an additional article be placed in the Charter in the following words:

Ninth. All property, real or personal, which shall hereafter be acquired by this corporation, shall be held as in trust for purposes of religious work and worship in conformity with the doctrine, discipline and usages of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America; but the corporation, by action of its lay members as above stated, and in conformity with the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, shall have full power to sell, mortgage, or otherwise convey or dispose of any such property, the funds arising from such sale, mortgage or sale, or otherwise acquired, however being held subject to the trust above stated but no purchaser or any property shall be obliged to see to the application of the purchase money for the same."

"In case of the dissolution of this dorporation, or of its ceasing to function as a Presbyterian Church in connection with the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, the title to all such property previously held by this corporation shall become vested in the Presbytery of Pittsburgh and held in trust by said Presbytery for the same uses above specified; and the same shall be the case with respect to the title of any property which shall be abandoned by said corporation at any time."

All of which is set forth in the petition presented to this court at the above number and term, on the 19th day of February, 1929, and now on file in the office of the Prothonotary of said court, praying that said amendments shall be made as above stated.

BUGS BAER Says

RAISINS IN THE CABINET PUDDING

WE must admire the suddenness with which Mr. Hoover chose up sides.

He picked his cabinet team without the usual spring training.

The President puts 10 men in the field every administration.

They have it very easy. First, Manager Hoover wins the pennant alone. Then he chooses his team.

All the Secretary of State has to do is meet the President, call for order and then separate the contestants.

He makes treaties with the Far East, the Near West and the Medium South. The office is an imperturbable accomplishment that fixes the boundaries of the world as a high hat and spats.

The Treasury is in the surplus suburbs and Andy Mellon is its prophet. Andy has lived on government property so long that he is liable to will it to the Smithsonial Institute.

The Secretary of War confines his military activities to the breechblock of a fountain pen. America is always at peace until somebody brings the subject up.

The Department of Justice, whose patron saint is a blindfolded lady who has never indorsed a cigaret, spins along peacefully in its humdrum of equity and its cure.

This department pays Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt $9,000 a year and we think the department earns it.

The Postoffice Department does the work of all the other departments. Whenever there is trouble, the letter carriers go to war. But you never heard of the Secretary of War delivering Christmas packages to help the Postmaster General out.

The Secretary of Navy reviews the fleet when it is in drydock and is a full admiral of blue prints.

You hear of the Interior Department every time the Secretary resigns.

Then there is a Secretary of Agriculture. He doesn't help the farmers out. He has a bouncer for that purpose.

The Secretaries of Commerce and Labor complete the executive list of 10 men who assist the President in making important decisions on trivial details.

These jobs have become very attractive since the weekly news reels have been wired for sound.

Practical Thoughts For Practical Men

It is easy to sit down. But is it graceful? You should not drop into a chair as though you were all tired out and void of interest in the better things of life. Sit down gradually, calmly, and impress others with your character and poise.

In other words, separate the feet. Place one foot near the chair, or nearly so. Incline the body forward from the waist. Bend the knee nearest the chair slightly. Let the other leg rest on the extended heel. Be sure to keep the balance. Permit the heel to slide gradually outward as you sink to a correct sitting position.

In rising, it is not necessary to grip the chair. Place your hands, fingers interlaced, over the knee. Incline your body forward, at the same time pulling on the knee until you find yourself in the standing position. It is immaterial whether or not you sit down again.

Chicago Isn't the Only Tough Spot for a Mayor

(Lamar, Mo., Democrat)

DR. DIMOND was taken into custody about 3:30 Friday afternoon and locked in the calaboose. Dr. Dimond was first accosted by Marshal Shepherd. The latter got him down the street just opposite the calaboose and there the prisoner stopped and began to argue. About this time Mayor Combs came along and observed to the marshal that he ought to go on and put the prisoner in jail. At this the doctor became angry at the mayor and started to pull off his coat and go after the Mayor.

About this time Nightwatch Smed Evilsizer came along. He got on one side of the prisoner with the marshal on the other, and they soon boosted him across the street to the calaboose.

Claude Yates was arrested shortly after the arrest of the Doctor. Claude had been drunk all day.

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

Now, Not Eventually, Time To End Coal Police Evil

At a hearing on the administration coal and iron police bill in Harrisburg several Pittsburgh clergymen declared their opposition to it. Later they visited Gov. John S. Fisher, who is said to have expressed sympathy with their views and to have stated that his aim eventually is to make impossible the granting of sovereign powers to private forces.

Gov. Fisher's intent is praiseworthy, but why make two bites of a cherry? There never was a more propitious time than the present for the state to rid itself of the shame of permitting private corporations to hire men of murderous proclivities, arm them with the authority of the commonwealth, and turn them loose to create terror and outlawry in the district in which they are employed.

Are we altogether impervious to the darts of scorn that this ignoble system causes to be shot at us? Besides printed criticisms, United States Senators and other investigators have denounced the coal and iron police emphatically.

Yet in the face of all this unfavorable publicity Gov. Fisher's plans are that the shame will not be removed until that remote time that is expressed as "eventually."

Now is the time to right this deplorable matter. Now is the time the people of the state have a very lively recollection of the reign of terror created by this un-American organization in recent months. Now is the time they still retain the feeling of horror caused by the brutal murder of a defenseless minor, beaten to death.

Pennsylvania cannot afford to let this shame continue.

The administration police bill has the virtue of being an improvement on the present law, but, as the Sun-Telegraph has pointed out, and as the protestants who went to Harrisburg stressed, it does not go far enough. The worst feature of it is that it continues the coal and iron police as a privately paid organization. As such they will be loyal to those who pay them, just as they now are.

The coal mines are entitled to protection. If greater safety than is possible with watchmen is demanded it should be given, as private citizens receive it, through a public officer of the law.

Local Dope Cases Show Insufficiency of Law

In the Federal Court in Erie a Castle Shannon man pleaded guilty to violation of the Harrison narcotic act and was sentenced to serve three months in the Allegheny County jail. The sentence was imposed for the purpose of curing him of the dope habit. The difficulty of doing that is implied in the fact that on a former occasion he had pleaded guilty to a similar offense.

Were the institutions provided for in the recently enacted federal law for the cure of narcotic addicts in operation this man, evidently at the state where craving for dope has become a disease, would be made a hospital patient instead of a jail prisoner.

At the same time a Uniontown man was sentenced to Atlanta for three years. On two previous occasions the same man had been sentenced to 18 months and two years in Atlanta. He was accused of being a dope peddler. The court commented that his next offense would net him five years.

Both of these cases illustrate the insufficiency of the law in dealing with narcotic cases. With other drug cases, six in all before the grand jury and court in one day, they point out the prevalence of the narcotic evil locally. In one case a man suffering from a malady goes to jail instead of a hospital. In another an old offender is to be shut up for three years. On his court record alone he stands as one of the greatest menaces to society. He may reform, but the history of narcotic addiction indicates that he will be before the court again, for which he is promised five years. The harm he may do between one sentence and another is impossible to estimate.

When the gravity of the dope evil is fully realized there will be a Baumes narcotic law. A third conviction will stamp an accused man as a confirmed narcotic criminal and he will be put away for life. That is a drastic outlook, but not too severe when it is considered that drug addiction and dope peddling constitute the worst evil in this country today.

War's By-Product

It Puts Up the Price of Peas and Tomatoes.

Mexico's war interests the American housewife and American producers of early fruits and vegetables. Already early peas and tomatoes have risen in price, and prices will go higher.

Shipments from Mexico had been steadily increasing, with no adequate tariff protection for farmers in Florida, California and along the Gulf Coast.

That, doubtless, will be noticed in the "farm relief" special session. Since this country excludes foreign labor, to protect workers, all the more reason for excluding products of foreign labor competing on uneven terms with producers here.

If foreign labor were admitted it would at least work for American wages.

What a Line!

English Painter Praises American Girls.

American girls have been toasted and hymned by foreign visitors until there has seemed to be nothing left unsaid, but surely this eulogy by E. A. Verpilleux, an English painter, deserves attention:

"The ensemble effect of the American girl is overwhelming. She is a thing of verve, grace, alertness, wholesomeness and charm. I would not have believed there were so many truly beautiful girls in the world as I have met here."

And, says the young woman who sent us the clipping from Palm Beach, isn't every word of it true? He doesn't know the half of it! Those words should be set to music!

They Don't Last Long -:- By Hatlo

Tales That Are Told

Then Came a Verbal Report

A SERGEANT was drilling the recruit squad in the use of the rifle. Everything went smoothly until blank cartridges were distributed.

The recruits were instructed to load their guns and stand "ready."

Then the sergeant gave the command: "Fire at will!"

One recruit lowered his gun.

"Which one is Will?" he asked.

Stretching to Order

A LADY advertised for a maid and was showing an applicant for the place over the house.

She had been very liberal in her promises—afternoons off, evenings out, and so on—and it looked as though the two had come to an agreement, when, just as she was leaving the house, the girl asked:

"Do you do your own stretchin'?"

"Do we do what?" asked the puzzled mistress.

"Stretchin'," repeated the girl. "Do you put all the food on the table at dinner and stretch for it, or must I pass it around?"

An Appetite!

THE traveler, arriving late at his destination, had to be content with cold chicken for his evening meal.

When he had finished he noticed a tramp outside the window eyeing the remainder of the chicken hungrily, so he passed it through to him.

A year later the traveler called at the same hotel for another meal and was recognized by a waitress. She sought out the manager and, pointing to the visitor, said, excitedly:

"There 'e is, sir! That's the man who ate the chicken—bones an' all!"

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was a doctor that believed everything could be helped a lot by being real cheerful. In fact, he said he found out that most of his patients were so glum that they almost made him sick. So he used to tell them to grin and sing.

He says to one big fellow, "Why, you're strong and healthy. You must get more cheerful, and this is how to do it. As you go about your hardest work, you must sing a little silly song and grin. A little song about the flowers that bloom in the spring."

"No, I can't do that. I'd lose my job."

"Nonsense! You'd be more popular than ever on your job. What do you do for a living?"

"I'm a grand opera singer."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

EDITH ALLEN hates her ex-husband. She treats him as a criminal.

How did he dare become indifferent to her after all the years of devotion she had given him? How did he dare give his love to another woman? Only a man utterly lacking in decency could do such a thing!

"He promised he'd love me forever," she wails. "He lied to me—he cheated me—it's the cruelest sort of a crime!"

Edith Allen truly thinks her ex-husband is a criminal and the majority of people will agree with her. But it ISN'T a crime to stop loving. It may be both unwise and tragic, but it isn't a crime. And, as a matter of fact, there's very little we can do about it.

Love, like the wind, bloweth where it listeth. We cannot force it to come into our lives nor can we force it to remain in our lives.

ALL THE PROMISES IN THE WORLD CAN'T BIND PEOPLE TO LOVE FOREVER—NOR ARE THEY CRIMINALS IF SUCH PROMISES ARE BROKEN.

Our indignation at vanished love is rooted in our own selfishness. We want to own love. We want to possess that other life—to bind it to our service perpetually. When it refuses to stay bound we feel like a slave owner whose slave has escaped—cheated, wronged.

But, as a matter of fact, we have been neither cheated nor wronged. We have never owned that other life, we have no lasting title to its love. If it chooses to go its way it has that right. If it chooses to bestow itself upon another, it has that right. And we should allow it to go with dignity and respect, however bitter our loss.

Marriage would be a very different thing if we would accept this fact. If instead of feeling that the marriage ceremony gave us a deed to each other, we realized that love must be won anew each day and retained by beautiful and intelligent service, marriage would continue to be a romantic adventure. But we will not accept this viewpoint. We insist that love is a tangible possession and that any one who takes it from us is a thief in the night.

And the law actually backs us up in this connection by permitting suits for alienation of affection. Nothing could be more absurd. If an affection wishes to be alienated it has a perfect right to be so. The result may be deplorable, but the right persists.

IF YOU CAN'T HOLD LOVE, THAT'S YOUR BAD LUCK, MY FRIEND—NOT THE OTHER FELLOW'S FELONY.

THE "MOON ROCKET"

By Garrett P. Serviss

"It has been my understanding that the success of sending a rocket to the moon by means of a succession of explosions would be possible only if there were air to push against. I recently read in an article of yours that this impression is not correct. Why?
"R. McKINNEY, Pittsburgh."

I WILL try to show you why. The explanation rests upon Newton's "third law of motion," which reads that "to every action there is always opposed an equal reaction."

A rocket is driven by the expansive force of an explosive. This force in whatever direction it acts is opposed by an equal reacting force. The reacting force does not depend upon any resistance outside the rocket. Here are three or four little pictures which illustrate the action of an explosive force. In No. 1 we see an explosion taking place in open space, where there is no resistance, or only that of the surrounding air, equal on all sides. As the picture shows, the explosion drives outward all around, and the reactive force is concentrated upon the center. It is somewhat as if you arranged a circle of field guns, butt against butt, and fired them all simultaneously with equal powder charges. They would simply kick against one another, and unless in a mutual smash there would be no motion of the guns. On the other hand, the outward force of the explosion would blow objects away on all sides.

Now look at figure 2, which I have called "Jules Verne's Predicament." It shows the reaction of an open-air explosion against the side of a movable body. Verne's imaginary projectile, missing its target, fell into a closed orbit around the moon, and he invented the device of exploding a torpedo against the outside to start it back to the earth.

Go on now to figure 3. This shows the explosion taking place inside the breech of a gun. The force is confined so that it is effective in producing motion in only two opposed directions. One is out of the barrel of the gun, driving the projectile before it; the other is backward against the breech, driving the gun backward with a velocity proportioned to the weight of the gun compared with the resistance. In this case the momentum is equal in both directions, but the velocity of the imparted motions is not the same, being proportional to the mass of the gun relative to that of the bullet. Momentum is measured by mass multiplied by velocity.

Here at last we have the rocket. You see that is a kind of gun with the breech knocked off. The explosive force is so confined that it produces motion in only one direction (except that it blows the air away from the bottom), and that is the direction of the head of the rocket. If you took the air away entirely the rocket would go because the explosive force drives in all directions in which it is not restrained by a resistance greater than itself. The weight of the rocket is less than the force of the explosion, so away it sails skyward. I may add that this is no mere theory, but careful experiments have proved that it is thus that a rocket acts. Therefore, other requirements being satisfied, a man-carrying rocket might traverse the vacant space between the earth and the moon.

Bible Passages

David Praiseth God

(Psalm 57)

BE merciful unto me, O God, be merciful unto me: for my soul trusteth in thee: yea, in the shadow of thy wings will I make my refuge, until these calamities be overpast.

I will cry unto God most high; unto God that performeth all things for me.

He shall send from heaven, and save me from the reproach of him that would swallow me up. Selah. God shall send forth his mercy and his truth.

My soul is among lions: and I lie even among them that are set on fire, even the sons of men, whose teeth are spears and arrows, and their tongue a sharp sword.

Be thou exalted, O God, above the heavens; let thy glory be above all the earth.

They have prepared a net for my steps; my soul is bowed down: they have digged a pit before me, into the midst whereof they are fallen themselves. Selah.

My heart is fixed, O God, my heart is fixed: I will sing and give praise.

Wake up my glory; awake, psaltery and harp: I myself will awake early.

I will praise thee, O Lord, among the people: I will sing unto thee among the nations.

For the mercy is great unto the heavens, and thy truth unto the clouds.

Be thou exalted, O God, above the heavens: let thy glory be above all the earth.

The Rhyming Optimist

Questions

If I bring you laughter
Only for a day,
Will you prize me after
Joy has flown away?

If I weave you fancies
Airy as the mist
Where the moonlight dances
And the fays keep tryst,

Will your love still linger
When their spell is gone,
At the chilling finger
Of the spectral dawn?

Questions are but folly:
None can fathom love,
Joy or melancholy
Both alluring prove.

Be it tears or laughter,
Be it shade or sun,
I will love you after
All life's web is spun.

On Toward Millenium!

By Herbert Kaufman

LIKE the bantam rooster who found an ostrich egg and rolled it home to show his hens, no one wishes to make invidious comparisons, but here are a few recent developments, "to let you know what the neighbors are doing."

Dr. Fischer, of Munich, after a seventeen-year quest, discloses synthetic hemoglobin—a substitute for deficient iron-carrying corpuscles, which clear the lungs of spent oxygen. Sufferers from anemia, take note.

Dr. Banting, of insulin fame, now hopes to locate the secret of indefinite longevity in the "royal jelly" on which queen bees feed.

Bio-chemistry, in partnership with mathematics, has evolved a precise formula to pre-determine and pre-establish the sex of children.

Professor Esau, manifestly not a descendant of the pottage-eater, has invented a miniature wireless device to annihilate germs and insects—even small vermin—with short-wave "death rays."

Civilization, at bay against Japanese beetles and other crop destroyers, will not stint laurel wreaths or glory to the genius that snatches tomorrow's food supply from blight and pest.

And, if his machine keeps its promises, every household will soon have its radio rat-trap.

Word that Sergius, of Heidelberg, extracts oil from lignite coal is balanced by news that Dr. Rittman produces bituminous from the by-products of Kansas crude oil.

Rittman, incidentally, is the young gentleman who made a free gift of his gasoline-cracking process to the whole refining industry, because he has "ideals as well as ideas."

Since he is a professional worker, the income tax, however, exacts a higher percentage of his earnings than it takes from self-benefiters without either.

Professor Harding, of Boston Tech, provides importers with a transatlantic shade-matcher, with which any tint in the spectrum can be wirelessly ordered, as per sample, in a split eye-wink.

And the English Marconi Company warms diplomatic hearts by perfecting a method to safeguard code messages from listeners-in.

Beyrllium, twice as strong as steel, half the weight of aluminum, and hard enough to cut glass, will, according to Dr. H. I. Jones, make possible four-hundred-horsepower aeroplane motors that the average man can tote under his arm.

But all tidings aren't so cheerful. Warnings are rife against the increase of industrial diseases. Progress isn't entirely beer and skittles. We pay heavily for some of our short-cuts.

Efficiency brings perils as well as profits in its wake. And the newest menace to factory hands lurks in chromium-plating, whose vapors ulcerize the membranes and even eat holes in nasal cartilage.

But, turning from dark clouds to silver linings, American agriculture will be pleased to hear how explorers, watching jungle birds build their nests, happened up on a weed in British Guiana which yields a staple very similar to cotton.

It is being so successfully grown through several English counties, that Midland mills believe that they will soon have a domestic fiber sufficient for all coarse weaving requirements.

Wizardville-on-the-Hudson (alias Schenectady) exhibits a lamp that alternately delivers illumination or sound.

And the California Grape Growers' Association is signing contracts for ethyl alcohol, cream of tartar, phosphates and fertilizers, reclaimed from vine-prunings and former wastes.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 21.—The reaction of New York audiences to stage ribaldry this season first blew hot, then very cold. At the kickoff they seemed vastly amused at such guttery epithets as were snarled in "The Front Page," but in a short time began to yawn and thumb program pages.

The stage was leaving nothing to intellient imagination. It picked up the rough burr of the stevedore and exploited it in the drawing room. The lollipop, hand on hip, smirked across the stage lisping pansied phrases. Topics merely hinted by Paris weeklies were openly discussed.

The craze for perversion themes stirred many respectable newspapers to righteous protest. Where were the censors? The censors made a few desultory raids on flagrant obscenity, but in most cases sat idly by and permitted producers to hang themselves, which they did neatly.

One of the shrewd producers who contributed largely to the rowdiness of the season has declared privately stage licentiousness has shot its bolt. The public is glutted, and he believes next season will see the stage purged of filth.

Six months ago plays slyly reveling in situations that would shame a peep show played to capacity. Prices skyrocketed and inquisitive but timid ladies came wearing veils. Then it was noticed many began to depart right in the midst of the washroom dialogue, completely disgusted.

A theatrical ticket agency announces patrons are now telephoning for seat reservations to plays that do not contain a suggestive line or gesture. Revue producers are quickly doing away with these smutty blackout skits that dramatized the off-color story of the Pullman smoker.

Players themselves have become alarmed over the public attitude toward filth. A fine American actress was shunted to comparative obscurity for several years, following her appearance in a drama with a pathological motif not discussed outside medical text books.

Wall Street's recent prosperity jag gave New York a stretch of reckless spending it never knew before. Great jewelry houses actually ran out of huge diamonds for brief periods. Three agents made hurried trips to Paris and Amsterdam to replenish the supply. The most lavish dinners ever held were also a feature. One hotel had six $50-a-plate dinners in a week. Premiums were paid for private dining rooms. Tailors, haberdashers, gown shops, florists and others dealing in luxuries rolled up bigger receipts in a month than in 12 months preceding. And then came the eclipse.

Times Square merchants are not blowing kisses at the new theatrical traffic plan. What proved to be the theater's meat has become mercantile poison in the district. Cafe receipts shrank alarmingly, diners visiting restaurants outside the zone where they could park their cars. Nearly all the moving picture offices have moved, too, and this is a swing from the ankle for the luncheon trade. The specialty shops have suffered, and unless business picks up the hand wringers plan something drastic.

And proprietors of hideaway speakeasies on the lower East Side, where excellent food and rare grin juice draw uptown carriage customers are suffering a slump for a different reason. Their problem is the street hoodlum. The young rascals sneak upon expensive limousines and with their knives scrape unprintable words on the paint.

By renting resk room in a luxurious suite of offices in the Forty-second street district for $30 a month, a nimble witted gentleman, whose address now is probably Timbuctoo, gave gullible shopkeepers the impression he occupied the entire space. He secured $7,000 worth of credit in two weeks and was seen no more.

Yeah? And a few bankers grow careless, too. I know several who grew so careless they had to grow whiskers and hike for South America.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

WHEN you allow yourself to envy the person who is able to go to a comfortable and pleasant climate in winter, and who has luxuries you cannot afford, you rob yourself of the enjoyment which you might have.

Your boss goes to Florida or to California each winter.

Perhaps you think there is something wrong with a system which enables him to do thus and will not permit you to have play spells.

In all probability many, many hours, while you were enjoying yourself, he was thinking and working out business problems which resulted in profit to himself and employment for you.

Most successful business men have had years of unceasing thought and toil toward the one goal.

You have put in your working time in so many hours a day and thrown off all thought of the work in which you were engaged when you stopped work.

You have preferred to divide your play time over the most of the years of your life.

Instead, the one you envy has thrown aside all thoughts of pleasure, preferring to gain it later in life when enough had been accumulated to make it possible.
